

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE

The work done by The Grafton Press, in its production of this much admired volume of genealogical accuracy and completeness, reflects great credit upon itself. Throughout its publication the wise business methods of Mr. F. H. Hitchcock and the mechanical ability of Mr. T. B. Hitchcock are shown.

Miss Elizabeth French, a careful and experienced genealogist, has revised and edited the manuscript, advancing it into that order of perfect finish, which none but an honest and conscientious professional could do.

Miss Emma E. Brigham, connected with the Boston office of The Grafton Press, has shown, by her services, her knowledge of matters pertaining to genealogical publication.

My congratulations are extended to these faithful students and workers in that they have brought out a genealogy worthy of their professions.

The compiler also desires to record his obligations to the numerous individuals who have given gratuitous and valuable assistance in the preparation of this genealogy, in addition to furnishing records of separate family lines; also to the custodians of public records who have been helpful to him.

Miss Lucy Morris Chaffee, now Mrs. Lucius D. Alden, of Hampden, Mass. (formerly South Wilbraham), wrote of the desires of her family for the publication of a genealogy long before the idea had entered the mind of the compiler. A quotation from a letter written a few weeks after the writer's call upon Mr. Daniel D. Chaffee, her father, a call made to substantiate the records he had secured of his own immediate ancestors in previous years, is as follows:

"Father told Uncle Edwin Chaffee [residence, Providence, R. I.] of your call here and he adds in his late letter to father, 'I hope that William Chaffee will proceed with the publication of our Genealogy.' [Signed] Lucy M. Chaffee, South Wilbraham, Mass., October 27, 1865."

The various copies which she made of church and town records and tombstone inscriptions, besides visits to many who bore the surname, did much to straighten out many tangled lineages of that section.

The compiler's daughter, Bertha Eliza Chaffee, started quite early in her young life to help her father in compiling this genealogy, and continued to do so for several years until the illness came which eventually resulted in her death. The many articles of manuscript which she wrote have been much admired by the editor and publishers as showing a clearness of chirography, as well as a careful arrangement of the facts.

Mr. Floyd Mayham Grant of Schoharie, N. Y., to whom she was betrothed, rendered assistance in this compilation, to within a short time of his death, which took place four years before that of Miss Chaffee. Sadness and gloom settled upon the work when both of these bright lights went out.

Mr. Noah Cummings of Schenevus, N. Y., a college chum of Mr. Grant, offered his services at this time, and has, by his energy and faithfulness, rendered for the last few years and up to the present time, invaluable assistance in compilation, and in many other ways has hastened the publication of this genealogical work. Too much cannot be said of the kindly and efficient help given by Mr. Cummings, and the writer's wish for a long and happy life for this young civil engineer and his youthful bride, is not out of place at this moment.

Mr. Edward J. Chaffee of New York City was interested in the work from its start, and shared some of the early expenditures connected with it; besides making abstract copies of deeds, etc., he has always been in close touch with the progress of the undertaking.

Mr. Samuel Roscoe Chaffee, artist, of Providence, R. I., made much research in the old towns of Barrington, R. I., Swansea, Rehoboth and Seekonk, Mass., and the two pictures illustrating the ancient family burial places are photographs from the artist's original water colors of these interesting spots. Mr. Chaffee and his wife did much to assist the compiler in seeking for records in this part of New England, where our earliest ancestors lived and died.

Mr. Jonathan F. Morris (deceased) formerly President of Charter Oak Bank, Hartford, Conn., author of The Morris Register and a descendant of Sarah Chaffee (238), gave many valuable suggestions regarding collateral lineage and genealogical procedure.

Mr. Andrew Jackson Chaphe of St. Louis, Mo., has been an enthusiastic supporter of this undertaking from the time the subject was first presented to him. He not only gave for the genealogy a complete account of his own life, together with his portrait, but secured full lineages of his relatives with pictures of several individuals. More than this, he increased his original subscription of eight copies to five times that number, and in addition to this noble subscription, has made several contributions, amounting to $160.00, making a grand total of $560.00. Without this splendid recognition of the compiler's effort, this genealogy would be an unpublished manuscript. Mr. Chaphe has made it possible for this family history to be published, and to him we all owe appreciative recognition of his most generous gifts.

Mr. Peter Chaffee (from whom was received the Bible of our ancestor, Thomas Chaffe), and his son Mr. N. O. Chaffee, both of East Woodstock, Conn., were very helpful in collecting data from that section.

Mr. Asa Peck (deceased) the late owner of Thomas Chaffe's ancient homestead near Barrington Center, R. I., extended his kind hospitality to the compiler, enabling him to thoroughly examine this revered spot, so dear to all those who claim descent from this emigrant ancestor. Mr. Peck's kindness was further shown in his presentation of several very old deeds, which will be found recorded in this book.

Mr. Dan Chaffee, formerly of Westford, Conn., furnished some of the early lineages of that vicinity, thus enabling the compiler to connect various lines.

Mr. J. D. Chaffee of Gilbertsville, N. Y., presented letters referring to the surname received by him many years ago.

Mrs. Lucetta Davis (Chaffee) Howlett of Hampden, Mass., travelled to many places in her old age, to secure and prove lineage.

Miss Hattie A. Chaffee of Minneapolis, Minn., was untiring in her zeal to gather not only that which related to her noble ancestor, William Chaffee of Stony Point, but used much effort to secure other lines.

Mrs. S. C. Snow with Mrs. Wheeler of Becket, Mass., traversed that part of Berkshire County, beside visiting several towns and burial places in the vicinity, thereby securing much valuable information.

Mrs. Bayer, with her sister, Miss Mary J. Chaffee, of Binghamton, N. Y., showed much interest in collecting lines of ancestry in adjacent towns.

Mr. Prentiss Chaffee and his nephew, Mr. Joseph C. Chaffee, both of Lee, Mass., did a great deal by correspondence and verbal communication to make clear various tangled lines.

Mr. Brown Thurston of Portland, Me., author of The Thurston Genealogies, made many valuable suggestions regarding the manner of compiling a genealogy.

David J. Chaffee, M. D., of Rochester, N. Y., an early subscriber, secured by long and continued effort a great deal of valuable information which he cheerfully contributed, with an interesting group picture of his near relatives.

Mrs. Lydia (Chaffee) Ormsbee and Mrs. Betsey Ormsbee (Chaffee) Armington, both of Seekonk, Mass., were instrumental in collecting old family lines and proving them to be correct.

Reverend Anson Titus made many satisfactory copies of records in Pennsylvania and the East.

Mrs. Almira (Chaffee) Thompson of Hampden, Mass., did much to secure information concerning family lines.

Mr. Clifford H. Chaffee of New York City, was much interested in securing lineages and arranging them in a very satisfactory manner.

Mr. Lucian Sharpe of Providence, R. I., was much interested in the work of genealogical research and contributed many early records of his Chaffee ancestors in Woodstock, Conn., and their various descendants.

Mr. Royal Paine of Brooklyn, N. Y., gave many interesting articles concerning early events in Windham County, Conn.

Mrs. J. E. Robinson of Taunton, Mass., in addition to abstract copies of deeds, made many gratuitous researches.

Mr. Stephen F. Chaphe and daughter Finette of Cazenovia, N. Y., were able to clearly define certain family lines for many generations back, which work they did most willingly.

Mr. Joseph McClellan and Miss Bessie Flynn of Woodstock, Conn., made particular and satisfactory researches among early church records.

Mr. S. W. Knevals of Washington, D. C., assisted very much in securing Civil War records.

Mr. Bertrand Chaffee of Springville, N. Y., took much pains to get early family records and to copy those upon tombstones.

Mr. C. Frank Chaffee (deceased) of East Providence, R. I., sent copies of tombstone records from one of the ancient Chaffee burial places, the old burying-ground which in early days was in Rehoboth, later in Seekonk, Mass., and now in Rumford village, East Providence, R. I.

Miss Nellie M. Chaffey of Eastport, Me., did much to secure valuable and interesting matter concerning the emigration of her ancestor to America from England.

Mr. George H. Whitaker of Westford, Conn., made many researches in and around Ashford, Conn.

Reverend Edwin J. Chaffee of Potsdam, N. Y., found and connected many family links.

Miss Minnie A. Chaffee of Providence, R. I., not only sent full and complete data of her own family, but also valuable information from Pennsylvania and the East.

Miss Belinda Chaffee, an aged lady in the Old Ladies' Home, in Lowell, Mass., was able by correspondence to gain much information which she gladly contributed, concerning the surname as found in various sections of Vermont.

Reverend R. G. Tilton of Rehoboth, Mass., sent many interesting items regarding the name as found in that section.

The present Mr. Zechariah Chafee of Providence, R. I., has done considerable toward making his family lines clear and connected.

Mr. Eugene W. Chaffee of Moodus, Conn., has been an interested contributor from the start of this project, doing all that was possible to make the genealogical venture a success.

Mr. Guy Chaffee of Colorado was exceedingly interested and for several years did much work by correspondence concerning various families bearing our surname. He was anxious to see the book in print, but failed to realize his expectations. He died at an advanced age. Several of his immediate descendants have continued to interest themselves in the subject which was so dear to him.

Mrs. Lovina Felton (Chaffee) Wheeler of Fairfax, Vt., secured complete lineages of all the descendants of her grandfather up to date.

Mrs. Leonora (Chaffee) Kimball of Little March, Pa., Mr. Wolcott Chaffee of Garrettsville, O., and Mr. George A. Chafee of Middletown, Conn., did much active work in securing lineages.

Miss Ellen D. Larned, author of The History of Windham County, Conn., and other historical publications, made researches in Thompson, Conn.

Mrs. Alvan Clark of Cambridgeport, Mass., whose husband and sons are widely known as manufacturers of celebrated telescopes, sent much information concerning her Chaffee relatives.

General Adna R. Chaffee has been an interested contributor from the beginning.

Mr. James S. Chaffee of Amenia Union, N. Y., has not only been a contributor of full and complete family lines, but is a liberal subscriber to the book.

George D. Chafee of Shelbyville, Ill., was early interested in the work in all of its detail and contributed much in the way of records, pictures and subscription.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gillette of Washington, D. C., contributed much valuable information, he sending copies of Revolutionary and early pension rolls, and those of the late Spanish-American War, she contributing family lines.

The Reverend William Kyle Westwood Chafy of Rous Lench Court, Evesham, England, became interested in the genealogical research of this family in that country as early as 1884, and his belief that we are all of one common ancestor prompted him to enter into a correspondence which was very interesting and filled with valuable information and kindly suggestion, all being exceedingly appreciated.

Reverend Canon H. Mayo of Sherborne, England, connected with the editorial staff of Somerset and Dorset Notes and Queries, employed much effort in trying to find the place and date of birth of the emigrant American ancestor, Thomas Chaffe, and frequently inserted in his paper, free of cost, advertisements bearing upon this query.

Reverend C. W. Penny, who in 1888 and 1889 was of Wellington College, West

Wokingham, Berkshire, England, kindly sent a photograph of the church in Chaffcombe, as it appeared after its restoration in 1859 by his father, then rector. A reproduction of this picture appears in this book.

The compiler does not wish to forget the kindness shown by his wife, Eliza S. (Platt) Chaffee, in that she willingly sacrificed many of her social hours for the betterment of this book.

Mr. Isaac L. Hart, Mr. Henry B. Morehouse, Mr. Henry R. Soller, Mr. John A. Breitweiser and Mr. John H. Troxell have cheerfully rendered assistance in various details of the work.

The following custodians of early records gave willing assistance towards the researches made in their various offices:

INTRODUCTION

The pleasure of tracing long and circuitous lines of ancestry must be inborn. The way to success in any undertaking is through love.

Just within the gateway of Laurel Hill Cemetery in the City of Philadelphia, there stands, appropriately enclosed, cut from unblemished stone, a beautiful representation of Love and Labor harmonized in the form of Old Mortality, with mallet and chisel in hand trying to rescue from further obliteration the inscriptions as found upon the old tombstones surrounding him.

Writers of family history differ but little as to the main reason for compiling and publishing a genealogy. The nucleus is formed as soon as a desire prompts the search for vital records concerning parents and grandparents, and the desire grows to larger and nobler proportions as the members of these families interest themselves in accumulating additional knowledge of their forefathers. Naturally, all persons are desirous to know from what nation they sprang, and many letters of inquiry bearing upon this subject have been received. Much interest has been expressed in regard to war records concerning Revolutionary patriots, and those who served in other wars.

Biography, with family characteristics, coats-of-arms, records from tombstones, heirlooms and their interesting stories, have all tended to fascinate and make pedigree history a work of cheerful labor, and the general wish that our surname shall be preserved from oblivion has prompted the writing of this genealogy.

Acknowledging that a genealogy made up principally of vital statistics, i.e., marriages, births and deaths, is valuable, it is nevertheless certain that where these facts are interspersed with biographical incident, the value of the work is much enhanced; therefore the compiler has made personal history a special feature of this book.

The plan and scope of this book is devoted principally to the descendants of Thomas Chaffe, but following them, there will be found many lineages and war records of other American Chaffees, not known to have been connected with or descendant from Thomas Chaffe, including an extensive biography of Mathew Chaffe, a contemporary in America of this emigrant ancestor. There will also be found much data relating to the name of Chaffe, as found upon record in England from the earliest days, together with the origin of the name and lineages of English and Canadian Chaffees.

The compiler is not responsible for any errors which may have occurred in the spelling of Christian or surnames, nor for inaccuracies which may be found in copies of official records or in the data furnished by the many descendants. All the matter contributed has been carefully noted and scrupulously followed in its varied detail. Where names or dates have not agreed, all have been given, the second and following being given in parenthesis.

Each descendant of Thomas Chaffe, the Emigrant, has been given a number in this volume, these following consecutively through the book. The sign + precedes the numbers of all individuals whose complete record will be found in the succeeding generation. Absence of this sign indicates that nothing further is known of that individual than there appears. Only such descendants as have had children are carried forward to a succeeding generation; where the names of a descendant's children have not been sent, and no item of information regarding them is known, beyond the fact that he or she has had children, the record is not carried forward.

Great care has been taken in every case to spell the surname as the individual spelled it. Where the spelling has been changed, the names of the children will be given under the father's record as he spelled it, but in the succeeding generation each child's name will be spelled as he himself chose to do. Where such children are not carried forward, the changed spelling of the name follows the other, enclosed in parenthesis.

The names in parenthesis following the name of the individual at the head of each record, are those of that person's ancestors of Chaffee descent, the superior numbers indicating to which generation each belongs.

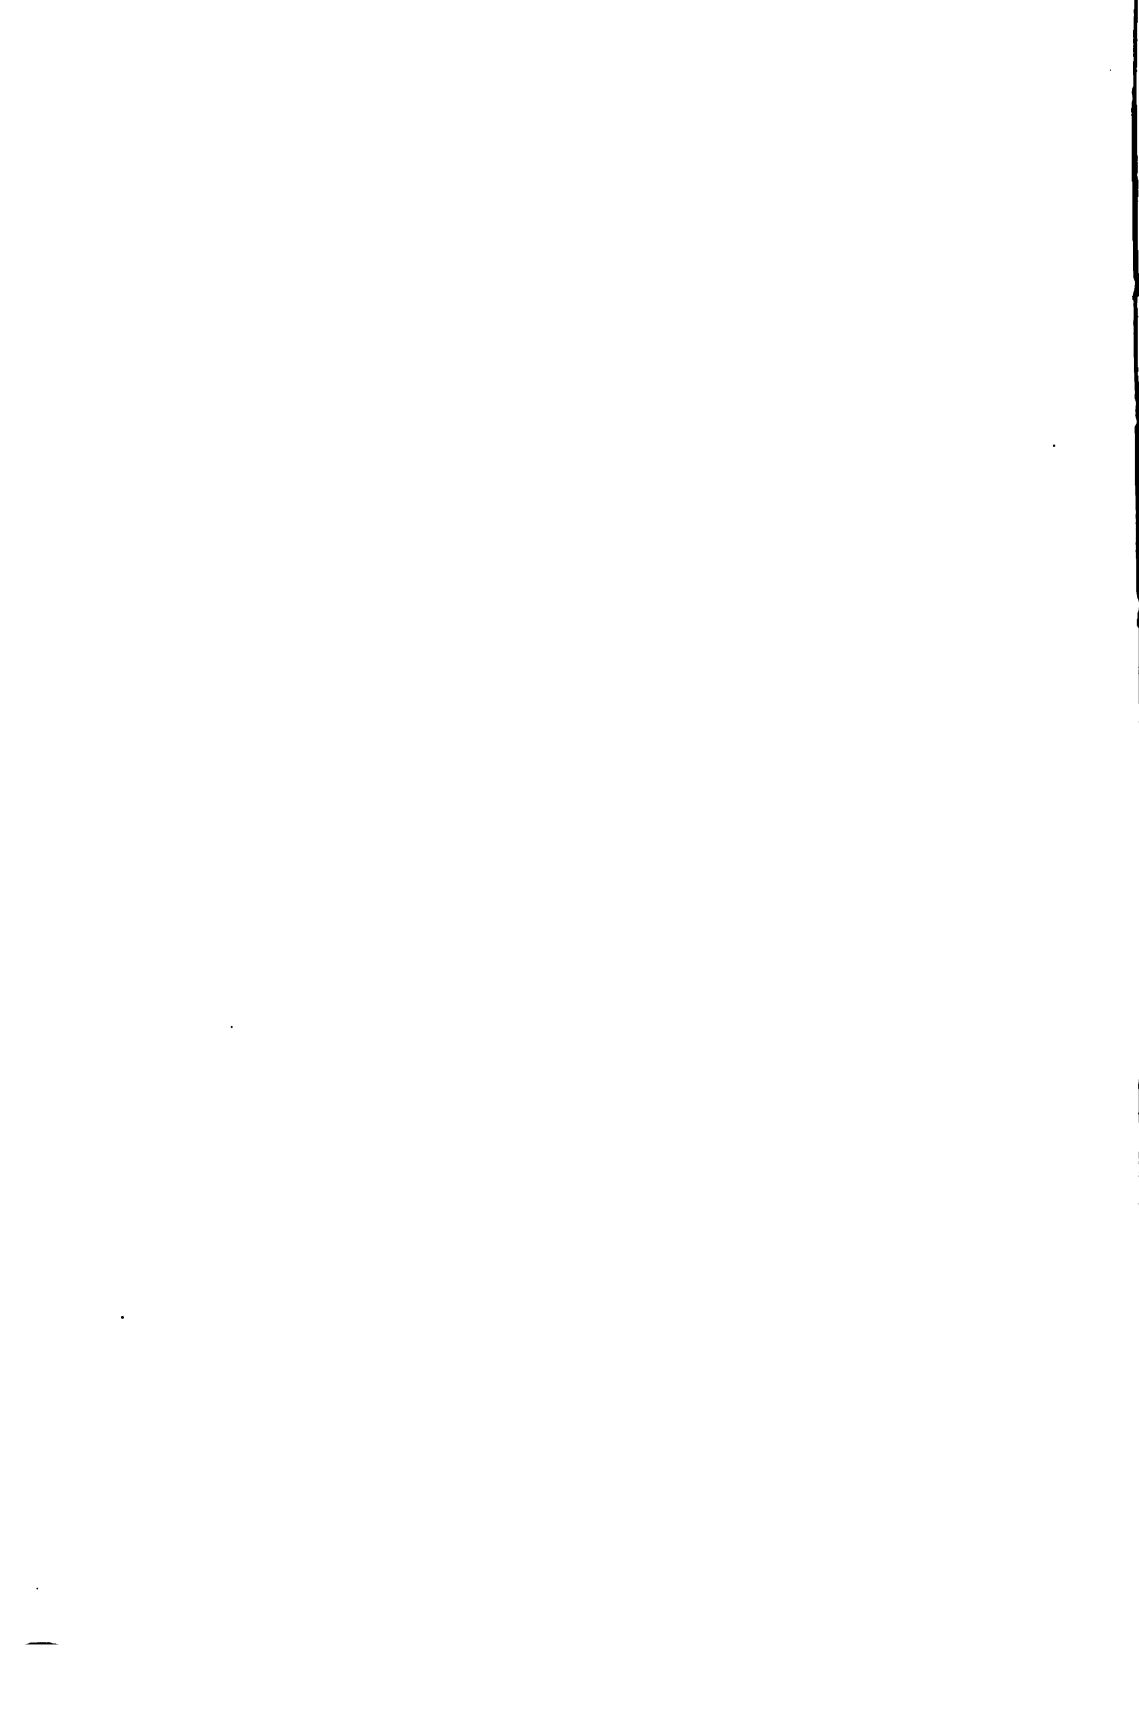

Where two Chaffee descendants have intermarried, the record will be found under that of the male descendant, the female descendant's line of Chaffee descent and all information regarding her being there given.

The maiden names of married women and nicknames are given in parenthesis, the latter names being quoted.

Since the numbering of this manuscript, additional information of descendants has been received, necessitating the insertion of duplicate numbers designated by letters, as, for example, 5099A, etc.

THE CHAFFEE GENEALOGY

FIRST AND SECOND GENERATIONS

1 Thomas Chaffe, the emigrant ancestor of nearly all who to-day bear this surname under its varied forms of orthography, from Chafe to Chaffee, now residing in the United States and parts of Canada, came to New England, where in 1635 he owned land and was living in Hingham, Mass. The place and date of his birth, his parentage, the time and place of his arrival and the name of the ship which bore him from the Old World to the New, are at present unknown.

The first mention of him in the records is found in the Town Clerk's office in Hingham, under the date 1635:

"Given unto John Tucker by the town of Hingham for a planting lot six acres of land lying upon the Worlds End Hill, bounded with the land of Thomas Chaffe and the land of John Prince, Southward and with the land of Ralph Woodward, Northward, butting upon the Sea Eastward and Westward."

This is not only the earliest mention of Thomas Chaffe, but also of the name of Chaffe. How long Thomas Chaffe had owned this land when John Tucker received his land, we do not know. Hingham was one of the oldest towns in the Massachusetts Bay Colony. There were settlers there as early as 1633, at which time it bore the name of "Bare Cove." The General Court, on September 2, 1635, changed the name to Hingham in deference to requests, no doubt made by those early settlers, several of whom came from Hingham in the County of Norfolk, England. Whether Thomas Chaffe was one of the earliest settlers of Hingham, we do not know; the list of those who in 1635 owned land there does not give his name, but the above extract from the records proves conclusively that at that time he was a property owner, though the entry of his grant was not made until 1637, when we find, under the heading "The severall parsells of land and meadow legally given unto Thomas Chaffe by the towne of Hingham," the following:

"Given unto Thomas Chaffe by the Towne for a planting lott seven acres of land upon the worlds end hill bounded with the sea eastward and southward and with the land of John Prince westward and with the land of John Tucker northward."

Under the same date we find another entry:

"Given unto Thomas Chaffe all the salt marsh on the south side of straits pond for two acres and he is to have all the sd parsells of land to him and his heirs for ever be they more or less as they were measured."

"July 17th 1637 . . . Given unto Thomas Chaffe by the towne for a house lott two acres of land Butting upon Batchellor street eastward bounded with the land of William Ludkin southward."

The small amount of land granted to Thomas Chaffe for his house or home lot, proves that at this time he was unmarried, as it was the custom of those days to grant small parcels of land to bachelors, as being sufficient for their needs. Bachelor Street is now known as Main Street, and the original Chaffe home lot is about opposite the old meeting-house.

One more piece of property was given in that year to Thomas Chaffe by the town:

"Octobr 1637 . . . Given unto Thomas Chaffe by the Towne for a greatt lott tenn acres of land lying upon the great playne on the second furlong to the westward of the centre, bounded with the land of Ralph Smith southward and with the Land of Thomas Turner northward. Butting upon the high wayes eastward and westward."

Between the above date and April 9, 1642, nothing is found in the records regarding Thomas Chaffe and then his name appears in the records of Nantasket, later called Hull, a town adjoining Hingham and situated on the point of a peninsula jutting out into Massachusetts Bay. Nantasket was an older town than Hingham. The first building there was erected by the people of Plymouth on or before 1624 and used as a store house "to accomodate their trade with the Massachusetts." In 1628 it bore about one-eighth part of the expenses of the Colonies. The records of the Massachusetts Bay Colony state:

On May 29, 1644, the name of the town was changed to that of Hull and in July of that year a church was formed there. Governor Winthrop says, under the date of July 15th, 1644:

"Nantascott being formerly made a town, and having now twenty houses and a minister, was by the last general court named Hull."

In both Hingham and Hull Thomas Chaffe was a fisherman and farmer.

The name of his wife and the date and place of his marriage are unknown. He was probably married in Hull, as the copious notes and manuscripts left by the Reverend Peter Hobart, pastor of the church at Hingham from September, 1635, until the date of his death in 1678, make no mention in any way of Thomas Chaffe, his wife or children. The town records of Hull prior to 1657 have been lost; if extant they would doubtless give us the desired information. It is probable that the wife's Christian name was Dorothy, as her sons both had daughters by that name, which was not a name found in the families of their wives; in that day it was the custom to name children for their grandparents, the cases where this was not done being very exceptional.

A brief description of that part of Massachusetts where Thomas Chaffe first made his home in the New World may be of interest. In 1627 Mr. Grus of Salem wrote:

"The country is very beautiful. Open lands, mixed in goodly woods, and again open plains, in some places five hundred acres, some more and some less. . . . Not much trouble to clear for the plough. The grass and weeds grow up to a man's face. In the low lands and by fresh rivers, there are large meadows without a tree or bush."

Morton, in speaking of the Indian custom of burning the grass and leaves, wrote in 1632:

"The savages burn over the country, that it may not be overgrown with underwood. . . . It scorches the older trees and hinders their growth. The trees grow here and there, as in English parks, and make the country very beautiful."

Two years later Wood wrote:

"In many places divers acres are cleared, so that one may ride a hunting in most places of the land. There is no underwood,—save in the swamps and low grounds,—it being the custom of the Indians to burn the woods in November, when the grass is withered and leaves dried. . . . There is good fodder in the woods where the trees are thin; and in the spring grass grows rapidly on the burnt land."

It would seem that Thomas Chaffe and his fellow settlers did not have to cut down the forest to clear the land before planting their crops, as did many of the early New England settlers; they were fortunate in settling in a part of the country where the ground was ready to receive the seed for their crops and where pasture and mowing lands were plentiful.

The General Court of the Massachusetts Bay Colony was anxious to encourage the fishing trade and Hull was especially enjoined to "endeavor the advancement of fishing" as we see from the following entry in the records under the date of May 26, 1647:

"There being now divers freemen and men of good ability in Hull, who may comfortably carry on the affairs of the town, by the authority of this Court, to order the prudential affairs of their town according to the course of other plantations, provided that, according to the former orders of this Court, they endeavor the advancement of fishing, and that such fishermen as are there already, and others which shall come thither, may have all such reasonable priviledges and encouragements as the place will afford and that such places as are fit for fishermen may be reserved for that purpose, and with this caution also, that William Parks, Mr. Glover, and Mr. Duncan, or any two of them be appointed to see the order of Court for advance of fishing duly observed."

The next mention of Thomas Chaffe in the records of Hull is the following deed:

"The fourth day of February one thousand six hundred and fifty, Thomas Chaffe of Hull doth acknowledge that he hath sould unto Thomas Gill, of Hingham, to him and his heirs for ever his planting lott lying for eight acres upon pleasant hill next unto Mr. Peter Hubberd on the west and Thomas Gill on the east and it butts from sea to sea. Also four acres upon Squirill Hill, two acres of it was formerly Thomas Loring's, the other two was Mr. William Walton's and it lyeth next to Mr. Hubberd's on the north and Joseph Andrews on the south.

"Also half the meadow lying in Broad cove meadow which was formerly Mr. William Walton's it lyeth for four-acres and it is next to the highway on the north and Thomas Chubback on the south.

"Also a greate lott of tenn acres which was given to him by the Towne, all the above, sayd parsells of land and meadow the sayd Thomas Gill is to have and to hold, to him and his heirs for ever from the 4 of February 1650.

[On record in Hingham, Mass.]

This deed though dated 1650, was not signed until 1670, and then in Hingham, as it was witnessed by the town clerk of that place, so Thomas and his son Joseph must have made a trip from Swansea, where they were then living, to Hingham at this time.

The last mention of Thomas in Hull is as follows:

" 1657

"The Lands and tenements of Thomas Chaffe.

Between this date (1657) and May 30, 1660, Thomas Chaffe had moved from Hull and had probably settled in Rehoboth, then in Plymouth Colony, as we find by the following deed:

In the foregoing deed Thomas “Chaffye” designates himself as “some time of Hull in the County of Suffolke” but does not say where he was then living. But in the Proprietors’ Records of Rehoboth, Mass., we find that “Thomas Chafey” was one of the Proprietors at least as early as December 25, 1660:

“An agreement under ye hands of ten of the Proprietors in order to the settlement of the Lands aforesaid.

“Dated December 25: 1660.

These records also contain a description of the boundaries of the land belonging to various proprietors, that of “Thomas Chafey” being referred to thus:

“10. One devition Layd out in the aforesaid home Lotts number Nine &

Ten to Thomas Chafey, being ten Acres or thereabouts. Called Rice's Neck, bounded North by said Chafey's home Lott, East the Meadow, South by Mr. Allen's Meadow, and West by Mr. Allens Land." Thomas's land is again referred to as bounding the land of Nathaniell and Israell Peck on the North. This item is signed by Joseph Chafey and seven others. [Ibid.]

The town of Rehoboth was originally called by the Indians and after them by the English, "Seecunk" or "Seekonk." In July, 1621, some of the Pilgrims from the Plymouth settlement made a visit to the Indian Chief Massasoit, whose domain was known as the Sowams country, of which Wannamoisett, where Thomas Chaffe settled, formed a part. This was the first attempt made by the English to explore the interior, and the spirit of westward emigration, so early shown by them, has been dominant in their descendants ever since. As early as 1632, the Plymouth settlers had a trading post at Sowams.

About 1635, William Blackstone, a nonconformist minister of England, who had settled in Boston about 1625, left the home on Shawmut peninsula, Boston, which he had reclaimed from the wilderness, and came to Seekonk five years after the arrival in 1630 of Governor Winthrop and his colony in Boston. Blackstone is said to have made the following characteristic speech:

"I came from England because I did not like the Lord-Bishops, but I cannot join with you because I would not be under the Lord-Brethren."

He settled in what is now Cumberland, R. I., on the banks of the stream which bears his name, and about three miles above Pawtucket, R. I. Another early settler was Roger Williams, who being banished by the Court in Boston, left his home in Salem about the middle of January, 1635-6, and settled for a few months in Seekonk, thinking himself to be outside the jurisdiction of both the Plymouth and the Massachusetts Bay Colonies. Governor Winslow of the Plymouth Colony soon informed him that he had strayed into the edge of their bounds, and not wishing to displease the Bay (the Court at Boston) advised him to move to the other side of the river, which he did with five others, and upon landing called the place Providence. The purchase of the land on which Rehoboth stands was made of Massasoit in 1641 by John Brown and Edward Winslow of the Plymouth Colony, authorized by the Court of that place to act for the early settlers, who were from Thomas Chaffe's old home, Hingham, and from Weymouth, Mass. The purchase was according to the measurement of those times, "a tract eight miles square," and embraced what is now the towns of Rehoboth, Seekonk and Pawtucket. December 29, 1645, a second purchase was made of the land called by Indians and English alike "Wannamoisett," which forms a part of what is now Swansea, Mass., and Barrington, R. I., and was the place where Thomas Chaffe afterward settled. The third and last purchase was made after Thomas Chaffe had become an inhabitant and proprietor there, April 8, 1661, and was called "The North Purchase," including the present towns of Attleboro, Mass., and Cumberland, R. I. Ancient Seekonk, later called Rehoboth, was afterwards subdivided as follows: In 1668 the southeast part of it was set off and called Swansea, which in turn lost a portion of its land in 1717, when the town of Barrington, Mass., was formed, and in 1790 another part, when Somerset was formed as a town. In 1747 Barrington, a part of Swansea, now Warren, and Bristol were set off from Massachusetts to Rhode Island; Barrington was united with the territory taken from Swansea and called Warren, and the two towns formed Bristol County, R. I., with Bristol the shire town. In 1770, Barrington, R. I., was set off from Warren, with boundary line substantially as at the present time. In 1694, Rehoboth North Purchase was formed into the town of Attleboro, and this, in turn, in 1746, lost what was then known as the "Gore," the town of Cumberland, R. I., being formed. Ancient Rehoboth now remained intact until 1812, when its western part became a separate town, taking the old Indian name of Seekonk. In 1828, the northwest corner of Seekonk was formed into the town of Pawtucket, Mass., and in 1861 the western portion became East Providence; at the same time, the newly formed town and Pawtucket were ceded to the state of Rhode Island, in exchange for Fall River, R. I., which was annexed to Fall River, Mass.

The settlers from Hingham and Weymouth located in Seekonk in 1643, the latter including in their number Reverend Samuel Newman, and in 1645 the name was changed at his request to Rehoboth, a scripture name; this first minister of Rehoboth compiled the third Bible Concordance, which far surpassed the other two. Three editions of it were published, the second having been revised from the first, while the author was living in Rehoboth, where he died July 5, 1663. His church was about five miles north of Thomas Chaffe's house, and our worthy ancestor doubtless profited by his sermons and sorrowed with his neighbors over his death.

A few months after the sale of his property in Hull, having in the meantime received land in the division of Rehoboth lands, Thomas Chaffe made his first recorded purchase of land there of Stephen Paine, Sr., February 9, 1660:

When in 1668 Swansea was set off from Rehoboth, Thomas Chaffe's home in Wannamoissett became part of the new town, and he a citizen of it, though it is probable that he also owned land which remained within the boundaries of the old town, as in a deed dated 1675, which will be given later, he calls himself "of Rehoboth." In 1669, he sold to Joseph Carpenter property on New Meadow Neck.

The above document was drawn after the death of Captain Thomas Willett who died August 4, 1674, in the sixty-fourth year of his age.

At a meeting held March 16, 1679-80, an agreement was made in regard to Paine lots, the repair of the "generall fence," the laying out of the "longe lots" and also that no proprietor should sell or let to any person "not now a proprietor," without offering the same to the major part of the committee of proprietors at the same price. Matters in regard to "pasturing neck" and selling certain lands were also taken up, the names signed being "James Brown, John Saffin, John Peck, Thomas Chafey, Stephen Pain, John Allen, John Brown, Jonathan Bosworth, Sam: Newman, Natha. Pain, Samuella Walker."

This is the last mention in the records of Thomas Chaffe during his life. Soon after, July 25, 1680, he made his will which was exhibited "Sixt of March Anno Domini 1683. [1682-3]."

Just what the date of Thomas Chaffe's death was we do not know, but probably not long before the filing of his will. He was doubtless buried in the ancient Chaffe Burying Ground on his own farm, a picture of which is here given, though no stone to his memory remains. From information gathered and handed down by the older people, we learn that the house stood but a few rods from the burial ground. This property, located on the west bank of what is now the Barrington River, though in Thomas Chaffe's time it was called the Sowams River, is about two miles northwest of the present town of Barrington Centre, R. I., and is owned by Mr. L. R. Peck.

Children, probably born in Nantasket (now called Hull):

- 2 i Nathaniel Chaffe, probably born between 1638 and 1642; married Experience Bliss.
- 3 ii Joseph Chaffe, probably born between 1639 and 1646; married Annis Martin.

2 Nathaniel<sup>2</sup> Chaffe (Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was probably born in Nantasket, Mass. (later called Hull), between 1638 and 1642, and died in Rehoboth, Mass., in September, 1721. He married in Swansea, Mass., August 19, 1669, Experience, daughter of Jonathan and Miriam (Harmon) Bliss of Rehoboth. She also died in September, 1721.

Nathaniel Chaffe doubtless moved from Hull to Rehoboth between 1657 and 1660 with his parents and brother Joseph. In 1667 the part of Rehoboth where he lived, known as Wannamoisett, was set off as a separate town and called Swansea. Here we find the first mention of him, his marriage, and the following Spring he is mentioned again in the town records as follows:

"At a Town meeting Lawfully warned ye 19th of May 1670 . . . Nathaniel Chafy [was chosen] Constable." [Swansea Town Records.] His duty was to assist in keeping the peace and to make arrests of disorderly persons. About the same time it is recorded that:

"Nathaniel Chafy his ear mark for all sorts of cattell is an half ring in the top of each ear."

On page 155 of The Book of the Attleborough Records of the North Purchased Lande belonging to Rehoboth, under the date 1672, we find that "The bounds of the Lands of Nathaniell Chaffe are Sixty acres of land purchased of Obediah Bowen, Sur., Also Twelve and a half. Ten acres More purchased of John Martin." This land was later in the town of Attleboro.

The deeds of these purchases of land by Nathaniel Chaffe are not on file in the Plymouth County Registry of Deeds.

Nathaniel Chaffe was evidently a valued citizen, for in 1674-5 he was invited by the town of Rehoboth, in which he had formerly lived, to return and again become an inhabitant, land being offered him as an inducement:

"At a Town meeting lawfully warned the Eighth of February 1674 [5] . . .

"It was also voted and agreed upon by the Town for the encouragement of Nathaniel Chaffee to come and dwell in the Town, he should have Ten acres in some convenient place for planting land if he tarry for seven years to be his own for ever, but if he remove out of Town before seven years end he is to leave it to the Town." [Rehoboth Records.] Just about this time is recorded "a list of lines as it was cast to stand in ye second division . . . Nathan Chaffee 5 rod."

Four months after this invitation to return to Rehoboth,

"Nathaniel Chaffe of the Township of Rehobeth, in the Government of New Plymouth, in New England, smith, . . . for a good and valuable consideration [not named] . . . payed by Samuel Butterworth of Rehoboth aforesaid, . . . have freely and absolutely bargained and sold . . . a certain tract of Bastard Meddow lying and being in the Great Neck, lying upon Sowams river, in Swansea, in the Government aforesaid, being four acres be it more or less, bounded to the North with Joseph Chaffe's Meddow, to the East a Swamp, to the West Sowams River, to the South as far as the Meddow goeth . . . As this deed shows, Nathaniel Chaffe was a blacksmith. In those early days, when a horse was one of the most valued and necessary possessions of his owner, the blacksmith's trade was a most important one. In addition to shoeing horses, he was a worker in iron and other metals, making rude farming implements, household utensils and even casting bells. Small wonder that Rehoboth was anxious to have so valuable a citizen as Nathaniel Chaffe return to her!

Only a week after the sale of this land, June 24, 1675, King Philip's War began, which lasted until the last of August, 1676.

"Of the miseries of this war, Rehoboth, from its proximity to Mount Hope, the residence of Philip or Pometacom, the prime mover of the war, was destined to suffer its full share. The first blood was spilled within the original jurisdiction of Rehoboth; and the last of Philip's generals, the stern and intrepid old warrior and councillor, Annawon, was captured within the present limits of the same town. During this war, which lasted nearly two years, the inhabitants of Rehoboth were kept in almost constant alarm; a number of them were, at different times slain; and the whole town, the garrison-houses excepted, was at one time laid in ashes. The events of this war, so far as connected with Rehoboth. . . . occupy a prominent place in the hardships, dangers and sufferings of the early settlers of this town."

[Bliss's History of Rehoboth.]

What must have been the anxiety of Nathaniel Chaffe during this time of horror! At the outbreak of this war he had a wife and three small children, and during its progress his second son, Nathaniel, Jr., was born. Some time during the war, he contributed £3 16s. 6d. to the war fund.

February 11, 1675-6, "A committee was chosen to view what land is between John Titus, Jr. & Nathaniel Chaffee and divide it to John Fuller & Obadiah Bowen," [Rehoboth Records.] December 12, 1676, another committee being chosen for the same purpose. [Ibid.] On the same date mention is made "In Refforence to a former grant of land for General purposes to be built upon by Nathaniel Chaffey." [Ibid.]

"1680 1 June. Propounded to be Freeman the next Year, if approued . . . Nathaniell Chaffey." [Plymouth Colony Records.]

"1681 Freeman admitted this Court . . . Nathaniel Chaffey." [Ibid.]

This implies that he was a church member, that being one of the requirements of admission as freeman.

"Mar. 26th 1681 The Town met being lawfully warned . . . Chose Nathaniel Chaffee Constable," [Rehoboth Records] his second term in that office.

"The towne drew lots for the laying out of the division and they file as followeth . . . Nathaniel Chaffee Estate 50 acres." This was April 9, 1685, and the lot was number seventy-six. [Ibid.]

October 12, 1686, "Nathaniel Chaffee" made a proposition to the town relating to the maintenance of George the First. February 8, 1686-7, he bought of Stephen Paine two acres of "upland, swampe and meadow ground."

"Mar. 22nd 1693. The town met being lawfully warned and chose Nathaniel Chaffe tytheing man," [Ibid.] his duties being to preserve order in the meeting-house and to collect the moneys due for the support of the minister of the town.

September 22, 1694, Nathaniel went to the home in Swansea of his brother Joseph, who being ill, made his will and probably wished his only brother to witness it. Joseph died soon after and November 13, 1694, Nathaniel went to the county seat, Bristol, with the other two witnesses, to swear to his brother's signature. At the same time he became one of the sureties in the sum of £200 for his sister-in-law, Annis (Martin) Chaffe and her sons, John and Joseph, Jr., all executors of the will.

"May 24th 1695. Nathaniel Chaffe & John Hunt settled the bounds of ther meadow & swampe upon the west side of palmers river between them from a red oake tree marked upon three sides neare the cart way straight to a forked ellne in the meadow & goes straight upon that line to the river." [Ibid.]

"March 10, 1695-6, Nathaniel was chosen juryman." [Ibid.]

"June 16th 1697. The towne met being lawfully warned and drew lots for the division of lands before agreed upon and they are drawn up as followeth . . . Nathaniel Chaffe," lot number 17. [Ibid.]

"Knowe all men by these presents. That I John Thompson of the towne of Rehoboth in the County of Bristol Husbandman doe acknowledge that I have sold unto Nathaniel Chaffee of the same towne Blacksmith. two accers of land and a halfe be it more or less that was to me by my right of Commons in the Thousand accer division, being ten rod wide & forty three rod long at the westerly end, bounded southerly Nathaniel Chaffee his owne land. November 7, 1699. "The proprietors drew their lots for the laying out of the division. . . . Nathaniel Chaffee, h-sh." [Ibid.]

February 10, 1701-2 "Nathaniel Chaffe, Blacksmith of Rehoboth" gave to his son Jonathan of Rehoboth four and a half acres of land there, near a place called "Broken Cross."

March 29, 1702-3, "Drew lots for the divisions of lands before agreed upon and Lotts drawn are as followeth . . . Nathl Chaffee sen," lot number one hundred and forty-three. [Ibid.]

November 24, 1703, he sold to Daniel Perrin of Rehoboth for £10, some upland and meadow on Ten Mile River in that town.

"At a Town Meeting lawfully warned the 19th day of March, 1704 [1703-4] then met and assembled together and chose officers as followeth. . . Nathaniel Chaffee, tytheing-man." [Ibid.]

"At a Town Meeting lawfully warned and met together at the meeting house in Rehoboth Mar. 24, 1706 . . . Chose . . . Nathl Chaffee, Grand jury-man." [Ibid.]

"At a Town Meeting lawfully warned and met together by adjournment from the 29th of December 1707, until the 9th day of February 1708 [1707-8.] Then met and the town proceeded to draw lotts which are as followeth. . . Nathaniel Chaffee" lot number one hundred and twenty-eight. [Ibid.]

"At a Propriators meeting lawfully warned and continued by adjournment from the 8th day of January 1712 [1712-13] to the 12th day of Feb. 1712. Then met together and the propriators of lands in Rehoboth cast lotts for their farms & each propriator's lott fell as followeth. . . Nathaniel Chaffee 50," lot number one hundred and twenty-eight. [Ibid.]

This is the last mention made in the Rehoboth Records of Nathaniel Chaffe, in regard to town affairs or the granting of land.

His next recorded act is the sale of the land drawn in 1712-13, the original deed being in the possession of a Chaffee descendant:

On the same date he also gave him other property by the following interesting deed:

“Received October 10th 1721, and Recorded by Samel Howland Register.”

[Bristol County, Mass., Registry of Deeds, Northern District, at Taunton, Vol. XIII, pp. 552, 553.]

With this son, Nathaniel and Experience spent their last days, doubtless receiving loving care from Noah and his wife. Both Nathaniel and his wife died in September, 1721, and a tradition from Rehoboth tells us that so devoted was he to his wife that he died of grief a few hours after her death.

No will, inventory, distribution, or other papers relating to Nathaniel Chaffe's estate are to be found. The old burying ground surrounding the Congregational church, formerly in Rehoboth, later in Seekonk, Mass., and now in the village of Rumford, East Providence, R. I., is supposed to be the burial place of Nathaniel and Experience, though no stones to their memory remain.

Children, the first three born in Swansea, the others in Rehoboth:

- + 4 i Dorothy<sup>s</sup> Chaffe, married Nathaniel Paine.
- + 5 ii Thomas Chaffe, born October 19, 1672; married Margaret Carpenter.
- 6 iii Rachel Chaffe, born September 7, 1673; died in Rehoboth, February 28, 1703.
- + 7 iv Nathaniel Chaffe, Jr., born January 4, 1675-6; married Mercy ——.
- + 8 v Jonathan Chaffe, born April 7, 1678; married Hannah Carpenter.
- + 9 vi David Chaffe, born August 22, 1680; married (1) Patience Atherton; (2) Mrs. Hannah Pidge.
- + 10 vii Experience Chaffe, born March 24, 1682-3; married Timothy Carpenter.
- 11 viii Mehitable Chaffe, born June 10, 1685; died in Rehoboth, August 6, 1699.
- + 12 ix Daniel Chaffe, born October 30, 1687; married (1) Alice (or Else) Millerd; (2) Mrs. Perces Ormsby.
- 13 x Noah Chaffe, born January 19, 1690-1; died in Rehoboth, July 9, 1691.
- + 14 xi Noah Chaffe, born December 17, 1692; married (1) Sarah Carpenter; (2) Hepsibah Daggett.

3 Joseph<sup>s</sup> Chaffe (Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was probably born in Nantasket, Mass. (later called Hull), some time between 1639 and 1646, and died in Swansea, Mass., October 28, 1694. He married there, December 8, 1670, Annis, daughter of Richard Martin of Rehoboth, Mass. She died in Barrington, Mass. (formerly Swansea), probably early in March, 1729-30.

Joseph Chaffe probably moved with his parents and brother from Hull to Rehoboth between 1657 and 1660. In 1667 that part of Rehoboth where they lived, called Wannamoisett, was formed into a separate town and called Swansea. So it is in the Swansea records that we find the first mention of Joseph Chaffe, about 1670:

“Joseph Chafy his ear mark for all sorts of cattell is a slit in the upper side of the left ear and a slit in the under side of the right ear.”

February 5, 1672, an agreement made in regard to the building of a fence was signed by “Joseph Chafy” and his brother Nathaniel among others. [Ibid.]

January 22, 1673, it was agreed by the Proprietors, of whom “Joseph Chafey” and his brother were two, that “all Moable grase aJoyning to any of our Medows Belongs to the said Meadow.” [Ibid.]

From original water color sketch, presented by S. R. Chaffee, the Artist, of Providence, R. I.

THE OLD BURYING GROUND AT RUMFORD, R. I., FORMERLY IN REHOBOTH, MASS.

HELIOTYPE PRINTING CO., BOSTON.

"At a town meeting lawfully warned on ye 12th of May 1673, . . . Joseph Chafy" and two other men were chosen "surveyors of ye highways" [Ibid.] their duty being to view and repair the highways as directed by the town.

"At a Town meeting Lawfully warned May ye 22d 1674 In obedience to a warrant sent from Our Hond Govr for ye chusing of officers. . . . These Persons underwritten being Inhabitants of this Town ye day & year above written took ye oath of Fidelity before Mr. James Brown, Assistant."

"Joseph Chafy" was one of the twenty-five who signed this. [Ibid.] About 1675-6 he contributed £1, 8s. for the carrying on of King Philip's War, the brunt of which fell on Swansea, "the most exposed and the greatest sufferer by Philip's War of any of the New England settlements." [Bicknell's History of Barrington.]

April 11, 1679, the Proprietors agreed on laying out "the home lots butting upon the river," "the great lots extending from the large beach that butts upon the bay or great river," and run to a highway through the Dead Swamp, also, "that lower part of the neck at the front of the said great lots that shall but upon the said lyne from the long beach, together with the little neck of land lying upon the river near Mr. Allen's meadow shall at present remain in Common." [Ibid.]

"At a Town meeting being mett upon Legal warning May ye 24th 1681 for ye choice of officers . . . Joseph Chafy" was chosen as one of three Surveyors of Highways. [Ibid.] October 3, 1682, seventeen of the Proprietors signed an agreement in confirmation of the action of the committee, "Joseph Chaffey" being one. [Ibid.] "Sixt of March Anno Dominie 1683 [1682-3] Joseph Chaffe," as executor of his father's will presented that document, made July 25, 1680, for probate. The inventory, taken May 15, 1683, was sworn to by him, "on ye oath of Joseph Chaffey." His brother Nathaniel received thirty-nine acres of land and Joseph all the rest of his father's "lands, meadows orchards, gardens, dwelling house, barn, outhouses, living stock, neat cattle, sheep, horse kine, swine, poltery and thirty-five acres of land lately purchased upon the neck commonly called Phebes Neck" also all money due his father. He also became the owner of the family Bible [see Appendix A], probably taking it as part of his share in the division of the personal estate. In book two of the Rehoboth Land Records we find, that March 17, 1683-4, Richard Martin acknowledged having given to his son-in-law, Joseph Chaffee, "fourteen pounds estate in commonage," in Rehoboth, which was given him by the will of his brother, Robert Martin. April 9, 1685, in a division of lands ordered by the town of Rehoboth, Richard and John Martin and Joseph Chaffee drew lot number forty-five, being one hundred and fourteen pounds commonage estate, and they were allowed twenty acres to the hundred pounds.

"At a Town Meeting Legally warned & ye Town being mett together Septemr 9th, 1685. . . . After this a vote passed by some particular Persons was voted that y place of all Publick meetings should be between Mr. Myles' house & y great Bridge, & a house be there built for that end by a free Contribution." Against this protested fifteen men of whom "Joseph Chafy" was one. [Swansea Records.]

"At a Town Meeting May ye 24: 1687 The Town being mett together made choice of officers for ye year ensuing as followeth . . . Joseph Chaffie" and one other were chosen Constables, [Ibid.] their duty being to assist in keeping the peace and to make arrests of disorderly persons. September 12, 1688, "Joseph Chaffee" sold to Thomas Barnes an acre of salt meadow, the original deed being in possession of the author:

"At a Town Meeting Warned and mett together according to ye order of ye Counsel at Plymouth May 28th 1689 . . . Viewers of fences Tho: Barnes Joseph Chafy for Wannamoset," [Swansea Records] their duty being to adjust all matters of difference between contiguous owners, as to proper fences, location of boundary lines, and other matters of like nature. This year he is on record as a Proprietor, though not an inhabitant of Rehoboth. March 28, 1693, and March 27, 1694, he was again chosen for the office of Fence Viewer, the last which he held. [Ibid.] He made his will, "being Sick & weake in Body" September 22, 1694, five weeks before his death. It was filed with his inventory, November 13, 1694, by his widow and two sons, and the same day they gave bond for the faithful performance of their duties in administrating the estate, their sureties being Nathaniel Chaffee, Joseph's brother, and John Ormsby, probably Annis Chaffe's brother-in-law, husband of her sister Eleanor (or Elvara) or else his son John.

Annis Chaffee had no sooner recovered from the shock of her husband's death than she was called upon to bear another of a like nature, the death of her father. He died in the Spring of 1695, the signature to his will being sworn to by the witnesses thereto May 7th. By this instrument, made June 2, 1686, he left to daughter Annis one-fourth of his household goods, and after his debts had been discharged, one-third of his cattle.

"June 16th 1697. The towne [Rehoboth] met being lawfully warned and drew lots for the division of lands before agreed upon and they are drawn up as followeth. . . . John & Widow Chaffee" drawing lot number one hundred and twenty. [Rehoboth Records.] "Mar. 29th 1703. . . . Drew lots for the divi-

5 Thomas<sup>3</sup> Chaffe (Chafey) (Nathaniel,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Swansea, Mass., October 19, 1672, and died in Rehoboth, Mass., February 21, 1754. He married there, June 4, 1695, Margaret, daughter of Joseph and Margaret (Sutton) Carpenter. She was born May 4, 1675, and died in Rehoboth, May 6, 1751. July 4, 1731, she was admitted to membership in the First Congregational Church, Rehoboth.

At the time of his marriage Thomas Chaffe lived in Rehoboth, where he is called "yeoman." On November 9, 1703, he sold to his brother Nathaniel (7) of Rehoboth, twelve acres of land in that town. In the record of this transaction Thomas is called "weaver" and Nathaniel, "blacksmith." On July 1, 1706, Thomas Chaffe was chosen to serve on the Jury of Trials at Bristol, Mass., "on the second Tuesday of July inst." On October 17, 1711, a petition was presented to the General Court asking that the town of Rehoboth be divided into two precincts for the support of the ministry, as some of the petitioners were living from four to seven miles from meeting. Among the names signed are those of Thomas Chaffe and his brother Jonathan (8). On January 10, 1718, Thomas bought for £15 of Joseph Russ of Ashford, Conn., one hundred acres of land in the western part of that town. At that time and in all later records he is spoken of as "of Rehoboth"; apparently he never lived in Ashford, nor, so far as is known, did any of his children. At a town meeting held in Rehoboth in the West Meeting House on Monday, March 29, 1721, he was chosen Surveyor of the Highway, and on March 25, 1723, Constable. May 4, 1730, he sold for £30, a few acres of land in Barrington, Mass. (formerly Swansea), to Joseph Chaffe, Sr. (18), his cousin, who lived there. January 9, 1731, Thomas Chaffe was baptized in the First Congregational Church in Rehoboth, prior to becoming a church member, March 5, 1732.

He administered the estate of his brother Noah (14), August 17, 1736.

"Thomas Chaffe yeoman of Rehoboth" for "love, good-will and affection" sold (or rather gave) on May 28, 1737, sixteen acres of land in Rehoboth, "being part of the Grantor's Homelot," to the heirs of his son Amos (33), "Freelove, (111) Lilis (114), and Unis (115) Chaffe." For the same reasons he "sold" to his son Thomas, Jr., of Rehoboth, May 30, 1737, forty acres in that town, being also part of the home lot.

Children, born in Rehoboth:

- 30 i Margaret<sup>4</sup> Chaffe, born September 10, 1696; died; married in Rehoboth, March 30, 1719, Joseph Baker of Barrington.
 +31 ii Rachel Chaffe, born November 1, 1698; married John Sweeting.
 +32 iii Mehitable Chaffe, born November 23, 1700; married Dan Bowen.
 +33 iv Amos Chaffe, born July 17, 1702; married Freelove Carpenter.
 +34 v Experience Chaffe, born July 1, 1705; married Jonathan Ormsbee.
 +35 vi Tabitha Chaffe, born September 11, 1709; married Aaron Read.
 +36 vii Thomas Chaffe, Jr., born December 10, 1712; married Rebecca Hunt.

7 Nathaniel<sup>3</sup> Chaffe, Jr. (Nathaniel,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Rehoboth, Mass., February 8, 1675, and died February 28, 1703-4. He married about 1701-2, Mercy ———. She married (2) in Rehoboth, April 24, 1708, James Read, a tanner.

Nathaniel Chaffe, Jr., "blacksmith" bought twelve acres of land in Rehoboth, from his brother Thomas, November 9, 1703, but he did not long live to enjoy his property, dying less than four months after its purchase. May 17, 1704, his wife and Moses Read were appointed in Rehoboth administrators of his estate. In 1708 Mercy Chaffe was appointed guardian of her daughter Dorothey, and January 5, 1708-9, she and her second husband were appointed the child's joint guardians.

Child:

- 37 i Dorothey<sup>4</sup> Chaffe, born in Rehoboth, March 17, 1702-3; died in Swansea, Mass., June 25, 1759; married, April 25, 1723, James Cole of Swansea, a grandson of Hugh Cole, Sr.; she was baptized in Rehoboth, April 17, 1709.

8 Jonathan<sup>3</sup> Chaffe (Nathaniel,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Rehoboth, Mass., April 7, 1678, and died there, December 31, 1766. He married in Rehoboth, November 23, 1703, Hannah, daughter of William and Miriam (Searles) Carpenter. She was born April 10, 1684 (1685), and in 1767 was appointed executrix of her husband's estate.

February 10, 1701-2, Jonathan Chaffe's father gave him, "for love and affection," four and a half acres of land in Rehoboth near "Broken Cross." March 19, 1704, he was chosen in Rehoboth to act as Field Driver. November 21, 1715, he and one hundred and ten others agreed to pay for the building of a new meeting-house in the following installments: "One hundred pounds this year 1715, & 100 £ in the year 1716, and what more shall be needful for the finishing of the Meeting House in 1717." In 1718 he bought for £8 of Joseph Russ, one hundred acres of land in Ashford, Conn. December 11, 1818, he was chosen in Rehoboth to serve on the Jury of Trials. In 1819 he bought of Jeremiah Allen one hundred acres more of land in Ashford. March 28, 1720, he was chosen in Rehoboth for the office of "Tything Man." He, with his wife and son Jonathan, Jr., was admitted to membership in the First Congregational Church in Rehoboth, June 6, 1725. He gave one hundred acres of his Ashford property, in 1726, to his eldest son, Jonathan, who settled there. January 15, 1727, the town meeting "chose Jonathan Chaffee to project & prepair a method how schools shall be kept in the severall parts of the town, and how many may be proper for the Towne to have." March 30, 1730, he was again chosen to serve on "the Jury of Triale at Bristol the next Superior Court." April 10, 1731, he gave to his second son, Nathaniel, "for love and affection," ten acres of land in Rehoboth, being the easterly side of his home lot. In 1734 he sold the remainder of his Ashford property to his brother David, apparently having never lived in that town. November 3, 1736, he was chosen Selectman of Rehoboth. He was appointed one of the administrators of his brother Noah's estate, August 19, 1737, on the same day the year previous having been appointed guardian to Noah's two orphan sons, Christopher (74) and Shubael (75). He and Edward Glover and Samuel Mason, as his sureties, were bound in the sum of £500 for the faithful performance of this trust. July 29, 1739, he gave to his son "Dan Chaffe of Rehoboth, Husbandman," for "love and affection," fifteen acres of land, part of his home lot. October 15, 1739, Jonathan Chaffe was chosen Grand Juryman, and May 21, 1744, "the town meeting being met Chose Jonathan Chaffee to be oversear of the workhouse this present year. He being present and accepted the said trust and did then declare to the Town that he would not Charge the Town for his Trouble and Labour in that affair, and would be content with a Reasonable allowance out of the earnings of the persons committed to the said house." In October, 1745, he was again chosen as Grand Juryman, this being his last town office. In 1746, "Jonathan Chaffe yeoman," with his son Dan, bought of Peter Walker of Rehoboth for £57, one-half of nine and a half acres of meadow land there on both sides of Mill Run. May 15, 1749, he gave to his grandson, William Chaffe (158), two acres of land in Rehoboth, "in consequence of love, good will and affection I do bare to my dutifull grandchild Wm. Chaffe, son of Dan." October 21, 1751, he was a member of the "Jury of Inquest," which met in Rehoboth to investigate the death of John Hunt. April 28, 1752, "Jonathan Chaffe, husbandman" bought of James Kent for £8, three acres on Mill Run. He made his will May 5, 1754, making his wife sole executrix, and leaving to each one of his sons and daughters six shillings. February 7, 1760, Jonathan Chaffe, mason, sold to his grandson, "William Chaffe, cordwainer" (shoemaker), for £100, twenty-four acres of land in Rehoboth, being part of his homestead. In the old burying ground, formerly in Rehoboth, but now in the village of Rumford, in East Providence, R. I., we read on a moss-encrusted stone this inscription:

"Jonathan Chaffe
Departed this life
December 31, 1766

his age."

9 David<sup>3</sup> Chaffe (Nathaniel<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Rehoboth, Mass., August 22, 1680, and died there, February 25, 1750-1. He married (1) in Rehoboth, April 7, 1708, Patience, daughter of Watching Atherton (see Appendix C). She died there, January 28, 1731-2, in her fiftieth year. There being some property coming to them from their great-grandfather, Humphrey Atherton, the three children of an age to choose their own guardian, Atherton, Mary and Margaret, asked to have their uncle Samuel Atherton appointed, their father "David Chafey" consenting, and asking also to have a guardian appointed for Experience, who was under fourteen. Samuel Atherton was also made her guardian, these records being dated December 5, 1733, and May 25, 1734.

David Chaffe married (2) about May, 1733, Mrs. Hannah Pidge of Attleboro, Mass., their intention of marriage being published there and in Rehoboth, April 28, 1733. She married after David's death, Captain John Hoyle of Providence, R. I., their intention of marriage being entered in Attleboro, April 18, 1752.

The date of the following entry is not known, but it is thought to have been made between 1713 and 1715.

David Chaffe is spoken of in the records as "husbandman" and "yeoman." He was chosen Surveyor of the Highway in Rehoboth, March 25, 1723, and again in 1726. February 13, 1724-5, he, his brother Daniel and John Stevens, obtained of Nathaniel Read leave to build a dam on Ten Mile River, and to build a good saw-mill and a corn-mill. This was in Attleboro, and was called Chaffe's Dam and Chaffe's Mill. David and Daniel, together with Nathaniel Read, sold three-sixteenths of this mill privilege to Daniel Read, May 8, 1725. July 3, 1727, David Chaffe of Rehoboth, Daniel Chaffe of Attleboro, Captain Daniel Read, Samuel Robinson and Nathaniel Read, "all of them Millers," bought of Silas Titus, Rehoboth, land in Attleboro for £15. David Chaffe was chosen Constable of Rehoboth, March 29, 1731. October 9, 1734, he sold to Daniel Perrin, "Cordwainer," seven and a quarter acres of land in that town for £14, 10s. In the same year he bought of his brother Jonathan for £60, one hundred acres of land in Ashford, Conn. To this he added in 1737, twenty-six and a half acres bought of Nathaniel Fuller for £150, the property including a house. April 12, 1737, he sold to Daniel Perrin of Rehoboth for £55, eleven acres of his home lot in Rehoboth, and January 23d following for £300, twenty-eight acres more of the same property. In these deeds he is spoken of as "of Rehoboth." In 1739, he bought of Ichabod Ward for £150, one hundred acres more of land in Ashford, of which town he was at that time a resident. September 12, 1743, he gave to his son Atherton, one-half of all his lands, buildings, fences, orchards and improvements on his farm in Ashford on which he was then living. In 1746 he bought of Increase Sumner of Roxbury, twenty-four acres of land in Ashford, the price being £80 "old tenor bills credit." October 3, 1750, he gave to his son David, Jr., in consideration of love, good will and fatherly affection, thirty acres of land in Ashford. November 16, 1750, he sold for £100 to his son Atherton, three tracts of land there near Lead Mine Hill, containing about eighty-five acres, a house and buildings. Three months after this he died in Rehoboth. He and his wife Patience were buried in the western part of Rehoboth, now Seekonk.

12 Daniel<sup>3</sup> Chaffe (Nathaniel,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Rehoboth, Mass., October 30, 1687, and died in Attleboro, Mass., before February 13, 1768. He married (1) in Rehoboth, March 26, 1713, Alice (or Else) Millerd. She died, and he married (2) in Attleboro, November 3, 1757, Mrs. Perces Ormsby.

Daniel Chaffe's first recorded land transaction was June 13, 1712, when he sold to John French of Attleboro, two and a half acres of land in that town, formerly a part of the town of Rehoboth. December 17, 1722, he bought of Nicholas Bragg for £130, one hundred and thirty acres in Attleboro, adjoining the land of his brother David. February 13, 1724-5, Daniel and David Chaffe and John Stevens obtained leave of Nathaniel Read of Rehoboth, to build a dam on Ten Mile River in Attleboro, and a good saw-mill and a corn-mill. In the foregoing deeds Daniel was "of Rehoboth." May 8, 1725, David Chaffe, "Daniel Chaffe of Attleborough, mason," and Nathaniel Read sold one-sixteenth of this mill privilege. July 3, 1727, these three, and with them Captain Daniel Read and Samuel Robinson, "All of them Millers," bought of Silas Titus for £15, land in Attleboro. January 14, 1727-8, Daniel Chaffe "mason," bought of him three acres of land there for £3, 15s. December 31, 1733, he bought three acres more there for £4 10s., and March 30, 1734, three and a half acres more for £6. February 22, 1737-8, he bought of Samuel Robinson for £30, ten acres of land bounding on the line between Attleboro and Rehoboth. January 4, 1740-2, for £96, he added to this thirty acres more, and January 18, 1742, bought six acres of land on Ten Mile River from Ephraim Hall for £45. October 22, 1742, Daniel Chaffe, "husbandman," bought of John Kent and wife Rachel of Rehoboth, land in Swansea, Mass., for £47. November 9th following he sold to Samuel Robinson for £6, the "swamp or meadow flowed with ye Dam that was erected across Ten Mile River, called Chaffee's Dam & Mill." Daniel Chaffe, "yeoman," sold sixteen acres of land in Attleboro to Joshua Parmenter, for £100, December 26, 1744. February 3, 1745, Daniel Chaffe, "miller," sold to Henry Tolman, Jr., for £30, thirty acres of land there, and July 26, 1746, to Joseph Welman, twenty acres of land there for £80. October 30, 1747, with his son Daniel, Jr., he bought of Silas Titus thirty acres of land there for £350. November 2, 1747, he bought three acres more there for £30. August 15th following, Daniel, Sr., sold to Daniel Jr., for £400, sixty acres of land in the same town. March 15, 1758, he sold to Jonathan Titus, gunsmith, for £5, land near Chaffe's mill. March 1, 1758, he bought for £5, land in Attleboro. June 19, 1758, "Perces Chaffe, formerly Ormsby, wife of Daniel Chaffe," sold to Shubael Peck of Rehoboth, seventy-five acres of land there for £67, 10s. September 23, 1760, Daniel sold to Zachariah Carpenter of Rehoboth, one-quarter part of the saw-mill and one-quarter part of the corn-mill on Ten Mile River and one-quarter part of "Stream and Dam," etc., for £13, 6s. His final land transaction was the purchase, April 16, 1765, for £16, 7s. of land in Attleboro. His will, dated May 21, 1763, was witnessed by "Zeckariah Carpenter, Jonathan Titos, Samuel Atherton, and Peter Thacher." It made Daniel's son-in-law, Alexander Moore, executor. Daniel died some time before February 13, 1768, as under that date we find in the Taunton Probate Records the following item:

"Attleborough. These lines inform the Hon'd Judge the widdor has no objection.

The inventory was taken March 14, 1768, by Moses Wilmarth and Samuel Atherton.

The will contains the following bequests:

"Item—I give to my beloved wife, Perces, the use etc., of the West half of my Dwelling House.

"Item—I give unto my eldest daughter, Alice, and to my four Grandchildren viz. the children of my son Daniel Chaffe, and to my Grandchild viz. the child of my Daughter Esther, and to their Respective heirs and assigns [and  $\frac{1}{2}$  part thereof my wife] My daughter Alice to have  $\frac{1}{2}$  part thereof. And  $\frac{1}{2}$  part thereof to be equally divided between my four Grand children, children of Daniel Chaffee viz. Abner, Daniel, Samuel, and Mary.

"And the remaining 3rd part I give to my Grandson Joel son of my daughter, Esther Martin."

The executor filed his account April 3, 1769.

Children, by first wife, the first five born in Rehoboth, the last three in Attleboro:

14 Noah<sup>3</sup> Chaffe (Nathaniel,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Rehoboth, Mass., December 17, 1692, and died there October 5, 1732. He married (1) in Rehoboth, May 5, 1720, Sarah, daughter of Abiah and Mehitabel (Reed) Carpenter. She was born in Rehoboth, March 3, 1796-7, and died there, September 10, 1722. He married (2) in Rehoboth, December 16, 1725, Hepzibah Daggett, who died there, August 12, 1736, in her thirty-fifth year. Her estate was administered by her brother, Israel Daggett, who was appointed August 26, 1736, an inventory of her possessions being taken August 30, 1736.

The town records make no mention of Noah Chaffe, but his various land transactions are on record. On May 3, 1715, his father gave him six acres of land in Rehoboth, being the house lot, and also twenty-four acres in Half Mile swamp.

February 14, 1720-1, Noah Chaffe, "yeoman," bought for £18, 1s., eleven and three-quarters acres of land in Rehoboth of Hannah, widow of Josiah Turner of that place. February 5, 1724, he sold to his cousin Joseph Chaffe (18) of Barrington, Mass., one and a half acres of "Salt Marsh" in that place, "the other half being my brother Thomas Chaffe's." This deed was witnessed by John Chaffe (16) and Ebenezer Chaffe (78). He sold two acres in Rehoboth for £2, December 20, 1726, to Joseph Bucklin, Sr., of that place. Between this date and January 20, 1731-2, he became an inn-holder, as we find him so called in a deed of the latter date, when he sold to James Walker, a fellow-townsmen "a right of commonage" in Rehoboth for £3, 5s. The next day he sold to Richard Bowen for £185, the twenty-four acres in Half Mile swamp given him in 1715 by his father. Three months later, April 25, 1732, he bought for £15, four acres in Rehoboth from John Sweetland of Attleboro, Mass. This was his last land transaction, as he died the following October. There is no record that Noah Chaffe ever became a member of any church, though his wife, Hephzibah, joined the First Congregational Church of Rehoboth, December 18, 1726. She was appointed administratrix of his estate on November 9, 1732, but dying before it was settled, her husband's brothers, Jonathan (8) and Thomas (5), were appointed to complete the administration. Sarah, Noah's daughter by his first wife, chose as her guardian, August 25, 1736, her uncle Abiah Carpenter. Jonathan Chaffe (8) was appointed guardian of the minor children, Shubael and Christopher. October 30, 1738, Noah Chaffe's heirs drew lot number thirty-eight in Rehoboth.

Noah Chaffe and his second wife were buried in the old burying-ground, Rehoboth (now in the village of Rumford, East Providence, R. I.), where their tombstones bear the following inscriptions:

"Here lies ye body of
Mr. Noah Chaffe
Deceased
Oct' ye 5th 1732.
in ye 40th year of his age."

"Here lies inter'd ye body of Hephzibah Chaffe widow & relict of
Mr. Noah Chaffe
Dec'd Aug. 12th 1736 in ye 35th year of her age."

Child, by first wife:

+72 i Sarah<sup>4</sup> Chaffe, born August 20, 1722; married William Blanden.

Children, by second wife, born in Rehoboth:

73 ii Isaiah Chaffe, born November 4, 1727; died in Rehoboth, February 17, 1727-8.

+74 iii Shubael Chaffe, born March 23, 1729-30; married Elizabeth Crawford.

75 iv Christopher Chaffe, born August 7, 1731; died in Woodstock, Conn., December 31, 1755; was baptized in the First Congregational Church of Rehoboth, September 26, 1731; losing both his parents in early childhood, he probably lived with his uncle and guardian, Jonathan Chaffe (8); when he moved to Woodstock, we do not know, but it is on record under the date November 10, 1752, that "Christopher Chaffe, husbandman, of Woodstock, Conn.," sold for £60 to "Shubael Chaffe husbandman of Rehoboth" his interest in the estate of their father, being one-fourth part. He served in the French and Indian War, enlisting from Rehoboth, which is given as his residence, September 8, 1755, and serving in the expedition against Crown Point under the command of General William Johnson, in Captain Aaron Kingsley's company. [Massachusetts Colonial Records, Vol. XCIII, p. 199.] Soon after this he died; whether from the effects of his service or not, we do not know; his tombstone in the West Woodstock cemetery reads:

"Here lies the body of Mr. Christopher Chaffee who died Dec. ye 31 1755 in ye 25 year of his age."

The inventory of his real estate taken January 24, 1756, gives the amount as £759, 12s.; apparently he gave, either by will or by gift, before his death, a sum of money to the New Roxbury Society, as on December 13, 1756, at a meeting of the inhabitants: "It was proposed whether or no they would lay out that money that was given to the society by Christopher Chaffe late of Woodstock deceased for the finishing of the meeting house in said society toward the finishing of the pulpit & galleries, and it was voted in the affirmative by polling"; that his generosity was, though tardily, appreciated, is proved by the following:

"At a regular meeting of the society in Woodstock on the 10th day of December A. D. 1764, voted that the society committee should procure a decent pair of grave-stones for a memorial of Christopher Chaffe late of Woodstock deceased. Upon the account of his generous and pious gift or donation to said society"; these stones were procured through Shubael Child, and December 15, 1766, he acknowledged the receipt of £1, 12s. in payment for them.

16 John<sup>s</sup> Chaffe (Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Swansea, Mass., December 16, 1673 [Plymouth Colony Records] and died in Woodstock, Conn., December 2, 1757. He married (1) in Swansea, July 17, 1700, Sarah, daughter of Gershom and Elizabeth (Chadwick) Hills of Malden, Mass., [see Appendix B] and sister of his brother Joseph's wife. She was of Malden and died, probably in Woodstock, April 7, 1735. John Chaffe married (2) in Ashford, Conn., November 4, 1735, Elizabeth Hayward of that place, who died in Woodstock, February 5, 1760, aged eighty-seven. October 28, 1694, just before John Chaffe's twenty-first birthday, his father died and he, together with his mother and younger brother, was made an executor of the estate. According to the terms of his father's will he received a "heifor," one-half of his father's "tooles" and gun, and, on attaining the age of twenty-one, one-fourth part of his "Upland and Meadow ground in Swanzey." (See 1.) He and his mother drew lot number one hundred and twenty in a division of land in Rehoboth, June 16, 1697. [Rehoboth Records.]

"At a Town meeting Legally warned as by ye Constables return & the Town being together March 23, 1697-8 for choice of Town officers for ye year ensuing did proceed viz: . . . Surveyors of Highways . . . John Chaffy" and four others. [Swansea Records.]

March 25, 1701, "John Chafey" was chosen one of two Constables. [Ibid.]

March 29, 1703, he and his mother again received a share in a division of land in Rehoboth. [Rehoboth Records.]

The next day, March 30, 1703, "John Chaffy" and two others were chosen Tithingmen. [Swansea Records.]

On the "2d Tuesday in March 1703-4 . . . Field Drivers Chose for Wanne-mosset [up to 1667 part of Rehoboth, but at this time the western part of Swansea] John Chafie" and one other. [Ibid.]

June 6, 1704, John Chaffe of Swansea, bought of John Hall of Rehoboth ten acres of land there for £1, 10s.

June 30, 1704, "John Chafie" and two others were chosen "to serve on the Petty Jury at ye Court of Quarter Sessions to be holden at Bristol for ye County of Bristol on y 2 Tuesday of July next ensuing." [Ibid.]

February 9, 1707-8 "John Chaffee" and his mother again shared in a division of land in Rehoboth, drawing lot number fifty-eight. [Rehoboth Records.]

June 16, 1708, "John Chaffee of Swanzey yeoman" sold to Thomas Allen of the same town, six acres of land there for £9.

"Aprel the ninth one thousen seaven hundred and eleavene" an agreement in regard to a driftway on the west side of Hide's Hole, the hanging of two gates therein, etc., was signed by seventeen Proprietors of Swansea, two of whom were John Chafe" and "Joseph Chaffe," his brother.

About this time was agitated the question of forming a new town from that western part of Swansea called New Meadow Neck and Phebe's Neck, where John and Joseph Chaffe lived. The matter seems to have arisen from the fact that the meetinghouse was at such a distance from the dwellers in the western part of Swansea as to be of little use to them, though they were forced to pay tithes for the support of the minister and the maintenance of the meetinghouse. There seemed to be no other way than to form a new town and a new meetinghouse, so the following petition was drawn up and sent to the Governor and Council.

A PETITION

"To His Excellency Joseph Dudley, Esq., Captain-General and Governor-in-chief in and over His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts Bay in N. E., the Honorable Council and Representatives in General Court assembled at Boston this thirtieth day of May: [1711.]

"The petition of us the subscribers, inhabitants on the westward end of Swansea, most humbly sheweth, that among all the outward and external blessings with which the God of all mercy blesseth any people with all in this world, that of the House of God is among them; the Gospel purely preached and the ordinances of Christ's kingdom duly administered and fathers and children settled under pastoral watch care and government, under pious learned orthodox ministers being in our esteem the greatest.

"And we, your petitioners, being under the deplorable privations thereof, do most humbly and earnestly petition this Honorable Court that some methods may be taken (as in wisdom may be thought best) for our relief, we being assured of this Honorable General Court's power and good will to help in such cases, from their repeated acts of the like nature, do the more freely open our malady which bespeaks pity and cur. Not to mention the ill circumstances, which our different opinions (in matters of religion from our neighbors) bring our estates under, in whose power they are in all taxes (though bad enough of itself) is yet little and light compared with the bitterness we feel at present, and fear for the future for the very mention of no settled minister, learned and orthodox, no Church of Christ settled in order, no pastor to feed Christ's lambs among us; this as we believe is an uncomfortable thought unto all the holy and reverend ministers of Christ that know our state. So it is a heart-breaking thought to us to think, that when we are called out of this world to consider in what state we leave our posterity exposed to a ruining enticement from pure gospel and gospel ordinances. All which sorrow and misery either felt or feared, if the Honorable General Court do in mercy and pity prevent by granting us a township according to the limits of Capt. Samuel Low's military company in Swansea, thereby enabling us to settle and maintain a pious, learned and orthodox minister for the good of us and our posterity, God will be glorified, Christ's kingdom enlarged and will oblige your most humble petitioners ever to pray.

The other inhabitants of Swansea protested vigorously against this proposed separation, and the petition was denied, but the Council recommended to them "the Establishment & Support of a learned orthodox minister of good conversation and to Endeavor a subscription for his comfortable and honorable maintenance." The next year a similar petition was presented, with a like result.

At a town meeting on March 25, 1712, John Chaffe and one other were chosen Field Drivers. [Swansea Records.]

"At a Propriators meeting lawfully warned and met together by adjournment from the 8th day of January 1712 [1712-13] to the 12th day of Feb., 1712. Then met together and the propriators of lands in Rehoboth cast lotts for their farms & each propriator's lott fell as followeth . . . John Chaffee" drawing number fifty-five. [Rehoboth Records.]

"At a Town Meeting in Swansea: by Lawful warning on ye 25th of March 1713 for the choice of Town officers for the year ensuing . . . also by virtue of a warrant from the Clerk of Quarter sessions To chues 3 grand Jury men for the Insuing year and 3 men to on the Jury of Tryels at April Court 1713 proceeded to choice and chous vizt: . . . March 27, 1716, John Chaffe and five others were chosen Fence Viewers. [Ibid.]

The question of the division of the town continuing to occupy the minds of the people of old Swansea, the third petition to the General Court, in 1717, was heard and answered by the formation of a new town, and Phebe's Neck and New Meadow Neck were "erected into a township by the name of Barrington," on November 18, 1717. In 1718-19, in the new town of Barrington, "John Chaffey" was chosen one of two Fence Viewers for Phebe's Neck, New Meadow Neck also having two. [Barrington Records.] February 15, 1721, John Chaffe and Sarah (Hills) Chaffe, his wife, joined with other heirs of Gershom Hills in a quit claim deed to Ebenezer Hills of Malden, of two parcels of land in that place, one being eight or ten acres of land, the other two acres of salt marsh. This land was given to Gershom Hills by his father, Joseph Hills of Newbury, Mass., September 10, 1677. John Chaffe swore to his signature to this document before a Justice of the Peace, November 24, 1726. In 1725, with two others, John Chaffee was Surveyor of Highways [Ibid.] and in 1728 he was Grand Juror and Fence Viewer. [Ibid.] These are the last entries regarding him in the Barrington town records, for soon after this he moved to Woodstock. March 13, 1728-9, he bought of Ebenezer Morris of Woodstock, for £700, "a certain Messuage or Tenement and Land situated in the Town of Woodstock aforesd Lying in Sundry parcels. One piece contains by estimation fourty acres of Land a Mansion House and barn where said Morris now Dwells" bounded by the land of Benjamin Marcy, Isaiah Tiffany and the highways. Another piece contained fifty-eight acres and was bounded by the highways and the land of Benjamin Marcy and Captain Jonathan Payson. The third piece "called ye orchard" contained two acres.

Two weeks later, March 27, 1729, "John Chaffee yeoman" and Sarah, his wife, sold to Peleg Heath of Barrington, thirty acres of upland, meadow and salt marsh there, for £510.

May 9, 1729, John Chaffe and Sarah, his wife, sold to Joseph Chaffe, Sr., their brother, for £43, two acres of salt marsh bounded by the land of "Joseph Chafee Senr. & Joseph Chaffe Junr" the river, the creek and the pond. May 17, 1729, John Chaffe sold another piece of salt marsh, as the following deed, the original of which is in the possession of the writer, shows:

"To all People to Whome these Presents Shall Com Greeting &c. Between June 5, 1729, and February 12, 1729–30, John Chaffe had moved to Woodstock, as is evidenced by the following abstract of a deed of the latter date:

“Dated February 12, 1729–30.”

This deed was made in Woodstock, as is apparent from the names of the witnesses. Late in February or early in March, 1729–30, John Chaffe's mother died and, as he was one of the executors, he was obliged to go back to Barrington. At the probate court in Bristol, March 17th, he and his brother offered their mother's will for probate and gave bonds, their account being filed soon after. After all debts and legacies were paid, John must have received about £15 worth of personal property, as his half of the personal estate, and half of the land which by his father's will was to revert to him and his brother at his mother's death.

There is no record of his having sold this land. For fifteen years we find no further mention of him in the records, but we know that during this time he lost the wife of his youth and married again.

February 9, 1744–5, “John Chaffee, husbandman, of Woodstock,” bought of his son Joel, for £287, fifty acres of land in the southern part of Woodstock. Probably this was the land which he sold April 2, 1747, to Ebenezer Smith for £100. as that is also described as fifty acres of land in the southern part of Woodstock. The deed also mentions a dwelling house on the property, and is signed by John and Elizabeth Chaffe.

August 29, 1754, John Chaffe made his will, and the same day, doubtless in accordance with the custom of the day, he gave to his heirs part of their inheritance. The deeds state that the property was "sold" for stated sums; but no money passed between grantor and grantee, the sum being named and the value of the property fixed so that no dispute might afterwards arise regarding each heir having had his or her equal share. The children of his deceased son Hezekiah, namely, John (268) and Hezekiah, Jr. (269), received eight acres of land in Woodstock, valued at £20. The children of his deceased son Joel, namely, Joel, Jr. (251), Joshua (250), Abigail (253), Lucy (255), and Ruth (256) received the two acres of orchard in Woodstock which was one of the three parcels of land bought of Ebenezer Morris in 1728-9. This also was valued at £20. John Chaffe, Jr., received fifty acres of land in Woodstock, valued at £70, and Ebenezer a tenement and forty acres of land in Woodstock valued at £100. The eldest son, Joseph, received nothing at this time, but on his father's death in 1757, became his residuary legatee.

18 Joseph<sup>3</sup> Chaffe, Jr. (Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Swansea, Mass., February 6, 1677 [Plymouth Colony Records], and died, probably in Woodstock, Conn., not long before August 10, 1759. He was married in Malden, Mass., December 1, 1709, by Mr. Parsons, to Abigail, daughter of Gershom and Elizabeth (Chadwick) Hills [Malden Records, see Appendix B], and sister of his brother John's wife. Abigail (Hills) Chaffe died in Swansea, October 2, 1710, when her only child was three weeks old. Joseph Chaffe was married (2) in Falmouth, Mass., October 16, 1712, by Joseph Metcalf, to Jemima Chadwick of that place. She died before her husband, as she was not mentioned as one of his heirs in the settlement of his estate.

Joseph Chaffe lost his father in November, 1694, when he was only sixteen years old. He was, with his mother and brother, executor of his father's estate and under his father's will received the family Bible which had belonged to his father and his grandfather Chaffe, his father's sword and a heifer, also half his father's "tools" and gun, and, on reaching the age of twenty-one, half his upland and meadow ground in Swansea.

There is no further reference to him in any kind of record until 1701 when "At a Town meeting . . . ye 25th of March 1701, . . . for field Drivers Chosen . . . Joseph Chaffy" and two others. [Swansea Records.]

Hereafter his name appears frequently in these records, as follows: March 27, 1702. "Joseph Chafy" was chosen one of two Field Drivers for "wannamosset Neck." March 30, 1703, he was chosen Petty Juryman. March 25, 1707, with three others, he was chosen again as a Field Driver, and March 23, 1707-8, for the same office, with four others. August 30, 1710, "Joseph Chafe" was one of a committee of nine, "of febe's neck In swansea," which met and chose Benjamin Viall as clerk to keep the records of the community. April 9, 1711, he and his brother John were two of seventeen Proprietors of Swansea who signed an agreement in regard to a driftway on the west side of Hide's Hole, the hanging of two gates therein, etc. The petition, presented in May of this year, for the separation of the western end of Swansea into a separate township was also signed by the two brothers. (See 16.) The last mention of Joseph Chaffe in the Swansea records is dated March 30, 1714, when he was one of two Constables chosen. In 1717, the desire of the dwellers on Phebe's Neck and New Meadow Neck to be set off into a separate town was finally granted, and November 18th the Township of Barrington was formed. In 1718, Joseph Chaffe was chosen as guardian by Jonathan Paine (27), the son of his cousin Dorothy (Chaffe) Paine (4). The Barrington records show that he continued to occupy the same prominent place in the affairs of the new town as he did in the old. In 1720 he was one of two Tythingmen, and in 1721 Fence Viewer for Phebe's Neck. February 15, 1721, as heir of his first wife, Abigail (Hills) Chaffe, he signed a quit claim deed to Ebenezer Hills of Malden, on property to which she been one of the heirs. (See 16.) He swore to his signature to this document, November 24, 1726. November 22, 1721, "Joseph Chaffee, of Barrington, in the County of Bristol, in his Majesty's Province, in the Massachusetts bay in New England, husbandman, the son of Joseph Chaffee deceased" bought of Thomas Tiffany, Sr., of Ashford, Conn., for £42, 10s., one hundred acres of land there, adjoining the land of Daniel Fuller. In 1722 Joseph Chaffe was Hog Reeve of Barrington [Barrington Records], his duty being to impound hogs running at large and to execute ordinances as to swine. February 5, 1724, Noah Chaffe of Rehoboth "yeoman" sold to his cousin, Joseph of Barrington, for £22, one-half of three acres of salt marsh in Barrington, "the other half being my brother Thos. Chaffe's," the deed being witnessed by John (16) and Ebenezer Chaffe (78). Joseph bought the remaining half of this property of Thomas, May 4, 1730, for £30. In 1725 Joseph Chaffe was again Hog Reeve and also Constable, and the town allowed him "15 shillings" "for a house to keep school in" [Ibid.], some building owned by him being used for that purpose. May 9, 1729, he bought of his brother John and Sarah, his wife, for £43, two acres of salt marsh bounded by the land of "Joseph Chafee Senr. & Joseph Chaffe Junr," the river, the creek, the pond and the creek flowing out of it. In this year his brother John moved to Woodstock, Joseph remaining behind on the homestead, his aged mother living with him. She did not long survive her elder son's departure for his new home, dying the latter part of February, or early in March, 1729-30. John and Joseph were her executors and they offered the will for probate and gave bonds March 17, 1729-30, filing their account soon after. By her will Joseph received about £15 worth of personal estate and half of her share of her husband's property, which reverted to their sons at her death. Joseph's share of the homestead being the "North side of the Home lott" according to the provisions of his father's will.

December 18, 1730, he sold to Samuel Allen for £197, 3s., eight and three-quarters acres and two square rods of upland and salt marsh in Barrington at a place called Rice's Neck. December 22, 1730, he bought of Jonathan Hayward of Ashford, for £250, two hundred acres of land in that place bounded by the land of Jacob Boutell, James Corbin, Benjamin Read, Robert Serls and the common.

In 1733 appears the last mention of Joseph Chaffe in the Barrington records, in that year he being Surveyor of Highways. In April, 1733, he was in Woodstock, probably visiting his brother John, preparatory to settling there himself. On the 5th of that month he bought of John Scarborough of Woodstock for £1,150 four tracts of land; one containing seventy acres, a dwelling house and barn; the second thirty acres of meadow or mowing land; the third fifteen acres, and the fourth three acres; "Always reserving a way through the land for the watering of flax by the neighbors as there may be occasion with as little disadvantage as may be." The same day Joseph Chaffe sold to John Scarborough land in Barrington, as the following deed shows:

"To all People to whom these Presents shall come, Greeting. Know ye, That I Joseph Chaffe of Barrington in the County of Bristol in his majesties province of the Massachusetts Bay in Newengland Husbandman For and in Consideration of the Sum of Twelve Hundred Pounds Currant money to me in hand before the Ensealing hereof, well and truly paid by John Scarbrough of Woodstock in the County of Worcester & province aforesd Husbandman the Receipt whereof I do hereby acknowledge and my self therewith fully satisfied and contented, and thereof, and of every Part and Parcel thereof, do exhonerate, acquit and discharge

[Recorded in Vol. XXII, p. 15 of the Bristol County, Mass., Land Records, Northern District, Taunton, Mass.]

Thus the Chaffe homestead, which had been owned by the Chaffes for seventy-three years, and on which four generations of Chaffes had lived, passed out of the family, into the hands of strangers; with it also passed what was probably the last resting place of Thoma: Chaffe, the emigrant, of Joseph and Annis, and their children, Dorothy and Mary, of Abigail (Hills) Chaffe, of Doctor Hezekiah Chaffe and doubtless others. But the deed contained a proviso that this "Ancient Chaffe Burying Ground," should not be defaced. John Scarborough sold thirty acres of this property to Samuel Barnes, September 19, 1733. The deed contains the following:

"The said John Scarborough did reserve out of the above mentioned land four rod of ground being a burying place in the first mentioned tract not to be defaced."

Between April 5, and August 5, 1733, Joseph Chaffe settled in Ashford, as on the latter date his wife, Jemima, was admitted to membership in the First Congregational Church in Woodstock, having been dismissed from the church in Barrington. Joseph was also an active member of this church.

Some few facts regarding the new home of Joseph Chaffe may be of interest. The town of Woodstock or, as it was first called, New Roxbury, was settled in the summer of 1686 by men from Roxbury, Mass., and was a part of the Massachusetts Bay Colony until 1749, when it became a part of Connecticut. The name was changed from New Roxbury to Woodstock in the spring of 1690. Joseph Chaffe settled in the western part of the town.

In 1733 the town arranged to have a schoolhouse built in this part of the town, and the settlers increasing, West Parish desired to have religious services of its own for four months of the year at the expense of the whole town. This request, it was argued, was only fair inasmuch as the western half was obliged to contribute to the support of the Church on the Hill (in the central part of Woodstock). But the town refused to assume any of the charges. After trying the experiment for two winters, the West Parish people found the expense of supporting both ministers to be too great a burden, and they therefore again asked the help of the town, and were refused. They still persisted and petitioned that the western half might be formed into a distinct township. Town meetings were held, and at last permission was given them to address the General Court in Boston on the subject. But their petition to the General Court was dismissed. The West Woodstock people insisted on the formation of a parish where they could worship God in their own fashion, and not be obliged to aid any church outside of their parish. They were willing to give up all ideas of a town of their own. This modified request was made to the town, and to the General Court. The General Court complied by passing an act in 1743, incorporating the district as "The West Parish of Woodstock." The West Parish was now called by the old name of New Roxbury. It was also called the Second Precinct of Woodstock. Thus we see that the same trouble which caused part of Swansea to be formed into the separate town of Barrington caused the establishment of West Parish or New Roxbury, and as Joseph Chaffe was active in demanding his rights in one town, so he was in the other.

This first petition, dated November 2, 1736, was signed by thirty men, of whom "Joseph Chaffee" was one. [Larned's History of Windham County.] April 5, 1743, another petition was presented and also a further memorial from Joseph Chaffee and Samuel Chandler. [Ibid.] September 15th of that year "the west half part of Woodstock" was incorporated into a separate parish and held their first meeting in the schoolhouse, September 27th. [Ibid.] At this meeting, Joseph Chaffee was chosen one of three Assessors and also one of a committee of three for calling precinct meetings, in which capacity he signed warrants, November 26, 1743, February 4, 1743-4, September 10, 1744, and August 18, 1746, for meetings in regard to a minister and a meetinghouse. [Records of the Second Ecclesiastical Society of Woodstock.] March 12, 1743-4, he was chosen Moderator [Ibid.], and it was voted "To petition the Court to lay a tax for building meeting-house, on unimproved land—five shillings per acre for five years—Joseph Chaffee to present petition." [History of Windham County.] This necessitated a trip to Boston on the part of Joseph Chaffee. April 13, 1744, he was one of three chosen to secure supplies for the pulpit. It was found difficult to decide on a spot for the meetinghouse which should be satisfactory to all the inhabitants, so three men from outside of the new precinct were asked to pick out a spot. They met March 18, 1744-5, and Joseph was one of a committee of six chosen to wait on them. The site selected was that of the present Congregational church in West Woodstock. [History of Windham County.] November 18, 1746, it was agreed to pay Joseph Chaffee ten shillings a day for work on the meetinghouse. [Records of the Second Ecclesiastical Society of Woodstock.] May 15, 1747, he was again chosen Moderator. [Ibid.] August 24, 1748, he was chosen one of a committee of two to seek a suitable spot for a burial-place, he representing the southern part of the town. [Ibid.] March 13, 1749, he was chosen as Assessor and also one of a committee of three to build a pulpit and "body seats" in the meetinghouse. [Ibid.] November 1, 1750, he and one other were appointed a committee to procure a schoolmaster [Ibid.], and August 30, 1753, one of a similar committee "to take care of setting up a school in the southeast district of the society. [Ibid.]"

The first recorded act in Woodstock of Joseph Chaffe was the purchase from his nephew Joel (77) for £85, of one hundred acres of land in Ashford, March 12, 1733-4. This was his last purchase of land of which we have record, but soon thereafter he began to give to his sons for their "advancement and settlement in the world" part of their shares of his estate. The first gift was made to his eldest son, March 12, 1735-6, "in Consideration of Love and Goodwill and Effectation which I have and do have towards my loving son Benjamin Chaffee of Ashford." The property was that which he had bought two years previous of Joel Chaffee. The next gift was December 31, 1743, to "Joseph Chaffee Jun of Ashford," one hundred acres of land there, the southerly part of the tract which the grantor bought in 1730 of Jonathan Hayward. The next son to receive his share was "Thomas Chaffe of Woodstock Weaver" who received, January 13, 1745-6, twenty-three acres of land, in Woodstock, valued at £230, on which land he had already built a dwelling-house. "Samuel Chaffe of Woodstock" received the other half of the Hayward tract in Ashford, adjoining Joseph, Jr., May 24, 1750. September 26th of the same year James Chaffe received a house and twenty-five acres of land in the south half of Woodstock, for a nominal consideration of ten shillings, the property being really a gift. Stephen received sixteen acres of land, also in the south half of Woodstock, February 17, 1758, and July 4, 1758, Josiah received three-fourths of an acre of land in Woodstock, the value being stated as £3. Whether this was also a nominal consideration or whether the transaction was a bona fide sale is not clear. Perhaps it was a wedding gift, as Josiah was married nine days later.

Joseph Chaffe left no will, but the following inventory of his estate was filed, August 30, 1759, probably soon after his death:

He married in Rehoboth, May 12, 1726, Frelove, daughter of Samuel and Patience (Ide) Carpenter. She was born there, December 31, 1706, and married (2) in Rehoboth, January 27, 1742, Samuel Mason. She united with the First Congregational Church there, January 9, 1731-2.

No mention of Amos is found in the records regarding transfers of land or activity in town affairs. He died intestate, and his widow was appointed administratrix, August 17, 1736, her bond being signed by Samuel Mason and Noah Newman; the inventory had been taken the previous day, and the estate amounted to £149, 11s. 9d. February 14, 1757, Samuel and Frelove Mason sold for £5, to "Lillis Chaffe, Unis Chaffe and Frelove, wife of Eliphalet Carpenter, all right in the dower set off to Frelove Mason from the estate of her late husband, Amos Chaffe, also one-quarter part of the share of her daughter Experience in the same estate, also all right in the land given to Lillis, Unis and Freelove, May 27, 1737, by their grandfather, Thomas Chaffe (5), part of it near Broken Cross in Rehoboth, and part salt marsh at a place called the "Tounge" in Warren, R. I. Experience must have died after her father, as she received a share of his estate, and before her grandfather's gift, as she was not mentioned in his deed to "my grandchildren the heirs of my son Amos Chaffe." Nicholas must also have died young, as he was not baptized July 2, 1732, as were all the other children of Amos then living.

Amos Chaffe was buried in the old burying-ground in Rehoboth (now in the village of Rumford, East Providence, R. I.).

He married there, April 19, 1739, Rebecca, daughter of Nathaniel Hunt, their intention of marriage, entered in Rehoboth, being dated May 27, 1738.

Thomas Chaffe, Jr., was baptized and admitted to the First Congregational Church in Rehoboth, June 13, 1736. He lived in that town, where he was chosen "Hogg Driver" March 30, 1741, and June 5, 1749, Constable. August 9, 1748, Rebecca, wife of Thomas Chaffe, Jr., husbandman, of Rehoboth, and others, sold to Simeon Horton a quitclaim on real estate of Stephen Hunt of Rehoboth, for £93, 6s. 8d. October 14, 1754, Thomas and Rebecca sold to Allen Jacob, ten acres of land in Rehoboth, adjoining the land of Amos Chaffe's heirs, for £20. At a town meeting, May 18, 1757, Thomas was chosen to serve as Petit Juryman.

"A Muster Role of the Company in his Majestie's Service under the Command of Obediah Read, Captain, that marched from Rehoboth on the Late Alarm for the Relieff of Fort William Henry the Seventeenth Day of August 1757 and marched to Worcester where they ware Dismised which is at Least fourty five miles from their Habitations and according to their Orders Caryed with them Ten Days Provision for their Subsistance and Took up nothing upon the Province charge of any Tavernour or other person."

In this muster roll, appears the name of "Thomas Chaffe, Quality, Private Soldier, Time of Entering the service Aug. 16th. Whole time of service by mils, travil, etc. 7 days, wages and subsistance due to each man 0£ 18s 8d."

December 28, 1762, Thomas Chaffe bought of his cousin, Timothy Carpenter (61), for £200, all his title in the estate of John Sweeten [Sweeting], late of Rehoboth. An account of the subscriptions in the first military company in Rehoboth, taken in October, 1774, for the poor in Boston, shows that Thomas Chaffe contributed one sheep. He served in the Revolution as follows: "Chaffee, Thomas. Private, Capt. Nathaniel Carpenter's co., Col. Thomas Carpenter's regt.; service from July 20, 1777, 1 mo. 5 days, at Rhode Island, including travel on march to camp at Bristol and from Providence to Rehoboth." [Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Revolution.]

October 21, 1779, "Thomas Chaffe, husbandman, of Rehoboth," bought of Benjamin Pearce, innholder, of Swansea, Mass., ninety-six and three-fourths acres and twenty rods of land there, at the same time selling, with the consent of his wife, to Benjamin Pearce, eighty acres of land in Rehoboth. The next mention of him in the records, May 5, 1783, shows him to be then living in Swansea and insane.

His sons, Amos Chafee and Thomas Chafee, Jr., were "empowered to Act as Guardians for there Honoured Father . . . the said Thomas Chafee of Swansea non compus mentus." December 9, 1784, in their capacity as guardians, they sold the land their father purchased in Swansea in 1779, to Nathan Monroe, Esq., of Rehoboth, for £261, 11s. 3d. October 21, 1793, Rebecca Chaffe, "spinster," [in those days the word meant either a single woman or a widow] of Swansea, sold to Allen Jacob of Rehoboth, for £15, all right in the land divided to her from the estate of her father Nathaniel Hunt. April 4, 1795, "Rebeckah" Chaffe, widow of Thomas Chaffe of Swansea, sold to Nathaniel Wheaton of Rehoboth, for £15, fifteen acres of land there.

He married (2) in Ashford, March 25, 1756, Rachel Fuller, who died in Westminster, July 29, 1803, where she was buried. She spent her last days with her son Constant.

In 1738, Atherton Chaffe of Ashford, bought of Moses Fuller of that place, one hundred acres of land there. September 12, 1743, his father gave him one-half of all his lands, buildings, fences, orchards and improvements on the farm in Ashford, where he, David, then lived. November 16, 1750, Atherton Chaffe, "yeoman," bought of his father for £500, three tracts of land in Ashford, near a place called Lead Mine Hill, containing about eighty-five acres, a house and buildings. History says that in 1751 Atherton went with a party to Westminster, N. H. His last real estate transaction showing him to be a resident of Ashford, was February 8, 1758, when he bought for £18, twenty-six acres of land there, of Jonathan Pidge. In 1759, he is spoken of as of Westminster. The town was in what was then known as "the New Hampshire Grants." What is now Vermont was claimed by both New York and New Hampshire and was the subject of a long and bitter dispute, which lasted until after the Revolution. Vermont was not recognized as a state and admitted to the Union until 1791. Atherton Chaffe is said to have helped build a blockhouse in Vermont, and to have lived in it with twenty other families for four years. He was a Private from 1768 to 1770 in a volunteer company in Westminster, which was organized about that time, to prepare the men for defensive purposes when necessary. The following church document will be of interest to the descendants of Atherton Chaffe:

"We the subscribers being desirous of having a steeple built to the meeting house that is about to be built in the town of Westminster present this our humble petition to the proprietors that have undertaken to build said house for liberty to build said steeple and for encouragement therefore we promise and bind ourselves to pay the sum or sums set to each of our names in order to pay the cost of said building provided the proprietors of said house shall see fit to grant us liberty and will allow us an equal share in the house with them according to the terms which we subscribe, in witness whereof we have hereunto set our hands and seals this 8th day of March in the year of our Lord Christ 1769.

April 10th following, Stephen Stebbins, William King and John Bliss were appointed by the Judge of Probate to appraise the estate, and they met June 4th at the house of "the widow Mrs. Hannah Chaffey" and appraised the estate "as it was shewed them by Mrs. Hannah and Mr. Joseph Chaffee." The children received their father's share in their grandfather's estate, August 29, 1754. The estate of their mother was divided among the children in Woodstock, February 2, 1757. November 16, 1732, bonds were given by Mary Chaffe, Samuel Hills, cooper, and Joel Chaffe, cordwainer (77), all of Rehoboth, and the administration of the estate was closed. January 22, 1732-3, Mary Chaffe sold to John Toogood, boatman of Barrington, twenty-five acres of land in Rehoboth, with a dwelling house and barn on it for £265, buying back this property June 11th following for the same sum. October 18, 1734, she, with others, sold to John Toogood, for £80, a quitclaim deed of all interest on the estate of her father, John Toogood, in Swansea.

In the ancient Chaffe burying-ground near Barrington, R. I (formerly within the limits of Barrington, Mass., and before that of Swansea), on the Asa Peck farm, formerly the property of Thomas Chaffe the emigrant, then of Joseph, his son, and then of Joseph, his grandson (by whom it was sold to strangers), is found an old tombstone bearing the following inscription:

"Here Lieth the body of Hezekiah Chaffe, died Octo.t ye 18th 1731 in ye 26th of his age."

+269 iii Hezekiah Chaffe, Jr., born December 6, 1731; married Mrs. Lydia (Griswold) Phelps.

80 John<sup>4</sup> Chaffe, Jr. (John,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Swansea, Mass., February 10, 1706-7, and died January 2, 1796. He married in Woodstock, Mass. (now Conn.), December 17, 1730, Mehitable Mascraft, who died in South Wilbraham, June (January) 29, 1803, aged ninety-six years and twenty-six days. Their intention of marriage was entered in Woodstock, April 24, 1730.

John Chaffe probably moved with his parents from Swansea to Woodstock, about 1729 or 1730, and was living there at the time of his marriage. He was baptized and owned the covenant in the First Congregational Church there, July 29, 1733, the same day his wife being admitted to full communion with the same church. His name is found on the membership list February 24, 1740, and in March, 1753. July 15, 1745, he bought of John Bartholomew for £25, twenty acres and twenty perches of land in the south half of Woodstock. April 1, 1747, Joseph Chaffe (76), administrator of the estate of Joel Chaffe (77), sold to John Chaffe all the real estate of the said Joel, being seventy-five acres; January 14th following John Chaffe sold to Samuel Mascraft for £250, 75 acres of land there, probably that formerly belonging to Joel. John was a voter in Woodstock, when made a Freeman, September 12, 1749. September 25, 1752, "John Chaffe, husbandman," sold to James Franklin of Attleboro, Mass., sixty acres of land in Woodstock for £450. August 29, 1754, he received from his father fifty acres of land valued at £70. December 24, 1754, he bought back from James Franklin the land he sold him in 1752, paying an advance price of £40. The land received from his father in 1754, "John Chaffe, yeoman" he sold April, 6, 1764, to Benjamin Skinner of Wilbraham for £255, the same day buying of Skinner three tracts of land in Wilbraham, one of thirteen acres with buildings thereon for £296, one of thirty-five acres for £30, and one of sixty-one acres for £18. June 30, 1765, he and his wife were dismissed from the church in Woodstock to the Second Congregational Church in Stafford, Conn. In 1768 they were members of the South Wilbraham Congregational Church. October 20th of that year, "John Chaffe and Mehitable his wife of South Wilbraham" sold to William Martin, Jr., of Woodstock, twenty eight acres of land and a mansion house there for £70. September 3, 1769, he gave to his son-in-law, Phineas Stebbins, "in consideration of that love and goodwill which I do bear to son-in-law Phineas Stebbins, husbandman of Wilbraham" certain lots of land in that place. Three days later he sold to his son Simeon for £6, land there. May 30, 1770, a list of sittings in the Wilbraham Congregational Church states that "John Chaffee and wife," with six others, occupied pew number twenty-six. March 14, 1772, he sold to his son Amos, land in Wilbraham for £20. An agreement made in Wilbraham in 1774, not to purchase English-made goods, was signed by John Chaffee and one hundred and twenty-four other men. The farm on which John Chaffe lived in Wilbraham was inherited by his son Simeon, and from him, by his son Emery.

In the old burying-ground in Hampden (formerly South Wilbraham) lie the remains of John Chaffe and his wife, their gravestones bearing the following inscriptions:

Josiah Chaffe was baptized in the First Congregational Church of Ashford, February 23, 1728-9. He bought land in Ashford as early as 1753, and later made several other purchases there. He was admitted to the new freeman's oath in Ashford, April 13, 1778. Under the date of May 5, 1787, we find that his earmark for cattle was "a half penny cut out of each side of the left ear." April 4, 1815, in Ashford, Carpenter Chaffe, one of the heirs of Josiah Chaffe, moved for a division of the property that belonged to the widow, Elizabeth, "now deceased," the same to be divided equally among the seven surviving children, Frederick, Josiah, Fidelia, Susanna, Israel D., Carpenter and Elihu.

He was of that town in 1758, when he bought of James Bicknell, a fellow townsman, for £75, fifty acres of land, partly in Ashford and partly in Willington. He probably moved to Willington about the time of his marriage, as all but the youngest of his children were born there, and he was of that place September 17, 1783, when he bought of Elijah Carpenter of Becket for £100, one hundred and six acres of land in the latter town, lying east of a pond called "Yoakem Pond," being lot number forty-two in the second division. Soon after he moved with his family to Becket, where on April 3, 1784, he and his wife were admitted to membership in the First Congregational Church by letter from the church in Willington. March 1, 1793, he was chosen with two others to superintend the records of the church. He was a farmer and was known as a kind and Christian neighbor. It is said to have been his custom to take a neighbor's little daughter behind him on his horse, as he and his wife rode to church. Administra-

Nathaniel Chaffee, Jr., was baptized in the First Congregational Church of Rehoboth, in the spring of 1751. He was a blacksmith, and lived the greater part of his life in Rehoboth. When he made his will in 1818 he called himself of Seekonk, but as the records do not show that he sold his land in Rehoboth, and all the property mentioned in the will was in Seekonk, the probability is that his Rehoboth property was in the western part of the town, which in 1812 was set off as a separate town, and called Seekonk. In 1759, Nathaniel Chaffe, Jr., was appointed administrator of his father's estate. November 9, 1761, "Nathaniel Chaffe, blacksmith" bought for £126, of David Thuston of Rehoboth, also a blacksmith, twenty acres of land there, being Thuston's homestead. June 18, 1764, he sold to Josiah Cushing for £9, one acre of salt marsh in Swansea, Mass., "formerly belonging to my father." July 1, 1765, he sold for £8, 10s. to Abner Allyn, another acre of salt marsh in Swansea. At a town meeting in Rehoboth, August 29, 1774, he was chosen to serve on the petit jury. The next year the Revolution broke out and Nathaniel Chaffee enlisted immediately on receipt of the news of the Battle of Lexington:

"Chafee, Nathaniel, Rehoboth. Private, Capt. John Lyon's or Capt. Jesse Perrin's co., which marched on the alarm of April 19, 1775; service 7 days [the two Rehoboth alarm companies under Capt. Lyon and Capt. Perrin returned upon one roll].

At a town meeting in Rehoboth, March 31, 1777, Nathaniel Chaffee was chosen Surveyor of Highways. March 31, 1784, he bought for £26, 2s. 6d., of Samuel Newman of Rehoboth, four and three-quarters acres of land there, being the easterly part of the grantor's homestead.

His will, recorded in Taunton, follows:

"In the name of God Amen, I Nathaniel Chaffee of Seekonk in the County of Bristol and commonwealth of Massachusetts being of a sound disposing mind and memory for which I bless God calling to mind the mortality of my body knowing tis appointed for all men to die do make this my last Will and Testament principally I Give my soul unto God who gave it hoping Through the merits of Christ my only Redeemer to receive the full pardon of all my sins and to inherit eternal life let my body be decently buried at the discretion of my Executor hereafter named And as touching such worldly estate as God was pleased to bless me with I Give and dispose of the same as follows Viz.—Imprimis, I give unto my four sons Viz—Comfort Chaffee Nathaniel Chaffee Benjamin Chaffee and Simeon Chaffee Five dollars each in addition to what I had Before given them to be paid by my executor thereafter named Then, I give unto my son Ezra Chaffee and to his heirs and assigns my lot of land adjoining his home place in Seekonk—In consideration of what I have given him I order him to pay to my daughter Hannah Chaffee twelve dollars in Money Then,—I give to my Grandchildren—Viz—Children of my Son Daniel Chaffee deceased two acres of woodland adjoining their own land their Mother to have priviledge to cut wood thereon while she remains my sons widow. 144 John<sup>6</sup> Chaffee (Nathaniel,<sup>4</sup> Jonathan,<sup>3</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>3</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Rehoboth, Mass., June 20, 1737, and died January 21, 1811. He married, about 1759–60, Ruth Jones of Rehoboth, their intention of marriage being published October 6, 1759. She died February 26, 1808, in her sixty-ninth year.

John Chaffee was baptized in the First Congregational Church of Rehoboth in the spring of 1751. At the time of his marriage he lived in North Providence, and probably soon after moved to Newport, R. I., as from 1762 to 1768 he had children born there. He served in the Revolution in a Massachusetts regiment:

“Chaffe, John, Private, Capt. Thomas Crandon's co., Col. John Hathaway's regt.; enlisted Aug. 2, 1780; discharged Aug. 8, 1780; service, 6 days, on an alarm at Rhode Island.” [Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Revolution.]

In March, 1781, John Chaffee, yeoman of Dartmouth, bought of John Cannon for £120, several parcels of land. December 10, 1781, as administrator of the estate of Henry Wrightman of Dartmouth, he sold land to Nathaniel Spooner. December 18, 1781, he bought for £49, 10s., thirteen and a quarter acres of land in Dartmouth to which he added, September 5, 1785, four more acres, costing £7, 4s. December 26, 1791, he bought for £7, 10s., two acres of land in New Bedford, Mass., where he was living December 8, 1794, when he bought of Gamaliel Bryant twenty-two acres of land there, and four and a half acres in Poneganset Great Cedar Swamp, for £90. August 24, 1795, he bought of John Smith of Roxbury, Mass., for £36, thirty acres of land in New Bedford. March 10, 1797, he sold to Simpson Spooner for $25, a quitclaim on two acres of salt meadow in New Bedford.

The following is thought to refer to John Chaffee:

"Previous to the Revolutionary War a candle house the first in the place [New Bedford] was built by Joseph Russell and Capt. Chaffee, who had been engaged in manufacturing spermaceti in Lisbon, was employed by Mr. Russell at the then large salary of $500 per year. This building stood near the corner of Centre and Front Streets and was burnt by the British during the general conflagration of the place." [Ricketson's History of New Bedford.]

Children, born in Newport:

- 433 i John<sup>6</sup> Chaffee, Jr., born September 20, 1762; married, November 17, 1808, Nancy McLane, both being of New Bedford.
 + 434 ii Ezra Chaffee, born December 15, 1764; married Deborah Hathaway.
 435 iii Ruth Chaffee, born April 22, 1768; died June 26, 1787; buried in Acushnet, Mass.

146 Levi<sup>5</sup> Chaffee (Nathaniel,<sup>4</sup> Jonathan,<sup>3</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Rehoboth, Mass., September 10, 1742, and died. He married there, February 24, 1765, Anna Pierce, born June 10, 1746. She married (2) ——— Horton.

Levi Chaffe was baptized in the First Congregational Church of Rehoboth in the spring of 1751. His father dying in 1759, his brother Nathaniel was appointed his guardian.

Levi "Chaffe" of Rehoboth, served in the Colonial Wars as Private in Captain Jabez Snow's company from July 6 to December 10, 1761, according to a roll dated Boston, Mass., April 14, 1762. [Massachusetts Archives, Muster Rolls, Vol. XCIX, p. 131].

He was a blacksmith and seems to have been fond of change, as in the five years from 1775 to 1780, we find that he lived in five towns, Wrentham, Rehoboth, Mendon, Bellingham and Attleboro, all in Massachusetts; but he did not go far from his native town, as all these towns adjoined each other, Attleboro lying north of Rehoboth, Wrentham north of Attleboro, Bellingham west of Wrentham, and Mendon west of Bellingham. He was of Rehoboth, October 5, 1763, when he sold to William Chaffee (158) for £14, three and one-half acres of land there, which had formerly belonged to his father, Nathaniel. He was living in Wrentham in 1772 and 1775, when children were born to him there and he enlisted from there at the time of the Lexington Alarm:

"Chaffe, Levi, Wrentham. Private, Capt. Asa Fairbanks's co., which marched on the alarm of April 19, 1775; service, 3½ days." [Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Revolution.]

September 26, 1776, he was again living in Rehoboth, when he and his wife sold to Joseph Matthews for £195, forty-two acres of land there. February 10, 1777, they were still of that town when they sold to Eleazer Bliss, fourteen and three-quarters acres of land for £78. But before the next winter they had again moved, this time to Mendon, where February 3, 1778, they sold land to Daniel Wedge for £140. February 16, 1778, they sold land there to Caleb Thompson for £480. By the next winter they had moved to Bellingham and were planning another removal to Attleboro, for on March 8, 1779, "Levi Chaffe yeoman of Bellingham" bought of Oliver Whitaker of Attleboro for £900, sixty-five acres of land in that place, the next day, March 9th, selling his homestead in Bellingham containing seventy-five acres of land, buildings and fences, for £1,200, to Ezekiel Thayer of that town. He moved within a year to Attleboro, as the war records show:

"Chaffe, Levi, Attleborough. Descriptive list of men raised to reinforce Continental Army for the term of 6 months, agreeable to resolve of June 5, 1780; age, 36 years [this is erroneous, he was almost 38], stature, 5 ft. 4 in.; complexion, light; residence, Attleborough; arrived at Springfield July 9, 1780; marched to camp July 11, 1780, under command of Ensign Bancroft.

"Chaffee, Levi, Attleborough. Pay roll for 6 months men raised by the town of Attleborough for service in the Continental Army during 1780; marched July 6, 1780; discharged August 22, 1780; service, 1 mo. 16 days." [Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Revolution.]

September 27, 1782, Levi and his wife of Attleboro, sold to Israel Pierce of Rehoboth thirty acres of land in Attleboro and half the house where they lived for £90. January 15, 1783, they sold to James Pullen, Jr., for £33, 3s., twelve and one-half acres of land in Attleboro, being the northwesterly part of the grantor's home place. January 29, 1783, they sold to Israel Pierce for £60, four and one-half acres more in Attleboro. This is the last mention that has been found in the records, so it is probable that he moved away, perhaps to Vermont, with his children. It is not known when and where he died.

Children:

- +437 ii Jonathan Chaffee, born April 18, 1768; married Polly Horton.

He married Susanna Esterbrook, who died there in 1829. Noah Chaffee was baptized in the First Congregational Church of Rehoboth, in the spring of 1751. August 3, 1762, when of an age to choose his own guardian, he made choice of his uncle Ephraim Chaffe (44). He lived for some years in Rehoboth, where he was a tailor. November 10, 1769, with William Chaffe (158) he sold for £18, five acres of land in Rehoboth, to John Bowen. May 9, 1770, "Noah Chaffe tailor of Rehoboth," sold to the same William Chaffe, for £9, 18s., two and a half acres of land there. The next record of him is the birth of his first child in Woodstock in 1776. He probably moved to Pomfret, Conn., between 1789 and 1792. He was of that place, March 9, 1796, when he sold to Joseph Chaffe (130) of Rehoboth for £18, one-fifth part of the real estate of his father, Nathaniel Chaffe, late of Rehoboth. William Chaffee was baptized in the First Congregational Church of Rehoboth, August 21, 1737. He was a cordwainer, or shoemaker. May 15, 1749, his grandfather, Jonathan Chaffe, gave to him "in consequence of love, goodwill and affection I do bare to my dutifull grandchild" two acres of land in Rehoboth. In 1787, William was living in Cumberland, R. I. In 1796, William was living in Williamstown, Orange County, Vt., where his estate was administered, his daughter, Sarah Thomas (Chaffee) Davenport, being appointed administratrix October 8, 1821, and the inventory of the real and personal estate being taken November 16th. William Chaffee and his wife are both buried in Williamstown.

He married in Penn Yan, Cayuga County, N. Y., September 8, 1805, Polly, daughter of Daniel Bennett. She was of Delaware County, N. Y., and her father, a tailor by trade, had been taken prisoner at the beginning of the Revolution and held during the entire conflict. She died October 19, 1874, aged eighty-seven, and was buried in Hatch Hollow, Erie County, Pa.

Crean Bush Chaffee is supposed to have been named for Crean Bush of Westminster, a friend of his father's, and whose name appears as witness on a deed of property from Atherton Chaffe, Sr., to Atherton Chaffe, Jr.

Crean Bush Chaffee had a dark complexion, black eyes, and was five feet, seven inches in height. He was a farmer and a teacher. He lived in Westminster in 1796; when he was twenty-one years old "Uncle Jock," who brought him up, gave him a horse, saddle and bridle and he left Vermont for Cayuga County, never to return. He served during the War of 1812 from August, 1812, to March, 1813. In 1871 his widow, then living in Amity, applied for a pension. In 1805 he was living in Cayuga County, and between 1810 and 1815 moved to Erie County, where he lived in Amity and Northeast. At this time that country was almost a wilderness and many were the dangers and hardships these hardy pioneers had to undergo. One day when Mrs. Chaffee was alone in the cabin with her daughter Caroline, then a baby, an Indian holding a large knife in his hand appeared in the cabin door. Striding over to the cradle, he lifted the child in his arms, kissed her and, laying her down, stuck his knife into a loaf of bread just taken from the oven and ran off, to the great relief of the terrified mother, who thought her child would be killed.

- + 567 vi Nancy Chaffee, born in June, 1820; married Samuel W. Hayes.
- + 568 vii John Bennett Chaffee, born in April, 1823 (1825); married (1) Mary Phelps; (2) Mrs. Eliza Drake.

238 Sarah<sup>5</sup> Chaffee (Joseph,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Barrington, Mass., January 18, 1729, and died April 27, 1818. She married (1), about 1748 or 1749, Isaac Morris, their intention of marriage being published in Woodstock, October 18, 1748. He died January 10, 1778, and she married (2) September 10, 1804, Honorable John Bliss, whom she survived. April 30, 1750, she joined the church in New Roxbury (now West Woodstock), where she lived at the time of her marriage. In 1761 Isaac Morris removed with his family to Wales, Mass.

"The part of Springfield to which he removed was then an unorganized district not belonging to any town, and known as 'Wales.' It was a territory lying between Somers on the south and Springfield on the north, and after the organization of Wilbraham, was annexed to that town. The spot where Isaac Morris settled was in the extreme southeastern part of 'Wales' and on the Monson line. The probable cause of his removal to 'Wales' was that his wife might be near her mother—then a widow—who, with her husband, Joseph Chaffee, had removed to this section about 1754. [This should be 1755.] Joseph Chaffee died in 1760. Two deeds from Hannah Chaffee—widow—and Joseph Chaffee, administrators of the estate of Joseph Chaffee, dated Aug. 18, 1761, convey to Isaac Morris ninety-two acres of land, sixty of which was within the limits of Monson, then Brimfield. He subsequently bought other land. His farm contained in all one hundred and thirty-one acres eighty-five of which were within the Monson limits. The spot where he located was a romantic one at the base of Rattlesnake and Sheep Mountains, overlooking the Scantic Valley, to Pine Ball and South Mountains on the west, at the foot of which lay the farm of his father-in-law. A large part of the cultivated land has grown up to woods, and the house in which he lived, and also that of his son Darius, have long since disappeared. Nothing remains to indicate the locality of the habitations but a portion of the walls of the cellars, and a few nearly dead trees of the orchard.

"The records of the Probate Court of Hampshire County, state that Sarah Morris was appointed administratrix on the estate of Isaac Morris, Sept. 1, 1778, and was also made guardian of Chester, Elizabeth, and Ephraim, minor children. By the inventory returned to the court, Nov. 1, 1778, the amount of the estate was £999 7s. 6d., of which £850 was in land. The debts were £130 2s. 2d. . . . The distribution of the estate made Nov. 3, 1778, gave Sarah, the widow, one-third during life, £283 5s. 8d. Darius, two elevenths or a double portion, £103 6s. 7d. Hannah, Davis, Isaac, Edward, Sarah, Eunice, Chester, Ebenezer, Elizabeth, and Ephraim, one-eleventh each, £51 10s. 3d. Mrs. Morris, hardly satisfied with the distribution, petitioned the court that as she was 'left under something of Low and Indigence circumstances' she might be allowed something out of the personal estate, and was allowed the amount of £22 11s.

His name appears as a Private on a roll of "Capt. James Warrener's company of Wilbraham who marched in defense of Ammerican Liberty on ye Alarm last April occasioned by the Lexington Fight." He was in service ten days, travelled one hundred and eighty miles and received £1, 9s. 2d., in payment. His name also appears as serving two other enlistments:

"Chaffe, Joseph. Capt. William Fletcher's co., Col. Benjamin Simond's regt; enlisted Aug. 22, 1777; discharged Aug. 29, 1777; marched on an expedition to Bennington.

"Chaffe, Joseph. Private, Capt. Samuel Burt's co., Col. Elisha Porter's (Hampshire Co.) regt; enlisted July 22, 1779; discharged Aug. 25, 1779 service, 1 mo. 7 days, at New London, Conn." [Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Revolution.]

January 30, 1777, Joseph Chaffe, yeoman, of Wilbraham sold to Joel Dean of Ashford, Conn., for £250, one hundred and forty acres of land in Wilbraham. This deed was signed by Joseph and Esther Chaffe. Soon after this he moved to Peru, Berkshire County, Mass., as on July 7th of the same year he was chosen one of a committee to act in letting out the school lands in that town. He was chosen First Selectman there February 14, 1780, and Moderator of a town meeting October 30th of the same year. May 16, 1781, Joseph and Esther Chaffe of Partridgefield (formerly Peru), Mass., sold to Amos Corbin of Woodstock, for £180, one hundred acres of land there, being part of lot number thirty-eight.

240 Benjamin<sup>o</sup> Chaffee (Joseph,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Woodstock, Mass. (now Conn.), July 10, 1732, and probably died in Ashford, Conn., in 1811. He married in Woodstock, September 19, 1754, Hannah, daughter of Abraham Skinner of Malden, Mass. Benjamin Chaffee is said to have lived on the north part of Rocky or Cranberry Bog Hill, between West Woodstock and South Woodstock, later in Ashford and still later in Marcellus, N. Y., finally returning to Ashford. He also lived in Wales, Mass., as is evidenced by a deed dated June 25, 1764, in which "Benjamin Chaffee husbandman of Woodstock late of Wales," sold to Benjamin Skinner of Wilbraham, seventy-five acres of land in Wales together with the buildings thereon for £100. This was land which Benjamin had bought of his father, February 25, 1760, for £45. He bought and sold various pieces of land in Woodstock. February 4, 1793, Benjamin "Chaffe" of Woodstock bought of Josiah Eaton of Ashford for £28, 15s., twenty-three acres of land there, and April 22d of the same year he and his wife, still of Woodstock, sold to Benjamin Skinner of that place a house and barn there. Apparently this was about the time of their removal to Ashford. Benjamin Chaffee had palsy in one arm, which for the last twenty years of his life rendered it useless.

- 587 i Sally<sup>o</sup> Chaffee, married Parker<sup>o</sup> Chapman (645) (Mary<sup>o</sup> Chaffee, Ebenezer,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>).

- 588 ii Eunice Chaffee, married Oliver <sup>6</sup> Chapman (643) (Mary <sup>5</sup> Chaffee, Ebenezer,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas <sup>1</sup>).

- 593 vii Harriet Chaffee.
- 594 viii Louisa Chaffee, married ——— Skinner.
- 595 ix Dorcas Chaffee.

241 Ephraim <sup>5</sup> Chaffee (Joseph,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas <sup>1</sup>) was born in Woodstock, Mass. (now Conn.), about 1733, and died near Glens Falls, N. Y., in 1758. He married in Woodstock, November 21, 1752 (?) Anna (or Anne) Torrey. They were both residents of Woodstock. She married (2) William Stacy.

Ephraim Chaffee was a farmer and a joiner. June 19, 1751, he bought of Joseph Chaffee for £650, forty acres of land with a house in Woodstock. March 22, 1753, he was appointed to appraise a stray horse. [Killingly, Conn., Records.] September 17, 1753, at a meeting of the inhabitants of the southeast district of the town of Woodstock he was appointed one of a committee to divide the district into two schools. September 3, 1754, he sold forty acres of land "a mansion house and a Dutch barn" for £1,000. This was probably the same property which he bought in 1751. January 12, 1756, he bought of Benjamin Munn sixty acres of land in Brimfield, Mass., and March 9th following, forty-seven acres there of Josiah Montague. Soon after this, he moved from Woodstock to Wales, a district of Springfield, Mass., as he was of the latter place when he marched in August, 1757, to the relief of Fort William Henry during the Colonial Wars. Ephraim Chaffee is said to have been scalped and killed by the Indians, in a place between Sandy Hill and Glens Falls, N. Y., near Fort Edward, in the same place where Jane McCrae was scalped during the Revolution. He is said to have been a teamster and an officer over the baggage train. The records make no mention of his service at this time, during the year 1758, but state that he was a Private in Captain Benjamin Day's company, South Hampshire County regiment, which marched on the Alarm for the relief of Fort William Henry in August, 1757. He is spoken of as "of Springfield," travelled sixty-four miles, and was in service ten and a half days. [Massachusetts Archives, Muster Rolls, Vol. XCV, page 444.] February 6, 1758, he sold land in Brimfield to J. Torrey for £20. The estate of Ephraim Chaffee "late of Wales" was administered by his father, Joseph Chaffe, who was appointed August 30, 1758. [Northampton Probate Records.] After his death in 1760, Ephraim's widow took charge of the administration. In January, 1763, she and her second husband, William Stacy, petitioned the court in Boston for permission to sell the real estate of Ephraim Chaffee. Permission was evidently granted, for May 20, 1763, sixty acres of land in Wales were sold for £48, 10s., to "Simeon Chaffe of Woodstock yeoman" (272) as the highest bidder.

Ephraim Chaffee and his brother Isaiah are said to have helped drive the wolf of Israel Putnam fame into the cave where it was captured. It had wrought sad havoc among the sheep in the neighborhood of Pomfret, Conn.

Children, all but the last born in Woodstock:

- 596 i John Wilson <sup>6</sup> Chaffee, born September 9, 1753; died October 26, 1754.
- 597 ii Anna Chaffee, a twin, born September 9, 1753; probably married in South Wilbraham, Mass., June 22, 1788, Nathan Hudson of Monson, Mass., the intention being published in South Wilbraham, May 2, 1788.

- 598 iii Comfort Chaffee (a daughter), died October 25, 1754.
 + 599 iv Comfort Chaffee, born September 2, 1755; married Moses Baxter.
 600 v John Wilson Chaffee, born in 1757; probably died in the army near Little Falls, N. Y., in 1780; baptized in the First Congregational Church, Woodstock, March 17, 1765; he served in the Revolution as follows: "Chaffee, John Wilson, Wilbraham. Private, Capt. Paul Langdon's co., Col. Timothy Danielson's regt.; muster roll dated Aug. 1, 1775; enlisted May 8, 1775; service, 3 mos. 1 day; also, company return dated Oct. 6, 1775; also order for bounty coat or its equivalent in money dated Camp Roxbury, Dec. 25, 1775. [The following entries probably refer to him also.]
 "Chaffee, John, Wilbraham. Corporal, Capt. Charles Colton's co., Col. John Greaton's (2d) regt.; Continental Army pay accounts for service from March 1, 1777, to Dec. 31, 1779; residence, Wilbraham; enlisted for town of Wilbraham; enlistment, 3 years; reported mustered by Col. Woodbridge.
 "Chafee, John, Springfield. Corporal, Lieut. Colonel's co., Col. John Greaton's regt.; Continental Army pay accounts for service from Jan 1, 1780, to March 1, 1780. [Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Revolution.]
- 601 vi Sarah Chaffee, born in Wales, March 31, 1758; married Reuben Bliss of Monson, their intention of marriage being published in South Wilbraham, December 9, 1775.

242 Asa<sup>5</sup> Chaffee (Joseph,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Woodstock, Mass. (now Conn.), June 5, 1734, and died in Wilbraham, Mass., in December, 1810. He married (1) in Woodstock, September 5, 1753, Mary Howlett, who died March 9, 1783. He married (2) in the same town, February 16, 1785, Sarah Ormsbee.

Asa Chaffee was baptized in the First Congregational Church of Woodstock, June 9, 1734. He was a shoemaker and a house-framer. He probably moved to Wales, Mass., between 1758 and 1760. This place, a precinct of Springfield, Mass., was later made a part of Wilbraham. February 25, 1760, he bought of his father for £35, 8s., land in Wales. "Asa Chaffe yeoman of Wilbraham and Mary Chaffe his wife" sold to William Barnes for £30, sixty acres of land there, March 20, 1764. March 22, 1768, he was chosen "Hog Reave" for Wilbraham. June 10th following, he sold to Henry Badger land in Wilbraham for £6. In a list of pew holders in the Congregational church in Wilbraham, dated June 3, 1770, it is stated that "Asa Chaffee" and wife with five others and their wives occupied pew number fourteen. The minister at this time was Reverend Noah Merrick. In South Wilbraham in 1774, one hundred and twenty-five men, of whom "Asa Chaffee" was one, signed an agreement not to buy English-made goods.

He was a Private in "Capt. James Warriner's Company of Wilbraham who marched in defence of American Liberty on ye Alarm last April occasioned by the Lexington Fight." He served ten days, travelled one hundred and eighty miles, and received £1, 9s. 2d., in payment.

November 21, 1777, he was chosen a Constable for Wilbraham. October 18, 1779, he received $20 as bounty and mileage money for soldiers. January 30, 1784, Asa Chaffee and two others were a committee appointed in behalf of the South parish of Wilbraham for the purpose of taking a deed of a piece of land on which to build a meetinghouse. The tract of land purchased was in Wilbraham, contained about one hundred and forty rods, was purchased of William King and cost £6. March 16th following, Asa Chaffee was chosen Surveyor. May 3, 1785, he sold for £20, to his son, Ephraim, land in Monson, Mass., and March 16, 1786, land in Wilbraham to his son Cyril, Chaffee of Somers, Conn., blacksmith, for £10, 10s. Soon after this Shays' Rebellion broke out and Asa Chaffee served as a Private from September 22d to 28th, 1786, in Lieutenant Lewis Langdon's company, Colonel Gideon Burt's regiment of militia, which marched to Springfield. He also served in Springfield as a Private from January 18th to February 7, 1787, in Captain Joseph Williams Company of Cadets, ordered into service by Major-General Shepard. September 14, 1808, he sold to his son Ephraim for $300, land in Wilbraham, and in 1809 to his son Calvin two other tracts there for $120.

Asa Chaffee died intestate and administration on his estate was granted to his son Jonathan in Northampton, Mass., February 13, 1811. The inventory, dated February 21st following, mentions real estate, an interest in a sawmill thereon, house, barn, cidemill, horses, cows, oxen, household furniture, farming utensils, etc. This was appraised by Stephen West, Calvin Stebbins and William Clark. July 17, 1811, the widow was allowed her portion of the estate.

Asa Chaffee is doubtless buried in the Hampden, Mass. (formerly South Wilbraham), burying-ground, but no stone marks his final resting-place. The grave of his first wife is marked by a stone bearing the following inscription:

"In Memory of
Mrs. Mary wife of
who died

244 Comfort<sup>5</sup> Chaffee (Joseph,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Woodstock, Mass. (now Conn.), March 20, 1737-8, and died in South Wilbraham, Mass., June 4, 1811. He married (1) January 19, 1758, Mary, daughter of Nathaniel Bliss, their marriage intention being recorded in Springfield, Mass. She was born November 21, 1734, and died April 15, 1774. Comfort Chaffee married (2) in South Wilbraham, June 5, 1808, Mrs. Hepzibah (Green) Chaffee, widow of Joel Chaffee (251), their intention of marriage being published in South Wilbraham, February 10, 1805. She died December 19, 1828, aged ninety-three. Comfort Chaffee was baptized in the First Congregational Church of Woodstock, July 2, 1738. He had a dark complexion, black eyes and hair, was tall and well proportioned. He probably moved to Wales, a district of Springfield, Mass., with his parents in 1755, and was living there at the time of his marriage in 1758. He was a farmer. May 26, 1759, "Comfort Chaffee yeoman of Wales" bought seventy-five acres of land in the township of Springfield, for £75. As Wales was then a district of Springfield, this land may have been in what was then known as Wales, and which was shortly afterwards made part of Wilbraham. March 19, 1765, Comfort Chaffee was chosen "Deer Reaves" in Wilbraham. He was chosen "Hog Reaves," March 13, 1770, in South Wilbraham, and May 13, 1770, the records of the Congregational church there state that he and his wife, with six others, occupied pew number eighteen. April 6, 1773, Comfort and Mary (Bliss) Chaffee sold for £22, 2s., to Nathaniel, David, Jonathan, and Thomas Bliss of Wilbraham, forty-seven acres of land there, it being part of the estate of the late Nathaniel Bliss, father of Mary. A committee of which Comfort Chaffee was one appointed in Wilbraham, January 2, 1775, to prevent the killing of deer from January 1st to August 1st of that year. His name appears as a Private on the roll of Captain James Warriner's company of Wilbraham "who marched in defence of Ammerican Liberty on ye Alarm last April occasioned by Lexington Fight." He served ten days, travelled one hundred and eighty miles, and received £1, 9s. 2d., payment. His further Revolutionary service is as follows:

"Chaffee, Comfort. Private, Capt. James Shaw's co., Col. Charles Pynchon's regt.; enlisted Sept. 24, 1777; discharged Oct. 18, 1777; service, 32 days, travel included; company detached to join Gen. Gates's army." [Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Revolution.]

During his service, Comfort and another man discovered a deserted British vessel floating near the water's edge. They boarded it and finding it loaded with provisions and ammunition, turned it over to the Government. May 25, 1778, Comfort Chaffee was chosen one of the Constables for Wilbraham. October 18, 1779, he received £20 as bounty and mileage money for soldiers.

During Shays' Rebellion, he served as a Private from September 22 to September 28, 1786, being in Lieutenant Lewis Langdon's company, Colonel Gideon Burt's regiment of Militia, in the Fourth Division, which marched to Springfield in support of the Government. He also served in Springfield from January 18 to February 1, 1787, in Captain Joseph Williams' company of Cadets, ordered into service by Major-General Shepard.

The strictness with which the Fourth Commandment was kept in the days of our forefathers is illustrated by the following incident. Comfort Chaffee preferred a charge against a neighbor, of having sown seed on the Sabbath day. He could not, however, prove the charge, for while he could swear that the man went through the motions of sowing, he could not prove that he had seed in his hand. Had he been able to prove his point, the man would have been severely punished, for the keeping holy of the Sabbath day was strictly adhered to by our ancestors.

After Comfort's death his widow was supported by her step-sons, and made her home with the eldest of them, Comfort, Jr.

In the cemetery in Hampden, Mass. (formerly South Wilbraham), rest the bodies of Comfort Chaffee and his two wives. On his tombstone is the following inscription:

"In Memory of
Mr. Comfort Chaffee
who died
June 4, 1811,
Aged 74 years.

Let not the dead forgotten lie
Lest you forget that you must die
Death is a debt to nature due
Which I have paid and so must you."

The grave of his first wife is marked by a stone bearing the following words:

"In memory of Mrs. Mary wife of
Mr. Comfort
Chaffee who died
April 15 1774
in her 40 year.
O Time Supreme
How swift thy wings
On Time depend
Eternal things."

West Woodstock Congregational Church, but before 1758 had moved to Wales, a district of Springfield, Mass., and later a part of the town of Wilbraham. In the latter year he served as a Private in the Colonial War, in Colonel William William's regiment, Captain Jonathan Ball's company, raised by the province of Massachusetts Bay for the reduction of Canada. He is spoken of as "of Springfield," served from April 13 to November 4, and travelled seven days. [Massachusetts Archives, Muster Rolls, Vol. XCVI, p. 444.]

In a list of pew holders in the Wilbraham Congregational Church, dated July 3, 1770, we find that Isaiah Chaffee and his wife, with four other men and their wives occupied pew number five. The land records show that on August 18, 1761, "Isaiah Chafee husbandman of Wales" sold to David Burt, 2d, of Springfield, husbandman, for £90, one hundred and eight acres of land in Wales, formerly belonging to Isaiah's "honored father, Joseph Chaffee, deceased." This deed is signed by "Isaiah Chafee" and "Betty Chafee." April 10, 1767, "Isaiah Chaffee, husbandman, of Wilbraham" bought land of Henry Badger of that place for £18. April 2, 1771, in Northampton, Mass., Comfort Chaffee (244), brother of Isaiah, was appointed administrator of this estate, and at the same time William King was appointed guardian of the five minor children, Betty, over fourteen, William, Joseph, Isaiah and Hannah under fourteen. Isaiah left almost nothing and September 14, 1772, Comfort Chaffee obtained the consent of the court to sell the whole of the estate, the papers being signed by Comfort and the widow, Betty Chaffee. This was probably for the purpose of paying Isaiah's debts and obtaining ready money for the needs of the widow and children. From this time the family suffered many hardships from extreme poverty; probably no line of the Chaffee family had a harder life than did the children of Isaiah after his death.

Isaiah and his brother Ephraim are said to have helped drive the wolf of Israel Putnam fame into the cave where it was captured. It had wrought sad havoc among the sheep in the neighborhood of Pomfret.

[Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Revolution.] [It is possible that the last two entries accredited to 600 refer to this man.]

William King, Chairman of a class of the town of Wilbraham, to serve in the Continental Army for the term of 3 years." [Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Revolution.] His name is also on a "Return of the hire of the three years men" dated December 26, 1781, and signed by the Selectmen of Wilbraham, he having received £76, 10s.; it is also found on two warrants to pay the officers and men of Captain John Carpenter's company, dated June 24, 1782, and October 28, 1782.

He was a Deacon in the Free Will Baptist Church, with which he united when about thirty-five years of age, and of which his wife was also a member. He served as a Private in Captain Mangus' company, New York Militia, in the War of 1812, and was wounded in the shoulder in the Battle of Black Rock, N. Y. Later they built an addition to this house, which in after years was the home of their son, Artemus. Samuel Chaffe served as a Private in the Revolution, enlisting July 5, 1780, and being discharged December 4, 1780.

He had a light complexion, blue eyes, was stocky in build and of medium height. He probably moved to Killingly, Conn., with his father when a child, and was living there April 11, 1783, when he bought of Benjamin Morris of Dudley, Mass., for £154, land there. In 1787 he was of Thompson when he sold to Benjamin Morris for £198, thirty-eight acres of land in the western part of Thompson. The Revolutionary records of Connecticut show that he was a Private in Captain Ephraim Manning's company of Woodstock, enlisting May 10, 1775, and being discharged December 15, 1775, but in a claim for pension made in 1818, he testifies that he served from April, 1775, until May, 1776. He was a farmer and for many years a tavern keeper in Thompson in partnership with his son Joel. He died in this tavern, and he and his wife were buried in the Thompson burying-ground where their tombstones read:

"Sacred to the Memory of Lieut. Thomas Chafee who died June 28, 1826, aged 70."

"In memory of Mrs. Mary Chafee wife of Mr. Thomas Chafee who died March 27, 1814 in her 59th year."

It will be noted that though Thomas Chaffe's stone names him "Lieut." in 1826, he was "Mr." in 1814, and as the war and pension records show him to have fought as a Private in the Revolution, it is to be surmised that between 1814 and 1826 he received the title, perhaps for service in the Connecticut Militia. February 14, 1827, Elijah Crosby was appointed administrator of the estate of "Lieut. Thomas Chafee."

William Chaffee was a farmer, cooper and blacksmith, the latter trade being taught him by his uncle, Caleb Barney. March 21, 1791, he bought of Jesse Cook a house lot on Transit Lane, Providence, R. I., in the deed being spoken of as "William Chaffee, Cooper." Later he settled in Olneyville, then a part of North Providence, where he bought land of Lyndon Knight, March 21, 1815, later making other purchases of land there. He gave to the town land for a public highway, which in his honor was called Chaffee Street. His blacksmith shop was on Manitou Avenue, near or on the present site of the Dalaine Mills, and his house stood opposite. When the First Free Baptist Church in Olneyville was formed, of which Reverend Martin Cheney was pastor, William Chaffee transferred his membership from the church of which he was then a member to the new church, was one of its eleven charter members, and of them was the last survivor. On the first Wednesday of May, 1815, he was elected by the General Assembly of Rhode Island "to the Office of Ensign of the first Company of Infantry in the town of North Providence," the commission being issued by Governor William Jones, May 8th of that year. The following year, on the first Wednesday of May, he was advanced by the same body to the rank of Lieutenant, and the first Wednesday of May, 1817, to that of Captain. The originals of these three commissions are in the possession of the writer, the first two issued by Governor William Jones, the last by Governor Nehemiah R. Wright.

Captain Chaffee was for twelve years a member of the Rhode Island Legislature from North Providence, first as Representative, in 1830 as State Senator, and again in 1832 as Representative. The latter year he resigned, and having on April 28, 1831, sold his house, barn and blacksmith shop, removed to Warren, Bradford County, Pa., where he established himself as a blacksmith, and bought a farm of five hundred acres, two hundred and seventy-eight acres being purchased of Charles R. Barstow in June, 1833. He received a letter of dismissal from the Baptist Church in Olneyville to the one in his new home, of which he became a Deacon. He died at the advanced age of ninety-four years, having accumulated a considerable property, and living to see a great-great-grandchild.

He lived to a ripe old age, enjoying the best of health and was active up to the day of his death. He had a strong dislike to riding in a wagon and it is said that when over ninety years of age he would walk three miles rather than ride in one.

in Woodstock, Conn., about 1753, and died in South Wilbraham, Mass., July 24, 1818. He married in Somers, Conn., October 17, 1782, Olive, daughter of Thomas Davis of Stafford, Conn., their intention of marriage, published in South Wilbraham, August 10, 1782, stating that she was of Somers, and he of Wilbraham. In 1828 and 1832 she lived in Stafford, Conn., with Benjamin Jennings. June 1, 1840, she was living with her son Daniel in South Wilbraham. She died September 14, 1844, aged eighty-three.

July 3, 1770, in a list of the sittings in the Wilbraham Congregational Church, we find that Jonathan Chaffee and three others occupies pew number four in the gallery "in ye fore seat ye front men's side." During the Revolution he enlisted in 1776 in Captain Charles Cotton's company, and subsequently went to White Plains, N. Y., as a substitute for his brother Asa. For this service his widow claimed a pension in 1838, when she was living in Wilbraham. October 31st of that year her son Daniel testified in her behalf. Jonathan Chaffee was a tanner and school teacher. In 1780 he was teaching in Wilbraham. December 2d of that year he bought land in Somers of Luke Cooley of that place for £20. November 17 and 19, 1781, he bought land in Wilbraham, where March 16, 1784, he was chosen Constable. April 11, 1785, he was still living there when he bought of Samuel Sexton of that place, land there for £30.

During Shays' Rebellion, Jonathan Chaffee served from September 22 to 28 as Sergeant in Lieutenant Lewis Langdon's company, Captain Gideon Burt's regiment of Militia, 4th Division, which marched to Springfield, Mass., in support of the Government. He also served from February 7 to 28, 1787, in Springfield, as Private in Captain Joseph Williams' company of Cadets ordered into service by Major General Shepard.

The following church document proves that Jonathan and his wife were members of the church in Somers, but it is not known just when they lived there. Their children were born in South Wilbraham in 1783 and 1784; in 1785 in a deed Jonathan is mentioned as of Wilbraham, yet in both these latter years, 1784 and 1785, their children were baptized in Somers.

"This may certify, that Jonathan Chaffe and his wife, are members of the Church in Somers, in full communion and good standing and were this day, by a vote of the church dismissed from it, on condition that they join with the church in South Wilbraham where they now reside.

"Test CHARLES BACHUS
"Pastor of Church in Somers.

"Somers, Aug. 24, 1788."

They also lived in Chesterfield, N. H., and in Chesterfield, N. Y., where December 16, 1804, "Jonathan Chaffee of Chesterfield, N. Y.," bought three tracts of land in the south part of Wilbraham for $1,150. October 9, 1819, his sons were appointed executors of his estate. Jonathan Chaffee and his wife lie buried side by side in the burying-ground in South Wilbraham (now Hampden), where his tombstone bears the following inscription:

"Sacred to the memory of
Lieut Jonathan Chaffee who died July 24th
1818 aged 65
Farewell my friends and all adieu
I can no longer stay with you

My dearest friend, and partner here
 I have a word that may you cheer
 I hope in heaven we soon shall meet
 And find the joys of End complete
 With Saints and angels sounding high Glory to God above the sky."

Children, born in South Wilbraham:

He married (1) in Somers, Conn., December 31, 1778, Anna, daughter of Thomas and Ann (Elmer) Elmer. She was born in East Windsor, Conn., February 27, 1730. He married (2) her half-sister Frances Elmer, born in 1750, died December 9, 1834, and was buried in South Wilbraham, Mass. (now Hampden). The birth records of Asa's children names Frances as the mother, but the History of Ancient Windsor says Asa and Anna had a son Thomas Elmore.

Asa Chaffee, Jr., fought in the Revolution as follows:

"Chaffee, Asa, Wilbraham. Private, Capt. Daniel Cadwell's co., Col. Timothy Robinson's detachment of Hampshire Co. militia; enlisted Dec. 25, 1776; discharged April 2, 1777; service, 3 mos. 9 days, at Ticonderoga; enlistment to expire March 25, 1777, roll dated Springfield.

"Chafee, Asa. Private, Capt. Aaron Graves's co., Col. David Leonard's regt.; enlisted May 8, 1777; discharged July 8, 1777; service 2 months, 10 days, travel included at the Northward." [Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Revolution.]

At the time of his first marriage he lived in Somers, where a year later his eldest child was born; shortly after this he returned to Wilbraham, where he remained until about 1802 or 1803, when he bought land and settled in Washington, Mass. March 6, 1803, he and his wife Fanny were admitted to the Congregational Church there by letter from the one in South Wilbraham. From May to November he was employed in the U. S. Armory in Springfield, and drew rations. In 1810 he was living in Washington, later is said to have returned to Wilbraham, afterward settling in Westfield, where June 19, 1814, he and his wife were dismissed from the church in Washington, and united with the one in Westfield. There Asa Chaffee died from the kick of a horse, and was buried.

He married (2) Mrs. Submit (Gowdy) McGregory Booth, twice a widow.

When fourteen years of age he moved from Woodstock to Somers, where he was a blacksmith. He enlisted in the Revolutionary army in the spring of 1776, for eight months, and the following copy of an old document proves that he was in service in 1777 and 1778:

"Springfield, Feby. 28, 1778.

"This may certify all persons to whom it may concern that Mr. Serrel Chaffee hath been in the Continental Sarves as an artificer at Springfield from the -th of July until the last day of February, 1778.

September 24, 1821, he rented of Jonah Griswold of Enfield, Conn., twelve acres of land there. He died on the old homestead in Somersville. He and his first wife were buried in the Somers burying-ground, where the marble stone raised in his memory reads:

"In Memory of Cyril Chaffee, who died Dec. 11, 1837, aged 82."

And the brown stone one to Patience:

"In Memory of Mrs. Patience Chaffee wife of Mr. Serrell Chaffee, who died July 1, 1810, aged 52.

Comfort Chaffee, Jr., had a light complexion, blue eyes, and was six feet in height. His name appears on a pay roll of Lieutenant Lewis Langdon's company, Colonel Gideon Burt's regiment of Militia in the 4th Division, which marched to Springfield, Mass., in support of the Government to put down Shays' rebellion. He served from September 22 to September 26, 1786. He was also a member of Captain Joseph Williams' company of cadets which was ordered into service January 18, 1787, by Major General Shepard to again assist in putting down Shays' Rebellion. He served in Springfield, from January 18 to February 1, and from February 8, to February 25, 1787. He is said to have persuaded many of his rebellious neighbors to take the oath of allegiance to the Government. He was also a Captain in the State Militia. He lived in South Wilbraham, where he was active in the affairs of the town. He had a large farm, a saw-mill and a hotel. September 7, 1792, he bought for £150 of William Phillips, Jr., of Boston, Mass., one hundred and twenty-six acres of land with a house and barn thereon, north of the land of his father, Comfort Chaffee, Sr. In 1811 and 1812 he bought of his sister Lucretia (Chaffee) Cadwell, and his brother Nathaniel B. Chaffee, all their interest in the estate of their father. He and his wife were buried in South Wilbraham (now Hampden).

628 William<sup>6</sup> Chaffee (Isaiah,<sup>5</sup> Joseph,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Woodstock, Conn., about 1757 (after April 2, 1757, as he was "under fourteen" April 2, 1771), and died in Enfield, Conn., October 27, 1834. He married there, in August, 1780, Mary Whipple of Windham, who died December 23, 1843, aged eighty-five, and was buried beside her husband in the Enfield Cemetery.

William Chaffee was left fatherless at an early age, and ran away from his home in South Wilbraham, Mass., wandering to Enfield, where he was picked up and "bound out" to Judge Kingsbury of that place. He enlisted in the Revolution as a Private, May 8, 1776, and was discharged December 18, 1776, serving in the Connecticut Line, Captain Hezekiah Parsons' company (the 10th Company), which took part in the siege of Boston. He enlisted again April 15, 1777, for three years, serving in Captain Samuel Wyley's regiment, Captain Thomas Abby's company for one year, being promoted to the rank of Corporal March 1, 1778, and reduced to the ranks April 1, 1778. He served the remainder of his enlistment in the Light Infantry, Colonel Return Jonathan Meigs' regiment, under Captain Henry Champion, and was discharged May 15, 1780. He enlisted July 1, 1780, in the 3d Regiment, and served until October 25, 1780. It was probably during this enlistment that he was married, in August, 1780, as he testified in his pension claim that he was married when home on furlough. He was one of the guard of Major André, the British officer captured and executed as a spy, and he always spoke of that ill-fated soldier as "a very handsome man and a perfect gentleman." At one time during his service he was captured by the British and placed on board a vessel; he was afterwards exchanged for an officer, although he was only a Private. He suffered all the hardships of the war, but said that never had he slept more comfortably than on a blanket spread on the snow, with no covering but one blanket and an outside coverlid of snow. He was in the famous Battle of Stony Point under the leadership of General Anthony Wayne, July 15, 1779.

"Stony Point, shooting out into the river, a defiant promontory with rocky and wooded faces, has been fittingly described as a natural sentinel guarding the far-famed Highlands of the Hudson. Rising about one hundred and fifty feet at its highest point it projects more than half a mile from the line of the shore, but is of nearly double the length as an isolated feature of the scenery." [The Storming of Stony Point, by H. P. Johnson.]

This vantage point had been fortified by the British, who called it their "little Gibraltar" and regarded it as impregnable, as indeed it was, to any daylight assault. It was a night attack, however, that General Washington intended; so secret were his plans kept, that the British had no warning of the attack and were completely taken by surprise, and the fort taken with a loss to the Americans of only fifteen killed while the British lost sixty-three. The subjoined account of the storming of Stony Point by William Chaffee was published in the Hartford Times of November 8, 1834:

"Some time in the month of July, 1779, our regiment had orders to prepare themselves for marching at daybreak the next morning on a secret expedition. We prepared ourselves, as many of us as could obtain it, with a little extra supply of rum in our canteens to sustain us in a hot day's march and keep up our courage in case of need; as soon as daylight appeared, we were mustered, three regiments of us, under the command of Gen. Wayne, and took up our line of march northward, keeping among the hills, on a very rough road, one of the hottest days in the hot month of July. It very soon began to be whispered that we were a going to attack the fort at Stony Point. I don't imagine the secret had leaked out, but this was only conjectured from the direction of our march. After a march of nearly thirty miles over the worst road on earth, if it ever deserved the name of a road, we halted about dusk in the evening three or four miles in the rear of the fort, nearly exhausted with fatigue and the excessive heat. Notwithstanding most of us had drained our canteens of their extra supply, which we now regretted, as the object of our expedition was no longer a secret, and we felt the want of a little of the 'creature' to fit our stomach for fight. After resting about an hour we were addressed by our officers and told that we were going to make an immediate attack on the fort, and that we must take it at all hazards. We marched to the attack, according to my recollection, in three columns. I know the historical accounts say two, but I shall speak according to my own recollections; one column was to make the attack with loaded muskets, while the other two were to march in silence with unloaded muskets and rely upon the bayonet alone. The column to which I belonged was to attack the fort on the south side, where it was defended by two lines of a sort of picketing of logs, planks, stumps and brush, which it was necessary to cut away and remove to make room for the column to advance without delay. When within about a quarter of a mile of the fort we halted, and twenty stout men were picked out and sent forward, under the command of a lieutenant, to perform this dangerous service; it was my fortune to be one of them. Col. Meigs addressed a few words to us almost in a whisper, and pointed out the duty we were to perform, some of us remonstrated with him about being singled out and led on to certain death. In reply we were told that the duty must be performed, and ordered to march on in silence. We then slung our unloaded muskets to our backs and were each furnished with an axe, and in the meantime a few canteens of rum were found among us, which were emptied at a breath, and we marched briskly forward. We had proceeded but a few rods in advance of the column when the fire from the fort opened upon us; very soon the whole fort appeared like a sheet of fire and the air alive with the whizzing of grape and canister, and the whistle of musket balls. Our way to the pickets led us through a little cove that set up from the river, where we had to wade about waist deep. It was here, when their shot fairly rained down upon us, that I suffered more than fear. I dreaded a double death—to be shot down and then drowned, was one dish more than we had bespoken, and it was well understood that the duty we had in hand would not admit of stopping to pick up our wounded. One poor fellow fell here, and if I recollect aright, we reached the pickets without further loss. Here we were sheltered during our work, and felt for a moment's respite from the fear of their balls, which were sent over our heads toward the advancing columns. It was the work of a very few minutes to cut away a space large enough for a platoon to march through. I cannot now recollect how long we were detained; and indeed it is scarcely possible that I could then have estimated the time very accurately; we were all stout men and used to chopping, and I think we must have made quick work of it. When we had made a clean passage we unslung our muskets and pushed on for the second line. Immediately on passing through we encountered a few Hessians, a sort of out-guard, I suppose. The first notice I had of them I felt a bayonet at my breast. With a quick motion of my hand I threw the point of the weapon over my left shoulder, raising my frock (which answered for shirt, coat and waistcoat) along with it, and tearing open the skin, and perhaps a little of the flesh in its course. This effort brought me upon my back, with the Hessian on top of me. It was now a trial of strength between us. As neither could use any arms but such as nature had furnished us, he soon found that I should be too much for him in this warfare, and I had got about half up with him, when Sergeant Brown stepped up and finished the contest by putting his bayonet through the Hessian, which I was not sorry for, although satisfied that I could have mastered him, with fair play, yet I found him a rather troublesome fellow, and was glad to get rid of him. We now proceeded to cut away the second line of abatis, which was more slight than the first, and quickly dispatched. At this time no more than three or four of our men had fallen, and the duty on which we had been sent having been faithfully discharged, our orders were, to have fallen back upon the flank and rear of the advancing column. But our lieutenant resolved upon a more daring enterprise; we advanced, by his order, and leaped upon the breastworks of the enemy, in the face of the garrison, with their bayonets pointed at our breasts; here we stood shoulder to shoulder pushing at the enemy with all our might, God knows how long; it seemed to me an age; it was probably but a few minutes, probably not more than one minute, until we felt our friends in our rear. Our number was now reduced to four men, the lieutenant and three others standing to him on the right. The lieutenant then ordered us to leap into the fort, over the heads of the garrison. We brought our muskets down in a horizontal position and threw ourselves into the fort. In this movement the lieutenant fell, calling out to us, 'Rush on, boys, I'm a dead man.' We then proceeded unmolested towards the flag station in the centre of the fort, and there waited the issue, with some little anxiety you may be sure. Within a few minutes, however, we saw Maj. Fleury advancing at the head of his column; the major rushed forward and pulled down the British flag. For this he received a commission of lieutenant-colonel, and a thousand dollars, which had been promised to the first man who should enter the fort—a reward of five hundred dollars had been promised to the second, and one hundred to the third man, who should enter. Of the two men of the forlorn hope who survived with me, I recollect the name of but one. This was Sergeant Brown, who died some years since in Colchester, in this state. The five hundred dollars was given to Sergeant Brown. I received the one hundred in Continental bills, and expended forty or fifty, I don't now recollect which, in the purchase of a gallon of rum to treat the company to which I belonged. Our expedition had been conducted with so much secrecy that we expected to surprise the garrison. In this we were disappointed. They were ready for us, and we were not a little astonished at their opening so brisk a fire upon us at our first approach. This was accounted for after the surrender of the garrison—a scoundrel who deserted from us during the evening, had carried the intelligence to the enemy. This fellow was not to be found in the fort. For fear of the worst, they had put him on board a sloop-of-war, which lay in the river a little below."

After the war was over William Chaffee settled down in Enfield, where he ran a saw-mill, or worked in one. The records show that December 7, 1793, he bought a dwelling house and lot lying northward of the lower saw-mill on Fresh Water Brook in Enfield, and August 22, 1799, sold to Samuel Reynolds land in that town, probably the same property. Three large elm trees are said to have grown in front of this house and one at the right side of it. In 1887 a gentleman in writing to the author regarding Mr. Chaffee said:

"His home was in a small one story house on the east side of the main road from Hartford to Springfield, not far distant from the bridge over Fresh Water Brook. . . . He was a man independently poor in worldly goods but rich in many respects. I do not believe he could have been induced to tell a lie, by any sordid motive. I am sure no man in Enfield was more respected than he."

William Chaffee had large blue eyes and is said to have so strongly resembled Benjamin Franklin that some of his family, not having any portrait of him, used one of Franklin instead, considering it an excellent likeness. Physically, he was a man of great strength; he was well informed and a great reader.

From 1818 until his death he was a pensioner, and his widow received a pension until her death. She lived with her son Samuel during her nine years' widowhood. On the night of his death William Chaffee arose from his bed, saying he had had a dream that troubled him. He started to dress, and sank down dead.

"In the Enfield cemetery, on the northern boundary of the old part, located on a path leading from the centre, about a rod from Mr. Charles Killam's property, lie the remains of William Chaffee. A plain white marble slab, about 4x1½ feet, somewhat weather-beaten, but in a fair state of preservation, bears the following simple inscription: 'William Chaffee, died Oct. 27, 1834, aged 78 years.' Beside the remains of Mr. Chaffee, on the right, are those of his wife, 'Mary, who died Dec. 23, 1843, aged 85 years.' Still further on to the right is the grave of another Mary Chaffee. On the left of the grave of the dead hero, are two slabs, one 'Wm. Chaffee, who died July 23, 1847,' and the other 'Cornelia, his wife, died in 1836,' and near Mr. Killam's fence, two children of the latter lie buried, one small white slab contains the initials of both." 629 Joseph<sup>6</sup> Chaffe (Isaiah,<sup>5</sup> Joseph,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Woodstock, Conn., October 2, 1761, and died in Erieville, N. Y., March 10, 1846. He married in South Wilbraham, Mass., in 1784, Mercy, daughter of William White of that place, where she was born December 22, 1764. She died in Erieville, January 20, 1849. Both she and her husband were buried in Erieville but in later years their bodies were removed to the family lot of their son Stephen F., in the Evergreen Cemetery, Cazenovia, N. Y. Mercy (White) Chaffe had a fair complexion, gray eyes, and was five feet, four inches in height. She was a very smart and enterprising woman, a thrifty housekeeper, a great reader, with a kind and cheerful disposition and a keen wit. In her later years she became very much stooped, and her grandchildren remember seeing her sitting in the chimney corner, smoking her pipe.

Joseph Chaffe was left fatherless at the early age of nine, and April 2, 1771, William King was appointed his guardian. His father having left but a small estate his family suffered the hardships of poverty. In 1776 he was apprenticed to Jacob Hart of Wilbraham and it is probable that from him he learned the blacksmith's trade. During his apprenticeship, in August, 1776, his master was drafted for one month's service in the Revolutionary army, to go to New London, Conn., and Joseph Chaffe went as his substitute. Toward the end of the war he again enlisted:

"Chafee, Joseph. Private, Capt. Samuel Clark's co. detached from Col. Barnabas Sears's regt.; enlisted July 18, 1781; discharged Nov. 2, 1781; service, 3 mos. 21 days, 'up Mohawk River;' enlistment 3 months; reported wounded Oct. 25, 1781."
[Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Revolution.]

In his application for pension he mentions the service in New London and an enlistment in Adams, Mass., March, 1781, in Captain Philip Madison's company for nine months, but neither of these enlistments is mentioned in the official record of Massachusetts. The wound mentioned was received in the battle fought on Sir John Johnson's farm. The Americans were commanded by Colonel Willetts; the engagement lasted from noon until dark, the American troops being at first repulsed, but later winning a complete victory, the enemy fleeing in disorder to the woods. Joseph Chaffe was carried from the field, a portion of his right cheek bone having been split off by a bullet, the scar of which he carried to his grave. He applied for a pension June 16, 1835, and it was granted.

Soon after their marriage Joseph Chaffe and his wife moved to Adams, Berkshire County, Mass., where they lived until 1796. January 2, 1794, "Joseph Chafe of Adams" bought of John R. Bleeker of Albany, N. Y., for £157, 17s., one hundred and eighty-seven acres of land in Warren, Herkimer County, N. Y., to which place he moved two years later.

This country he had travelled through during his service in the Revolution. His grandson, Andrew Jackson Chaphe, says of it:

"When Joseph Chaffe came to Warren there were no mills for grinding grain within many miles and for some time the corn for family use was crushed in a hollow stone with an iron pestle. The present generation knows not of the hardships endured by their forefathers, the pioneers in their frontier life, the strife for existence, for food, clothing and shelter; the constant fear of the savage Indian, the greater part of the country a dense forest, and whenever they removed, some kind of rude shelter must be provided, the timber cut and burned, and a place cleared for planting corn and many long days must pass before the corn would furnish food. In the mean time, they must exist largely by hunting and fishing. Willing hands there were to spin and weave, but where the wool or flax, the wheel or loom? The skins and furs of animals must supply the want. The food was prepared in the open air, the furniture rudely made, the plates and dishes of tin, pewter and wood. What a relief when they could feel safe from the murderous tomahawk, and what a luxury when they had their log house erected. They had no schools, no churches, no newspapers, no markets. Fashion was at a discount, but neighbors were friends. Before the end of his nine years' residence in Warren, Joseph became more comfortably situated, raising and earning something one year to carry the family through to the next; but again there was a move to be made, another journey through the wilderness, further west, to the settlement of the Holland Land Company, in central New York."

In preparation for this move he sold one hundred acres of the land he owned in Warren, November 10, 1804, for $2,500 to Noah Leavens of Schaghticoke, N. Y., and November 30, 1804, for $317.50, fifty-four acres more to Chester Keyes of Warren.

In 1805 he moved to Nelson, Madison County, N. Y.; here again were hardships and privations, but finally they became once more "comfortably settled," as was related by Stephen Fisk Chaphe, to his daughter Finette. He was a child of about four years at the time his parents moved to Nelson:

"The log house had two doors, one opposite the other; when they wanted a large fire they hitched a horse to a log cut the right length and drove through the house and left the log in the fire place and that would last a long time by placing smaller wood around it. The rooms below were a kitchen, bed room and buttery; father and mother slept in the kitchen, the girls in the bed room, and the boys in the loft. They went up a ladder to go to bed."

Joseph Chaffe had a sandy complexion, blue eyes, and was five feet, ten inches in height; as a young man he was very straight, but in his latter years became slightly bent. He was mild in manner and temper, and of a kindly disposition, "poor in worldly goods, but rich in having a fine family of boys and girls." He was a farmer as well as a blacksmith, industrious, neat and particular regarding his work.

the Congregational Church. He fought in the Revolution, enlisting in 1776 in the Connecticut Line, and also served as a Private in the War of 1812. September 18, 1786, he was enrolled as a Freeman in Sharon. On his tombstone in the Ellsworth Cemetery is the following inscription:

Doctor Chaffee married (2), December 25, 1814, Abigail Talcott born in 1784. She married after his death Deacon Jasper Morgan, and died January 31, 1832.

The following Revolutionary record is thought to refer to Doctor Chaffee:

"Chaffey, Hezekiah. Private, Capt. Hezekiah Russell's (2d) co. of volunteers, 2d Hampshire Co. regt.; service, 6 days, by order of Elisha Porter, Sheriff, against the insurgents at Northampton May 6, June 15, 16, and 17, 1782, at Springfield June 12, 1782, and at Hadley June 13, 1782." The original of the following letter addressed by Doctor Chaffee to "Mrs. Charlotte Chaffee, Greenfield, Conn." is preserved by one of their descendants. Mrs. Chaffee was evidently visiting her parents:

"Windsor June 1st 1796.

"My Dear.

"You will recollect I told you not long since I dreamed I was a Preacher knowing you to have considerable faith in dreams. I have concluded to actually turn Preacher, & will address my first sermon to you & will faithfully promise to preach to none else, until I see what effect my sermon will produce. I shall take my text in the 2nd chapter of the songs of Solomon beginning at the last clause of the 10th verse to the end of the 13th inclusive 'Rise up my love my fair one & come away. For lo the Winter is past the rain is over & gone, the flowers appear on the earth, the time of the singing of the birds is come the voice of the turtle is heard in our land, the fig tree putteth forth her green figs, & the vines with the tender grape give a good smell. Arise my love my fair one, & come away'—Soloman fully sensible of the pleasures & enjoyments of social life, was placed by the absence of his beloved, in a situation that debarred him from the present enjoyment of her company. He addresses himself to her in the most beautiful & persuasive manner—'Rise up my love &c.,' setting forth the beauties and fragrance of the season, to allure the senses & making love in the most delicate manner to captivate the soul, uniting all the address that was in the power of man to solicit the return of his beloved.—We must believe Soloman was strongly impressed with the belief in what God said to Adam (Genesis 2nd Chapter 18th verse) 'It is not good that man should be alone'—For my own part, taking these passages of Scripture together, and reasoning from my own feelings I am abundantly convinced of the truth, & sufficiently feel the force of conviction. That this may produce the like effect on you, & that you may prove your faith by works I shall conclude with the words of my text—Rise up my love my fair one and come away.
H. C."

Doctor Chaffee's will, recorded in Hartford, Conn., was made December 19, 1818. The legatees were his wife, Abigail, his sons, Hezekiah B. and Samuel G., and his daughter Abigail S. He married in Lexington, N. Y., Catherine, daughter of James Deyeo of that place. She died February 1, 1861. She was a member of the Methodist Church. Sullivan Chaffee was named for General Sullivan of the Revolution. He had a light complexion, blue eyes, and was five feet, eight inches in height. He served as a Private in the War of 1812. At the time of his marriage he lived in Lexington, but in the spring of 1840 moved to Sheshequin, where he and his wife are buried. The following incident in the lives of Sullivan Chaffee and Calvin Chaffee, his father, is from Reminiscences of Lexington, N. Y., as told by an old Resident:

"Among the early settlers of this town was one Calvin Chaffee, from Conn. He had been a soldier of the Revolution, and possessed a good share of the spirit of those times. He had a son named Sullivan, who, like his father, was used to fire-arms and was a good shot, and fond of hunting. Wild animals were quite numerous, and bounties were offered for the heads of beasts of prey; so the successful hunter often earned considerable remuneration, besides enjoying the excitement of the chase. On one occasion, Sullivan had an exciting adventure with a huge panther. A light snow had fallen during the night, and it still snowed slowly, in the morning. It was a good time to find near game, and he started alone with his gun. He lived on the west side of the Schoharie Creek, near his father, who lived on the place known as the 'James Deyeo Place.' On the day of which I write, his tramp was on the ridge or mountain that divides the valleys of the Red Kill or Batavia Creek, and the Schoharie Kill, somewhere north or northeast of the farm now owned by Wm. Maben. He halted near a large log and knocked the snow from his gun against it. While doing so, he heard a low growl within the log, and also noticed some small fresh tracks, resembling cats tracks, around it. As the entrance to the hollow was not convenient to reach the inmates, he stopped it up to prevent escape, and hastened to get aid. A hunter named Hood lived on the North side, and Chaffee found him, and taking an ax, they hastened back to the scene of operations. On chopping sufficiently they found two panther kittens alone; the mother gone. Each man took one, and endeavored to take them home alive. But they resisted, by scratching, biting and screaming so persistently, that they were obliged to knock them on the head, and kill them. Mr. Chaffee, on such trips wore a linen over-frock, to keep off the storm. Taking this, he wrapped the young panther, as he thought, so as to avoid the old ones getting any scent and thus avoid pursuit. He hastened home, but finding that his gun needed repairs, he went the next morning to a locksmith, named Johnson, living in what is now called Jewett. Not long after he started, a younger brother was sent a short distance, to the sap bush, to get a sap trough in which to feed pigs. He was under the necessity of looking around considerable to get one suitable, and while so engaged, discovered tracks so much larger than a dog's that he was impressed with the belief that a panther was near. He hurried to tell his people. At first they would not believe it possible a panther would come so near the house, but on investigation, the father said, 'surely, they are panther's tracks.' So assembling the neighboring men and boys, some fifty in number, they pursued the beast by its trail, and found she had hidden under some rocks near the creek, not far from his house. The elder Chaffee said he would drive her out, and the rest agreed to shoot her. So Putnam-like, he entered the den, but not to slay, and succeeded in driving her out. But her size and terrible aspect so terrified the would-be slayers, that not a shot was fired and she went on her way unmolested. Sullivan came home that night and hearing what had passed resolved to find and kill the panther the next day. A neighbor named Isaac Decker was a great hunter and a brave man. He, with Sullivan, started in the morning, and soon came upon the panther. She was standing on a shelf of a rock in the ledges above what is now called the Rappleyea place, on the Little Westkill mountain. On discovering her whereabouts, and knowing the habit of the panther to spring upon her supposed enemy when wounded, Chaffee hung his hat and hunting frock on a bush, so as to look like a man, where they wished her to spring. Then the men placed themselves where they could see, and not be seen, so as to get a good shot both where she was then and when she leaped to the ground. Chaffee fired first. As anticipated, the panther sprang at the decoy. Then Decker put another bullet in her heart, or as near there, as might be. In her death struggles, she tore the ground in a fearful manner. Her struggles were terrible, but did not last long. She was the largest of panthers ever killed in the town, measuring nine feet from tip to tip. This is only one of the many exciting hunts in the early history of the town."

"A figure familiar for more than 37 years to the people of Providence has disappeared forever. A personality as unique as it was impressive has been taken from that elder group of men among us who connect the chance-taking rush of to-day with the steady-going, methodical pace of the last generation. A character admirable for its masterly strength, and yet lovable for its womanly gentleness, one in which there was well blended the uncompromising force of intellect with the softening restraints of the heart, will be missed by all who knew Zechariah Chafee.

Born in Providence in 1815, his boyhood foreshadowed the man. His father was a master mason and owed a debt of $1000, which through misfortune he found himself unable to pay. The son, then 11 years of age, took upon himself the burden of the father, and in the flour and grain house of the late Seth Adams he gave his labor for five years in full consideration of the debt. In his 17th year, with a slender stock of school learning, but with some hard-earned knowledge of life, he was assisted by relations to go to Pittsburg, which was then regarded as a thriving Western city, offering good opportunities to him in view of the fact that Pittsburg was at that date the principal flour and grain market of the West. Here he soon found employment, and turned to account the capital in the form of experience which had been invested in him while under Mr. Adams's rigid training. He remained in Pittsburg 20 years, and raised himself to the position of junior partner in a firm whose daily sales of flour would average 1000 barrels.

"Mr. Chafee always recurred with peculiar relish to the remembrance of this period of his life. He was naturally gifted with the talent for trade. It was a part of Mr. Chafee's employment to forage the country to contract for and purchase supplies of grain, salt and sugar, and in the winter his journey would extend down the rivers as far as New Orleans. It was in this adventurous life, and in association with the Western pioneers and with all sides of a rough civilization, that he acquired that self-confidence which was so conspicuous a trait in his character, and that keen understanding of human nature which fairly gave him the long end of the stick in dealing with men in a trial of wits.

"It was the tenderest of human ties that drew Mr. Chafee back to Providence in 1852, and induced him to abandon, at the prime of life, a business career in Pittsburg of assured success. His integrity, sound judgment and true loyalty to his friendships had knit the bonds very closely between him and his elder partner, an uncompromising bachelor, not unlike in character the one that Crane so graphically simulates on the stage. The tradition runs that the senior was greatly moved at the prospect of so rare a jewel as the junior being recut and polished by a woman's hand, and estimating the damage at $10,000, naively offered with this sum to save Mr. Chafee from this chance of injury.

"Mr. Chafee, before breaking up his business connection at Pittsburg, had contracted a then common relation with one of the State banks in Providence. Arrangements were made by which the Bank of America, which still flourishes as a State institution, and of which he was President at the time of his death, should loan currency to Mr. Chafee's firm on proper security under a contract that the bills of the bank so furnished to him should be kept in circulation, before coming in for redemption, for an agreed number of months, and thus increase the assets of the bank available for discounting commercial paper. At that day it was the common, but often unfortunate expedient of the banks in Providence.

"In 1852, when Mr. Chafee returned to Providence, his relative, Amos Chafee Barstow, was the Mayor of Providence. Mr. Barstow, for the time abandoned the personal oversight of his extensive iron working business to devote himself to the management of the city's interests. Mr. Chafee temporarily took his place at his foundry until he could arrange for some definite employment. In the end he became interested in the High Street Furnace Company, which in time developed into the present well-known corporation of the Builders' Iron Foundry. In the general oversight of this industry Mr. Chafee remained until his death. During the Civil War this establishment supplied large orders to the Government of heavy sea-coast ordnance, and much of the success of the company was due to the address with which its manager in his frequent visits to Washington put himself upon the leeward side of old seadogs like Admiral Dahlgren, who were firm in the faith that no heavy artillery could be successfully cast and bored outside of a Government arsenal.

"The Mechanics Savings Bank, which has now grown to such stately proportions, was one of the earliest of the banks to aid the working class in raising them in the social scale. Mr. Chafee was active in this institution from its beginning, and he labored to advance the true end of its establishment during his whole remaining life. Hardly a week has elapsed during his busy career, and under circumstances when most men would have excused themselves, that he has not given his personal attention to furthering the obtaining of small loans to mechanics to enable them to secure to themselves a home.

"The public estimate of a man's character is seldom in error when the individual himself takes no pains to artificially create such estimate. Few men in Providence have had more trust duties conferred upon them than he. His books show accounts with more than 30 private estates of which he had been selected as the administrator, guardian or trustee. In many of these cases he made no charge for his personal services. Everyone in middle life knows how successfully he disentangled the Howard estate and turned over to the heirs a splendid inheritance after liquidating the claims of creditors. There are some living, and others who are dead, who owe to Mr. Chafee's friendly interposition in disaster the salvation of their estates. All such kindly offices were rendered freely and without charge. Some remembered this loving kindness; some accepted it as a matter of course, and others forgot it. There were some at his funeral who kept in mind his disinterested offices, and there were humble men and women, too, present who came from a distance to testify their remembrance, and to whom the payment of a railroad fare meant a personal deprivation.

"In the fall of 1873 the great house of the Spragues, which for three generations had been identified with the history of Rhode Island industries, was in financial trouble. The creditors assembled and accepted the proposition made by the debtors to receive a deed of copartnership and corporate properties in trust for the security of the liabilities, the payment of which was extended for three years. The office of trustee was at first eagerly sought by competitors, and three gentlemen were finally selected by the creditors as acceptable persons. The trust deed was, after much delay, perfected in form to meet the views of the counsel for the trustees elect. By that time the magnitude of the personal risks which must be assumed by trustees undertaking to run a large print works and extensive cotton mills without any other credit than that which the Quidnick Company—virtually a part of the insolvents' estate—could furnish, began to be understood. It was clear that it would be no holiday recreation to administer in liquidation this enormous estate intertangled with itself, and with the already prostrate house of Hoyt, Spragues & Co. Week after week went past without any acceptance on the part of the designated trustees. They shrank from the load of personal responsibility which they must assume, and every artifice was suggested which legal counsel of their selection could devise to lighten the measure of the risk, but the fact still remained that whoever undertook to run the Sprague mills and print works, in the hope of paying off the debts, would find few comforting judicial decisions in the books. Meanwhile the creditors had become alarmed at the delay, and there were suggestions that bad faith was at the bottom. Certain creditors had concluded to secure their debts by an attachment. It was known one afternoon that writs were in course of preparation and would be served on the following morning. The situation was imminent. The United States bankrupt law was in force, and if the insolvent estate should be attached the complication would be so great as to defeat in all probability the almost universal desire in this State that time should be given to the Spragues outside the court of bankruptcy to be extricated. Late in the day a happy thought occurred as a relief from the difficulty. Mr. Chafee was sought. The proposition was made to him to accept the trust, and he was asked who he would like to have associated with him in the deed. He replied: 'If I take it at all I will take it alone.' The result was before morning, Mr. Chafee was named as the sole trustee. His appointment was hailed with general satisfaction, for he was recognized as perhaps the only man in Providence having a private estate of value and a proved ability in business, and enjoying public confidence, who would have dared so great a responsibility.

"The self-reliance of Mr. Chafee was one of his distinguishing traits of character. His early life had accustomed him to trust to himself. It is only the truly honest man who displays this courage. 'I mean right,' was a phrase often on his lips, and those who knew him most intimately felt that though often jocularly spoken they were no unmeaning words. Beyond doubt, his great ambition, when he accepted the Sprague trust, was to achieve the same great success which he had accomplished for the Howard estate. He looked forward to the time when the creditors would be satisfied, and the balance of the estate be handed over by him to the Spragues as a curtailed but still great inheritance. But the fates were against him. The business of the country, like an expiring lamp, blazed up brightly for a moment after he took charge of the mills, then flickered and finally became encrusted and gave a faint light for seven long years. Internal dissensions arose. In the meantime the machinery of the mills was wearing out, and, worse than all, the new improvements in spindles, which men on their feet could introduce into their mills, would have distanced the Sprague mills in the race to secure the small margin of profit in cotton spinning if their machinery had been new but of the same old type. And yet, under all these adverse circumstances, Mr. Chafee struggled on, with every man's hand against him, persistently and straightforwardly to execute his trust. Had his life been spared six months he would have been able to have brought his labors to a close.

"Mr. Chafee was not what would be popularly called a conventionally religious man. He was not at all sanctimonious in his air, for the reason, perhaps, that he disliked the scent of a pharisee. He did not keep so close a run of the fast and feast days of the church as he did of the times when some needy women's rent became due or when their flour sack would be spent; but if to be a peacemaker, to comfort and help the widow and the fatherless, to exercise a blessed charity in unostentatious ways, to deal honestly and uprightly with all men, and to forgive his enemies and those who evilly entreated him and spitefully used him, are evidence of true piety, then Mr. Chafee was a Christian to the core. When St. Stephen's Church was building and was pressed for money, he and one other Christian man now living gave freely of their means, and Mr. Chafee could be seen almost any day working with the masons and the laborers to rear that beautiful edifice. It was fitting indeed that there the last solemn rites should be paid to him as his body rested in front of the chancel which his own hands had helped to build.

"If a memorial be needed for Mr. Chafee beyond the good works which in business and in private life he has wrought, let it be a rough boulder from the seaward side of his much-loved Squantum, as typical of the strength of his nature and the obduracy with which he stood to his convictions of right. At the foot of this let the wood flowers and the tender creepers be planted, that they may nestle to its warmth and cling to its support, as children and those needing help were drawn to him and nourished in his life. B. F. T."

The following story of his life is taken from the New Orleans Times-Democrat:

"Major O. P. Chaffee, a brother of Gen. Adna Chaffee, chief of staff of the United States Army, after many vicissitudes now in the office of Quartermaster Bloom, in New Orleans, yesterday told a startling, strenuous story, with the elements of both the fairy tale and the dime novel.

"He was born on a farm in Ashtabula County, Ohio, and when merely a boy, started off to St. Louis, to enter a bank as clerk, not to see his family again for thirty-five years. He became an express rider with Gen. Joe Johnston and Harney shortly after the Mountain Meadow massacre in '57. Then he settled in Wilcox County, in Alabama, as a young planter, and was accumulating capital when the war between the States broke out. Enlisting as a private, he was made a major for gallant conduct on the field of action at Shiloh, was on the staff of Gens. Bragg, J. K. Duncan, Hood, and Joe Johnston, and served throughout the war.

"'After the civil war was ended,' said the kindly old major, 'I started off to Brazil. I embarked on a steamer from New Orleans to New York, where I remained for a couple of months, and then left for Rio Janeiro. I arrived there in August, 1866. Emperor Dom Pedro, hearing of my arrival along with several other Americans, asked me to come and see him. I did so, and found that he spoke excellent English. The war with the Paraguayans, under Gen. Lopez, was going on at that time. The Paraguayans contended that the Brazilians should not be allowed to use the River Parana, and Brazil fought against that contention. I was immediately placed upon the staff of Gen. Dhu as major and inspector of cavalry.

"'I remember a peculiar sight which occurred at the battle of Humaytaia when we drove Lopez back to the mountains. There were men protecting the fort on the other side and about 17,000 men with us. I never saw men fight like they did. They stripped, and with nothing but their cartridge belts and guns rushed upon the foe and fought like demons. They placed all their clothes in piles. Two days the battle lasted and then Lopez fled. The war lasted three months more, during which time we were joined by Gen. Rosas, of Uruguay, one of the finest soldiers and most elegant gentlemen I ever met in my life. When I arrived in Brazil I had only 10 cents, and it was fortunate for me that I was given the position I received at the hands of the government. After the war was over I took a thousand acres of land given by the government to those who wished to cultivate. I established myself at Santarem, in the Amazon Valley, in October, 1867, and immediately commenced the work. I cleared the land and planted tobacco, coffee and corn. I had a man and his wife to help me, and especially to teach me how to speak Portuguese. They aided me, and tobacco of the finest kind in the world was grown in Brazil, but still I did not prosper, and after wasting three years I got the rubber craze. The rubber craze in Brazil at that time was similar to the gold craze in California in '49. In '69 the excitement on the Amazon was like unto that in California in '49. Everybody was crazy to make a fortune in rubber, and so I went with them. I worked for a year in the interior cutting the rubber with my own hands, and then went into the business of buying and selling it. I had in the course of a few years accumulated a snug fortune, and was getting along nicely. I left home one morning, leaving all my possessions in the thatchhouse some one hundred yards from the shore of the river. When I returned at night I had nothing in the world, for the river had washed away the banks and there was no vestige of where the house stood. The sixteen people whom I had working for me had scattered to the four winds. I went to a neighbor's house, borrowed a canoe and went twenty miles to a man whom I had had dealings with, and told him that I was going to pay every cent I owed. And then I worked for a year in the rubber fields until I had paid every cent, and with $10 to my name I was ready to start out again. Then I returned to the Amazon again and went into the cane business. I built it up from small to large accumulations, put in machinery, and was doing well in the manufacture of caxexa liquor. So it went along for three years, and then one afternoon, after I had been away in my canoe with my man all day, I was returning when a terrible storm came up. The rain poured in torrents, and when we tried to make our way through the woods we were lost, and hour after hour we trampled through those woods, and finally, when we arrived at my home I was taken to my hammock and did not arise again for three years more. I suffered no pain at all, but I could not use my limbs. They were abnormally swollen. The doctors could do nothing, and there I remained until 1883, when I was enabled to move easily enough for me to come back to my native land. Upon my return I went to Arizona, where I was quartermaster's agent at Fort Holbrook for ten years. I had other experiences after that, but as I look back now, I must tell you that I would rather live in Brazil than anywhere. The people are perfectly frank and true, and life is more enjoyable there, I think, than any where.'

"He was four years in the office of Gen. Wood when he was military governor of Cuba. Finally he came to New Orleans in the Quartermaster's Department." He died May 7, 1908, in Kansas City, Mo.

He went to Boston and was employed in a store for a few years, after which he went to Providence, and entered the employ of Mr. Croade, who was a calico manufacturer. It was there he met his wife. He went South for his health, but returned to Providence and died not long after of consumption. He was, for his day, highly educated. He had a light complexion, and was tall.

Thomas <sup>1</sup>) was born in Williamstown, Vt., September 27, 1800, and died December 6, 1883. He married, September 27, 1827, Mrs. Sarah Ann (Jenks) Potter of Pawtucket, R. I., daughter of Jerahmeel Jenks of that place. She died February 11, 1883. By her first husband she had a daughter, Sarah Louisa Potter, born in North Providence, R. I., September 25, 1822.

In boyhood Samuel Chaffee moved with his father to Pawtucket, and later went back to Williamstown to live with his grandfather Chaffee. At the age of fourteen he returned to Pawtucket, living with Jerahmeel Jenks, whose daughter he afterward married, working for his board and going to school. He left Pawtucket at the age of eighteen, going to Boston, Mass., to seek his fortune. Here he apprenticed himself for three years to Mr. Harrington, a mason, and at the end of that time went into business for himself, going South for four successive winters to work at his trade. Soon after his marriage he went into business with Thomas Austin in Boston as a mason and builder, continuing this partnership and doing a successful business from 1827 to 1832, when Mr. Chaffee sold his share and bought a farm in Vassalboro, Me. There he moved with his family in September, 1832, remaining until January, 1855, when he sold his farm, having received another in Hubbardston, Mass., in payment of a debt. He moved to Hubbardston in April, 1856, but a year later sold the farm and returned to Maine. In September, 1857, he bought a farm in Winslow, Me., where he lived until April, 1862, when he again sold his property and moved back to Vassalboro. Here he bought a fine farm, where he lived until old age prevented his longer working it, when his son Oscar gave up his profession and came home to take charge of it. Then Mr. Chaffee bought a small place nearby, where he lived the remainder of his life with his wife, his daughter Ada, and his step-daughter. In 1875 Ada Chaffee was married to Alonzo L. Webber of Waterville, Me. Thereafter she and her husband took charge of the place, relieving her parents of all care and responsibility. After the death of her father and her half-sister, the place was sold and one in Waterville bought, on which Mr. and Mrs. Webber and Mrs. Chaffee lived until the latter's death, February 28, 1890. She was buried beside her husband in Vassalboro. Mr. and Mrs. Chaffee became church members in early life. In August, 1830, they united with the Federal Street Baptist Church in Boston, of which Reverend Howard Malcolm was the pastor. Mr. Chaffee was active in Christian work all his life. He had the best of health, never having had occasion to consult a doctor until he was sixty-five, when he fell from an apple tree and broke his leg. He had a dark complexion, dark eyes, and was five feet, eight inches in height. He was an active, industrious and successful farmer, strictly temperate and truthful, an intelligent, courteous Christian gentleman, whose life and conversation always commanded the respect of those who knew him.

1379 Calvin Clifford<sup>7</sup> Chaffee (Calvin,<sup>6</sup> Clifford,<sup>5</sup> Atherton,<sup>4</sup> David,<sup>3</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Saratoga Springs, N. Y., August 28, 1811, and died in Springfield, Mass., August 8, 1896. He married (1) in Vermont in 1836, Clara, daughter of Daniel Nourse of Rockingham, Vt. She died in 1848, and was buried in Springfield. She was a member of the Congregational Church. Doctor Chaffee married (2) in Springfield, in 1850, Mrs. Irene (Sanford) Emerson, widow of Doctor Emerson of St. Louis, Mo., and daughter of Alexander Sanford of Virginia. She died in Springfield, February 11, 1903, aged eighty-eight.

She was one time the owner of Dred Scott, the negro slave whose name is attached to one of the most famous decisions of the United States Supreme Court.

Dred Scott was left to Mrs. Chaffee with the estate of her first husband. Dr. Emerson was a surgeon in the United States army. In 1834 he took Scott as his slave and body servant from Missouri to the military post at Rock Island, Ill., and two years later to Fort Snelling, in the territory then known as Upper Louisiana. In 1838 the surgeon and his slave returned to Missouri.

"A Missouri lawyer brought suit in Dred Scott's behalf on the contention that the slave had been freed by being taken into a free State. He hoped thus to establish Scott's freedom and collect the accumulated wages which would then have been due him for twelve years or more. The local court decided in his favor, but in three succeeding courts, and finally in the famous decision of Chief Justice Taney, filed in March, 1857, it was decided that the negro's status was not affected by his temporary residence upon free soil.

"Dred Scott continued to live in St. Louis after his return there with Dr. Emerson in 1838. Soon after the decision of the suit in favor of his owner, Mrs. Chaffee freed the old slave voluntarily."

Doctor Chaffee united with the Congregational Church in Pike, N. Y., in 1837. He had a light complexion, black eyes, and was five feet, ten inches in height. By profession he was an allopathic physician. In 1890 he was an examining surgeon for pension claimants. At different times he lived in Hareford, Nunda, Pike, and Allegany, Woodstock, Vt.; Rockingham, and Springfield, Mass. Among many appreciative articles regarding his career which were printed in the newspapers, we offer the following selections:

"Calvin Clifford Chaffee has an interesting history. His father was a farmer and he remained on the farm until he was 19 years old, acquiring in the meantime a common school education. He enjoyed the advantages of an academic course at Rockingham, Vt., and later studied medicine at the medical department of Middlebury college at Woodstock, Vt., where he received his degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1835. After graduating he went to Nunda, in the western part of New York State, and began the practice of his profession, remaining there till 1846. He came to Springfield May 6, 1846, and immediately began practice, in which he was very successful, becoming widely known as a skillful practitioner.

"In 1855 Dr. Chaffee had a large and lucrative practice and had no intention of abandoning it for a political career or for any thing else. But in the fall of that year there was an unexpected vacancy in this congressional district, then the 10th, which included all of Hampden county east of the river and as far west as Westfield, a part of Worcester county, Northampton and a part of Franklin county. Dr. Chaffee was nominated by the American or know nothing party for the seat made vacant by the resignation of Judge Morris. In the election which followed Dr. Chaffee was successful. He took his seat the first Monday in December with the intention of resigning during the holiday recess, but after the beginning of the contest for speakership there was no thought of leaving the scene of the interesting struggle. The famous Banks contest began on the morning of the first day of the session and continued exactly nine weeks, ending in the election of Gen. Banks on Saturday night of the ninth week.

"During the tiresome struggle Dr. Chaffee was not absent a single session, though for a week or 10 days he was so ill that he had to be taken to the Capitol in a carriage and while there was obliged to lie on a sofa, notwithstanding which he responded to every roll call.

"During the second session of the first term, Dr. Chaffee secured an appropriation of about $100,000 for the completion of the watersheds in this city. The securing of that appropriation was a very important matter, for without it the facilities for turning out rifles at the breaking out of the war would have been wholly inadequate.

"Dr. Chaffee and Charles Sumner were warm friends and the former was among the first to call at Senator Sumner's rooms after the cowardly assault upon him by Preston S. Brooks of South Carolina. The same evening Dr. Chaffee came near having a personal encounter with Brooks, who swaggered up to him, swinging a hickory cane with which he had replaced the heavy gutta-percha walking stick, which he had broken on Mr. Sumner's head. 'Doctor,' said he, 'I want to know what you have been saying about me to-night. I understand that you have said some pretty hard things.' 'Why do you wish to know?' asked Dr. Chaffee. Brooks replied that he had whipped one Massachusetts man that day and would like to whip another. Dr. Chaffee told him he had better proceed with the whipping and perhaps by that time he could tell him what had been said. Just then a friend of Brooks came up and taking the bully by the arm drew him away, telling Dr. Chaffee by signs that Brooks was drunk, which was the case.

"Dr. Chaffee was nominated for the 35th Congress by the know nothing and republican parties, both conventions being held at Northampton. He took the stump the day after his nomination and made speeches in all parts of the district. Prof. Fowler of Amherst was his only opponent, representing the American and democratic parties. Dr. Chaffee's majority in the election was about 6000 and he had every reason to feel proud of the handsome indorsement of his work during his first term in Congress.

"During Dr. Chaffee's first term in Congress a change in the method of paying members resulted in his giving the nucleus of the Springfield city library. Previous to the 34th Congress the members received so much per day instead of a fixed salary, and a part of the 'perquisites' was what was called a congressman's library which was given to each new member and included American State papers, the Madison papers, the United States statutes at large, opinions of the Attorneys General and reports of decisions of the supreme court. After the change in the payment of members was made Dr. Chaffee decided to give his books to some public library in this congressional district. He found upon investigation, that the Amherst college library was the only one open to the public, and one day he spoke to the late John L. King about giving the books to Amherst. Mr. King wished to have the congressman's library kept in this city and told Dr. Chaffee that he understood that the young men's institute library was public, but that proved not to be the case. The young men's institute, however, was no longer an active organization, and Mr. King purchased its library for about $100 and organized a public library association, to which Dr. Chaffee gladly gave the books which he had at first intended to give to Amherst college.

"Dr. Chaffee was able while at Washington to do a very graceful thing by securing the postmastership of Northampton for one of his opponents in his first contest for election to Congress. The postmaster at Northampton who had been appointed by President Pierce was a candidate for reappointment under President Buchanan and his clerk was also seeking the position. Each was making every effort for success, and the Postmaster General, not wishing to act unadvisedly, sent for Dr. Chaffee and asked him what it was best to do. Dr. Chaffee explained the situation and told him that the postmaster and his clerk each made charges against the other's integrity and that probably the charges of each were well founded. 'Now,' said Dr. Chaffee, 'there is a democrat in Northampton, H. H. Chilson, who was my opponent in the congressional election. I know him to be a gentleman and in every way fitted for the position of postmaster. You have asked my advice, and I strongly advise the appointment of Mr. Chilson.'

The suggestion was acted upon at once and Mr. Chilson became postmaster at Northampton.

"Dr. Chaffee has always been one of Springfield's most respected and public-spirited citizens, being actively interested in charitable work and in every plan for the advancement of the city. He has done more than any other man for the Hampden County Children's Aid association, of which organization he has been president for many years, and only a few weeks ago he declined re-election as president of the Springfield cemetery association, after seven years of faithful service in that position.

"Dr. Chaffee was active in the organization of the North Church which was formed in October, 1846. It was formed without an organized parish, but at Dr. Chaffee's suggestion a parish was formed after a few months and he was the first chairman of the parish committee, a position which he held for nine years.

"He was a Republican after the formation of the party. Personally he was a delightful man to know, full of reminiscences, of the stirring times through which he had lived, and in which he had played a not unimportant part. He was a man of large sympathies and broad-minded withal. His life had been one of activity, and although he had long since given up the practice of medicine he kept up an interest in the modern methods of practice and was alive to all new discoveries which promised to aid in the cure of disease.

"He was a striking figure on the street, tall and dignified, with a courtliness which belonged to another generation than the present. His face was ruddy, and although he had reached almost his eighty-fifth birthday, his hair was but slightly tinged with gray and his small side whiskers showed the original sandy color as plainly as a dozen years ago.

"He was in Congress during the years just prior to the breaking out of the rebellion, and thus was in a position to observe the growth of the bitter feeling which resulted finally in the attempt to break up the Union.

"While in Congress and during the years which he lived in Washington after serving his terms, Dr. Chaffee came to know all the leaders of the day and he made many warm friends, as he did wherever he was known. He had a fund of anecdotes about public men, from which he would draw under favorable circumstances, and his knowledge of local affairs for the past fifty years was almost perfect."

After his death a memorial service was held in the North Church, of which Doctor Chaffee was one of the founders.

"After a long and painful sickness, Ira Chaffee, whose death has been long expected, passed away. His life had been a long and industrious one. He came west in 1834, going first to Ohio, but coming to Allegan permanently in 1835. Working at first by the day for the Allegan Company, he soon showed his ability in managing a saw-mill, and took charge of the company's mill. In 1841 he obtained a half share in this mill, becoming sole owner in 1850. The mill was twice burned and twice rebuilt. The energy and pluck of Mr. Chaffee was shown at the first destruction of the mill. It was found to be on fire at five o'clock in the morning. By seven o'clock men were at work clearing away the debris, and by nine, material for a new mill was being prepared. In order to transport his lumber to a market he was drawn into the shipbuilders' business, and among the ships he built may be named, the schooner Lavinda, the lake steamers Ira Chaffee and the Dunbar and the river boat Aunt Betsey, and he built the first tow barges ever constructed for the lake trade, the Adam and Eve. In 1859 he was a contractor for the G. R. & I., and in 1870 he built the Chaffee house. All through these years he continued operating his saw-mill, the output being often enormous. Active as a Democrat during his earlier years, he was the candidate of his party as member of the state legislature. He was president of Allegan village for two years, and five times a trustee. It was as a member of the board of trustees that he bought the first fire apparatus used in Allegan. He also was of the committee appointed to superintend the building of the county offices in 1870.

"Since 1882, when he suffered from a stroke of paralysis, he had been obliged to leave his business affairs chiefly to the attention of his two daughters, Eveline and Eudora.

"Preceded by long lines of firemen, on the day of the funeral, the remains were borne to the cemetery through silent streets, all the stores being closed in honor of the departed.

"Few men leave a better name behind them than did Ira Chaffee. Throughout his long life his integrity was undoubted, his word never questioned. Industrious, frugal and upright, he was a citizen whose loss may well be regretted. His large share in the labors that have borne fruit in the existence and prosperity of Allegan will ever be remembered as a fitting monument to his memory."

The Detroit Evening News of August 22 paid the following tribute to Mr. Chaffee's memory:

"When Ira Chaffee died last Sunday Allegan's greatest benefactor passed away,' said a man from Allegan yesterday, and in saying so he echoed the sentiment of his townsmen. Mr. Chaffee was a pioneer and a perfect type of the frugal and thrifty, yet kind-hearted and generous people who have made Michigan. He was a York state boy, but left that state when he was 22 years old, settled for a brief period at Weymouth, O., and then walked every blessed step of the way to Allegan, where he arrived in 1834, footsore but ambitious. A sawmill job awaited him, and in 11 years he had saved enough to build a mill of his own. It burned on his hands several times, but he always rebuilt more extensively than ever, and continued to be a mill operator and to grow wealthier until 1882, when paralysis drove him out of active business. In the old days he owned the Aunt Betsey, a steamer which plied between Allegan and Chicago, the Kalamazoo river being then navigable. A line of lumber barges also belonged to him, and were towed by the Aunt Bestey. In 1870 he built the Chaffee house block in Allegan, then the finest interior building of the kind in Michigan, and in many other ways he helped his home town to the prosperity and distinction it has enjoyed. His burial occurred Tuesday, and his remains were followed to the grave by a large share of the people of Allegan."

accounts of his career and tributes paid to his memory at the time of his death we select the following:

"Hon. Jerome B. Chaffee was born in Cambria, Niagara county, New York. He received an academic education at Lockport, New York. He came to Adrian, Michigan, in the fall of 1844, and taught school in the Allen Chaffee district that fall and winter. In the spring of 1845 he went to Adrian, where he remained about two years. He afterwards taught the Selleck district. He became a clerk in a dry goods store for about a year when he went to the State of Indiana, and settled at Ligonier, Noble county, where he engaged in the mercantile business for about three years; sold out and returned to Adrian, going into the dry goods trade again for himself, continuing the trade for several years, and disposing of his interest to his partner, when he went into a bank, where he remained until its failure, afterwards continuing in the employ of the receiver for some months. He entered the employ of the Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Railroad Company in Adrian. In March, 1857, he went to the territory of Kansas, seeking his fortune, first to Leavenworth where he engaged in speculation in wild lands and city property. In the fall of 1857, at St. Joseph, Missouri, he started a banking business, which continued about two years, and in 1860 Mr. Chaffee went to Pike's Peak, where he engaged in mining, which business he has been engaged in ever since. At the organization of the territory of Colorado, in 1861, he was tendered the nomination as delegate to Congress for the new territory, which position he declined. Mr. Chaffee was offered the nomination several times as representative in the legislature, and declined, but was afterwards elected, and served in the years 1861-2-3, the latter year acting as speaker of the house. In 1864-5 the territorial legislature organized the state government and elected Mr. Chaffee the first United States senator. Owing to his antagonism to President Johnson's reconstruction policy the president at two successive sessions of congress vetoed the bill admitting Colorado as a state, thus depriving Mr. Chaffee of the senatorship during that time. In 1870 he was elected a delegate to congress, and re-elected in 1872. The first bill he introduced was for the admission of Colorado as a state, which was finally carried in March, 1875, whereupon he was again elected to the United States senate, and served until March 4th, 1879, when his term of office expired, and in consequence of poor health and being extensively engaged in business, he declined a re-election. In 1860 he formed a business partnership with Mr. Eben Smith, a practical California miner, under the name of Smith & Chaffee, for the purpose of mining. In the year 1865 he organized the First National bank of Denver, and became its president. In all the enterprises in the state Mr. Chaffee was closely identified, and was more largely engaged in mining and other business than any other man in the state of Colorado. In 1870 Mr. Chaffee went to Europe for the first time, on business, and crossed the ocean five times.

"In 1879 and 1880 he amassed a fortune of $1,000,000 through his mining operations. In 1881 his daughter and only child was married to U. S. Grant, Jr., at whose house he died. His connection with the Grants led him to invest a large sum with the firm of Grant & Ward. It is said that he enjoyed more of Gen. Grant's confidence than any one outside of the general's family. Notwithstanding his loss in the Grant & Ward failure ex-Senator Chaffee left a large fortune, chiefly invested in valuable western real estate.

"Mr. Chaffee was a national man, and had been for many years. He made himself such by the force of his own intellect. A man of few words, as a rule, he was still a man of strong ideas, and possessed of a personality such as was found in but few of his contemporaries. Isolated as he was to a degree by his residence in Colorado, he still ranked with the leading men of the nation in politics and in business affairs, in both of which he was regarded as singularly clear-headed; and his counsel in matters in which he took an interest was generally followed. He was a man of strong convictions, and possessed of the will and the courage to execute. Once decided what to do he allowed no minor matter to stand in the way of his work. He overrode all obstacles, and allowed no man to stand in his way.

He was for many years the one man prominent in Colorado politics and he has been looked upon for the past dozen years as one of the national leaders of the Republican party—the friend and adviser alike and at times of Grant, Blaine, Logan, Conkling and the various leaders. His history is largely the history of Colorado. A pioneer, he was thoroughly identified with the territory and state. In many respects the most striking figure in Colorado history he will be long remembered there.

"The relations of Mr. Chaffee with the late General Grant are historically interesting. They began in strife, during 1875, when Chaffee bitterly opposed the nomination of General Edward McCook to be governor of Colorado. McCook was confirmed. In 1876 President Grant and Chaffee became reconciled, and the vote of Colorado was thus secured for the Republican party in the election of that year. From that time the two men were friendly, particularly so after the interesting family relation before referred to was formed between them in 1880.

"He was of medium size and stout. His hair had grown gray, and bald spots were plentiful on his head. He had a massive head, solidly planted on his shoulders, an open, genial face, smooth shaven, with a smile on it oftener than repose, a high and expansive brow, square set jaws and steady gray eyes."

1645 Samuel<sup>7</sup> Chaffee (William,<sup>6</sup> Isaiah,<sup>5</sup> Joseph,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Enfield, Conn., November 3, 1801, and died in Red Wing, Minn., August 9, 1856. He married in Schenectady, N. Y., November 19, 1828, Maria, daughter of Peter Van Dyck of Rotterdam, N. Y. She died January 8, 1880, and was buried in Red Wing. Both Mr. and Mrs. Chaffee were active members of the Congregational Church in Enfield, where they lived on the homestead built by Mr. Chaffee, who was a contractor and builder, and where their ten children were reared.

In 1856 Mr. Chaffee became one of the Board of Directors of the Strafford Western Emigration Company, which was organized with the object of forming a settlement in the West, and of carrying to it the religious and educational advantages of New England. Mr. Chaffee with others of the company went West in the summer of 1856 to investigate the country on the sunset side of the Mississippi and select a spot for settlement. To him fell the honor of discovering and pointing out to the company the beauties of the Zumbro River Valley, where they afterwards located and where now stands the town of Zumbrota. Worn out by the fatigues and hardships to which he was exposed in this Indian land, he was taken ill in Red Wing, where he died and was followed to his grave by a sorrowing procession of strangers. A few wild flowers were cast upon his coffin, prayer and benediction were said, and all was over. He was buried in Oak Wood Cemetery, Red Wing, on a bluff overlooking the village and the Mississippi. Soon after Mr. Chaffee's death his widow and children removed to Red Wing.

The following account of the settlement of Zumbrota is taken from a Red Wing paper:

"In fulfillment of my promise to furnish you some of my recollections of the early days in Goodhue county, I will devote the first article to the settlement of Zumbrota and to some of the incidents attending it.

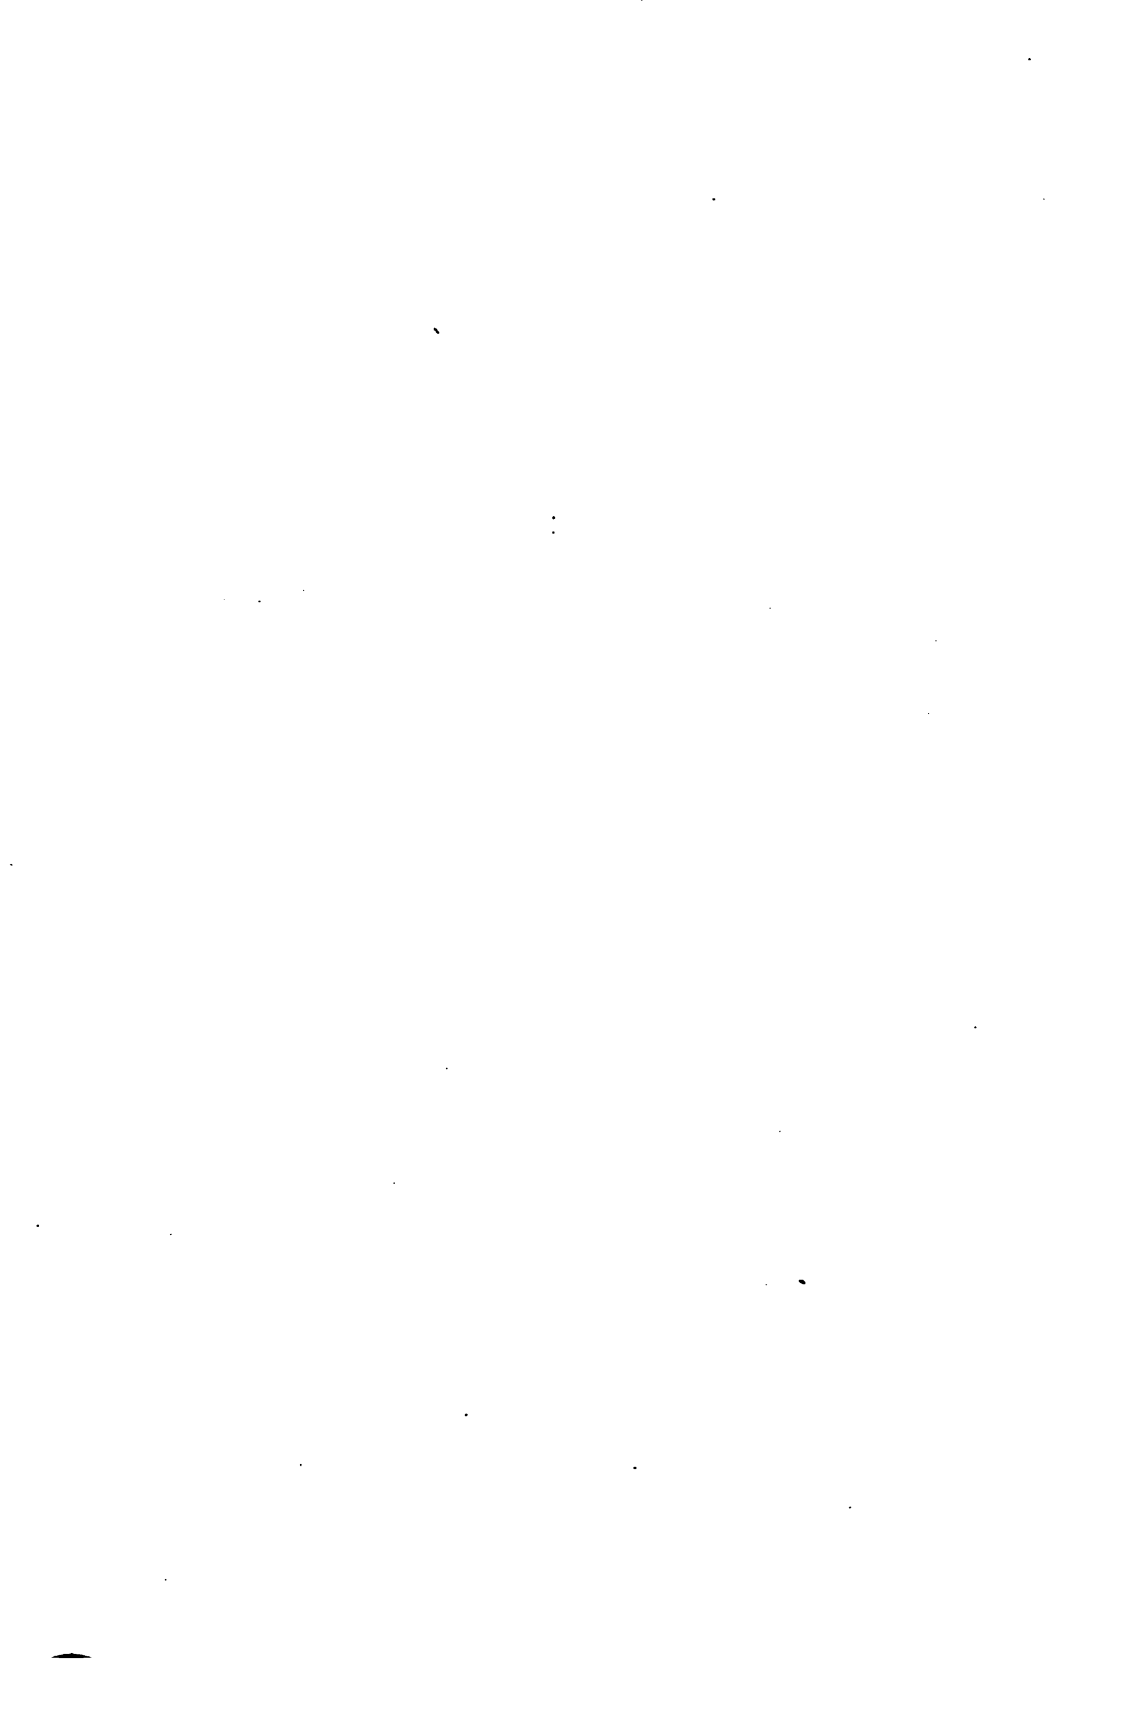

"Up to the spring of 1856, that beautiful valley in Goodhue county through which the Zumbro river courses its way like a thread of silver, and in the center of which is now the thrifty village of Zumbrota, was known only to the hunter.

Samuel M. Chaffee

Samuel Chaffee

Not a path made by the foot of civilized man traversed its length or its breadth. The deer and the elk grazed on its virgin grass unmolested, while the musk-rat and the otter sported in the limpid waters of the little river undisturbed. The valley had been entirely overlooked. The old St. Paul and Dubuque stage road and also the road from Red Wing to Mantorville and other points to the southwest lay to the east of it, while on the west there was no road within several miles.

"In the spring of 1856 a backwoodsman by the name of Smith, a native of Canada, who the year before had settled in the big woods southwest of Pine Island, found himself on short rations. With rifle in hand, he started out in pursuit of wild game, which then abounded in the region. He extended his pursuits into the above-mentioned valley. Its beauty and topography suggested to his shrewd mind the idea that in the center of this valley was a favorable site for a town, and as townsites were springing into existence in every direction, he resolved to become the founder of a city. Having exhausted his own right of pre-emption in the woods, he found a single man by the name of Doty, who was willing to be sacrificed to gratify Smith's ambition. A claim was soon taken by Doty and in due time Smith at once entered with alacrity upon his new enterprise. He enlisted a merchant of Red Wing by the name of Gambia in the project, who took a claim adjoining Doty's. Smith had discovered that by straightening the Red Wing and Mantorville road, it would cross his proposed townsite and that the St. Paul and Dubuque road had already been surveyed across it.

"Smith had piloted now and then a settler on his way to or from Red Wing over his new route, for a road. In this manner a wagon trail was made over the prairie, which could easily be followed. Doty, aided by Smith, had hauled poplar logs some three miles, and was building a log cabin. While thus engaged, Doty and Smith observed a party of three men on foot approaching them from the south, along the wagon trail. As they came up to the cabin, they appeared weary, footsore and discouraged. They inquired the distance to Red Wing, and also to the nearest place where they could stay over night. They learned from Smith that the nearest cabin in the direction of Red Wing was four miles distant. It was late in the afternoon. The travelers were hungry and thirsty. Smith hastened to bring them some water from a spring near by, and set before them on a board in the open air such viands as his scanty larder afforded.

"Smith's inquisitive nature had soon drawn out of his guests the story of their now disconsolate journey. They were a committee of a colony of New England people, who had been seeking in vain for a local colony to settle. They were on their way to Red Wing, intending to take the first boat down the river and return to their homes in the east. Smith's opportunity had now come. His dream might be more than realized. He was entertaining angels (messengers) unawares. He at once informed them that the valley in which they now were was just the spot they had been looking for. With rude but earnest eloquence he expatiated on the advantages offered by the locality. There was an abundance of government land. The site was an ideal one for a town; there was a mill site on the river within a few rods of where they then were, etc., etc. But our travelers were disheartened; one of them was sick. They could not be induced to listen to Smith and took up their journey towards the Mississippi river, thinking only of joining their families once more in far off New England. The three persons described were Samuel Chaffee, Daniel Goddard and Joseph Bailey.

"As the little party had nearly reached the top of the ascent out of the valley, Samuel Chaffee, who was weak and sick, sat down to rest. He naturally turned his face toward the valley he had crossed with so much weariness and pain. The sun was just sinking behind the horizon, and its golden rays clothed the valley with a radiance and beauty akin to that of paradise. He was enamored of the scene. He called to his companions to come back and take a look at the valley. At first they refused, but finally consented.

"'Isn't that beautiful!' exclaimed Chaffee. For a moment his companions did not speak. Chaffee again exclaimed:

"'Why is not that just the spot we are seeking?'

"'It is handsome' ejaculated Bailey in a husky tone.

“‘It is real porty’ drawled out Goddard.

“‘But we must hurry, or we shall never get to our stopping place before dark,’ exclaimed Bailey and Goddard.

“In due time they arrived at the cabin where they were to stop over night, and talked of but little else than what pertained to their newly discovered land of promise, during that night and the next day.

“Upon their arrival at Red Wing they found several other members of the colony there to whom they reported their discovery with much enthusiasm.

“Poor Samuel Chaffee, whose illness had caused him to sit down and rest on the northern slope of the Zumbro valley and who thus had his attention called to the valley, took to his bed at the old Tepeetonka hotel in Red Wing, from which a few days afterwards he was borne to Oakwood cemetery, then almost inaccessible.

“It may not be uninteresting here to say that the Strafford Western Emigration company was only a small fragment of a large company organized the winter before in Massachusetts, but which went to pieces after an ineffectual effort by an incompetent and discordant committee to find a township of land on which to plant so large a colony. As a matter of fact, the committee of the original company, consisting of one hundred and sixty members, most of these heads of families, actually passed just below the valley where the smaller colony afterwards settled. Had they made the discovery which Chaffee and his party did, quite likely the great colony would have settled there.”

When Manning Chaphe was three years of age his parents moved from Adams to Warren, N. Y., where he lived for nine years. He used to tell how his grandfather White would take him out hunting, and let him carry the game. In 1805 his parents moved to Nelson, N. Y., and about four years later he accompanied his father on a visit to relatives in Wilbraham, Mass., and Enfield, Conn. He was a bright, good looking boy, and a great favorite with the family. At the age of eighteen when he was working on the turnpike then being built from Cazenovia to Smithfield, N. Y., he was felling trees and his knee was badly cut by his axe. The wound became dangerously inflamed, through cold, and amputation was necessary. Doctor White of Cherry Valley, a town some sixty miles away, and a surgeon of note in that part of the country, was summoned and performed a skillful operation, the wound healing rapidly. When health and strength returned Manning found employment tending a toll gate on the Skaneateles turnpike, but being ambitious for something better, after two years of toll-keeping he became a tailor. He could not stand the confinement of the bench, and in July, 1814, began work in the machine shop of Amos Rodgers in New Hartford, Oneida County, N. Y. Despite his crippled condition he was determined to succeed. The trade he had chosen was a hard one, necessitating his standing all day long, in great pain. For some time after commencing this work, he would return to his boarding place at night so exhausted that he thought he could never stand another day, but in the morning would awake refreshed and with courage and determination continue his work. To add to his troubles, a fellow boarder passed his evenings in playing on the violin, adding much to Manning's discomfort and preventing him from getting his rest. He never got over his dislike for violin music and on hearing it seldom failed to remark, "Some fool grinding away on the fiddle."

He worked for Mr. Rodgers until November, 1816, when the latter gave him a letter of recommendation to Mr. Northrup, agent of a nailing company in Oriskany, N. Y., of which a part was as follows:

"He is extremely steady at his work and trusty in business, is ingenious at taking new kinds of work. You will find him useful in your business and may expect him to be at work as many days in a month as any young man, for he is no rambler or idle person and he is of civil habits and good conversation."

He worked in Oriskany three years and in Cooperstown, N. Y., for fifteen months. From 1821 to 1826 he worked for the Oneida Manufacturing Society in Whites-town, N. Y., building cotton machinery. On leaving the company's employ he was given the following letter of recommendation:

Joseph M. Chapin

"WHITESTOWN, June 26th, 1827.

"The bearer Mr. Joseph M. Chaphe has been employed by the Oneida Manufacturing Society as a machinist for considerable time. He is a man of good moral character, is an excellent workman and faithful to his employers, he will give good satisfaction to those who may employ him.

"The last work he done for this Society (in connection with Mr. A. S. Sweet) was so well executed that the Trustees passed the following preamble and Resolution,—'Whereas in consideration of the faithful performance on the part of Messrs. Sweet and Chaphe in building the twelve carding machines in a superior manner it is the opinion of the Trustees that they should be allowed a compensation over and above the contract price,—therefore,—Resolved, that the Agent be and he is hereby authorized to pay the said Sweet and Chaphe the further sum of Twelve Dollars on each Carding Machine over and above the contract price.'

(Signed) "WM. WALCOTT, Agt. for the Oneida Mfg. Soc."

In 1824, during his residence in Whitestown, he bought land in Oriskany, for which he paid $1,000. In 1827 he went to work for Mr. Sweet in Auburn, N. Y., where he remained for a year; in 1828 and 1829 he was employed in New Hartford; from 1830 to 1832 he lived in Erieville, during part of this time being in the employ of Philo C. Curtis in Utica. In April, 1833, he bought a farm a mile and a half north of Morrisville, Madison County, N. Y. and turned his attention to farming. Here he lived until the autumn of 1854, when he removed to Eaton to remain until March, 1867, at which time he went to live with his daughter, Mrs. Short, in whose home on a farm near Eaton he died in the fall of 1868.

During his work as a machinist he helped build the machinery for the New York Mills factory and bought the first bolt of bleached muslin turned out by this company, taking the muslin home for family use.

When a young man he changed the spelling of his name from Chafee to Chaphe, at the suggestion of a minister, who said that the name should be spelled as it was pronounced. Many relatives and descendants have followed his example. He considered the most prominent events of his life to be his meeting with the Marquis de Lafayette, with whom he shook hands, on his visit to this country in 1824, his trip with Governor De Witt Clinton on a packet boat through the Erie Canal, on the completion of that waterway in 1825, and his two visits to New York City in 1865 and 1867, the summer of which latter year he spent with his son, Andrew J., in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Manning Chaphe had an ardent, sensitive and noble nature. In his work he was systematic and neat. He showed excellent judgment in all matters, was a well-informed man and absolutely self-made. He disliked vain show and boast of wealth, and was never known to call people by short or familiar names.

At the age of twenty-seven he learned the millwright's trade, which he followed for many years. After his marriage he lived in Erieville, his parents making their home with him. He married in Stark County, Ill., November 4, 1851, Mary A., daughter of David Fast of Taulon, Ill. In 1848 and 1849 Mr. Chaffee lived in West Virginia; he was of a cheerful disposition, and in his later life enjoyed fishing, swimming and playing games with the younger generations. He passed peacefully away while resting in his chair, as did his wife. He was in the grocery and bakery business, as well as being agent for the Masonic Insurance Company. His funeral was conducted by his Masonic lodge. The following obituary is from the Canton paper:

"John Chaffee died, at his home on East Locust street, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, after an illness of more than a year.

"Mr. Chaffee was born near Brooklyn, Conn., in the old Chaffee homestead built in 1781 by his grandfather, and occupied by successive generations for nearly a hundred years.

"In the year 1851 he left Connecticut and went west to Ohio. Here he met and married Miss Mary A. Fast. They came to Canton in 1861. In the year 1890 Mrs. Chaffee died. Seven children were born to them. All but one, who died in infancy, survive. They are Mrs. S. M. Baker, of Boulder, Colo.; Mrs. C. M. Snyder, of Galesburg; Mrs. W. O. Dean and Mrs. J. I. Leigh of Evanston; Charles J. Chaffee and Mrs. E. A. Heald, of Canton.

"Mr. Chaffee was engaged in business for a number of years, carrying on a grocery store and bakery, but retired because of failing health. He was a great sufferer, but rarely spoke of his health and was always inclined to look on the bright side of life. He passed the winters and summers with his daughters in Evanston, but clung to the old home where he had spent so many years, and it was there that he died.

"Few people appreciated friends more than he and he always welcomed them to his home with a genuine old-fashioned hospitality. He was a regular attendant at the Methodist Episcopal Church, rarely missing a sermon. He was an honored member of Morning Star lodge, A. F. and A. 1806 Lucian<sup>7</sup> Sharpe (Sarah Adams<sup>6</sup> Chaffee, Samuel,<sup>5</sup> Ebenezer,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Providence, R. I., March 20, 1830, and died at sea, October 17, 1899. He married in Smithfield, R. I., June 25, 1857, Louisa, daughter of Lewis and Mary Dexter of that place. She was born May 15, 1831. After Mr. Sharpe's death, his heirs carried out his intentions with regard to the endowment fund of Brown University, by contributing $10,000 to it.

The following obituary is from a Providence paper:

"Lucian Sharpe died of Bright's disease on board the North German Lloyd steamer Saale. Mr. Sharpe was a very sick man when he started to return home, being carried aboard the ship by two attendants in a steamer chair and requiring the services of nurses, some of whom accompanied him on the voyage home. Everything possible was done for his comfort, but without avail.

"When he was seven years of age he went to live with his uncle, Pitt Sharpe, on the homestead in Pomfret, Conn. In the spring of 1840 Mr. Sharpe's father purchased a farm in Hartwick, Otsego county, New York, and for two years the family resided there. Afterward the farm was sold, but for two years Mr. Sharpe attended school at Hartwick Seminary. In 1844 he returned to Providence and entered the Elm street grammar school, afterward attending the Providence High School for two years. He inherited the business instincts of his father and also his strong physical and mental endowments. To these he added a talent for business and the power to execute its requirements. In his early manhood he evinced an appreciation of all improvement in mechanical devices, a faculty which later proved useful to him. He served a five years' apprenticeship with Joseph R. Brown, and in 1853 a partnership was formed under the name of J. R. Browne & Sharpe. At that time about 14 men were employed. The business steadily increased, and in 1858 a contract was made with the Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine Company to manufacture all their machines. In 1866 the fine scale and measurement business of J. R. Brown & Sharpe was united with that conducted by Samuel Darling of Bangor, Me., under the corporate name of Darling, Brown & Sharpe. The Brown & Sharpe Manufacturing Co. and Darling, Brown & Sharpe ran along separately, yet under the same roof, till Mr. Darling's death, Jan. 1, 1897, when the latter firm was absorbed. Mr. Sharpe filled a number of important positions other than those in the business with which he was connected. He was a director in the Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine Company of New York; trustee of the Providence Institution for Savings, and at the time of his death its Vice President; from 1879 to 1891 he was a director in the National Bank of North America, and had served in a similar capacity since 1897 in the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company. For some years he was Vice President of the Union Railroad Company; in 1883 he was made director in the Providence Gas Company, and had been President of the Providence Journal Company since 1886.

"Of strict business integrity and a careful worker himself, he endeavored in every possible way to aid those in his employ to better themselves and to add to their efficiency as workmen. He established a shop library containing about 2000 volumes and inaugurated a movement whereby the apprentices might have an association, with meetings in working hours, in which lectures could be held and the benefit of mutual improvement enjoyed.

"He possessed habits of unusually close observation, in consequence of which he was full of wise suggestions in regard to improvements in tools and their manufacture. During the 50 years of his connection with the company the workshops increased in area from 1800 square feet to 283,000 square feet and the number of employes from 14 men to a working force of 1500.

"Mr. Sharpe made frequent trips to Europe and was well known in London and Paris. The machinery of his firm has a world-wide reputation.

He married, October 22, 1845, Eliza D., daughter of William Camp of Camptown, who survived him. He was a great lover of children, with whom he easily made friends. He was buried in Camptown. The following obituary is from a local paper:

"Early in life Mr. Chaffee learned the carpenter's trade, and for some time before reaching his majority he worked in Towanda in Mackinson's turning shop. In 1842 he worked at his trade in Herrick. While there he formed the acquaintance of Miss Eliza D. Camp of Camptown, to whom he was married in 1845. The union was a happy one, and she who is now left to mourn speaks of her departed companion as a kind and considerate husband. Five children were born to them,—three daughters and two sons, all of whom are living. One daughter, Mrs. G. R. Stone, resides in California; another, Mrs. C. L. Avery, lives in Penfield in this State; while the third daughter, Miss Leora, the youngest child of the family, lives with her mother. Both sons, Clarence and William L., reside in Camptown. About a year after marriage Mr. Chaffee settled in Camptown, where he spent the remainder of his life. He was for years an undertaker and furniture dealer, which gave him a wide acquaintance. In his more than forty years of business life in this vicinity he established for himself a reputation for promptness and integrity which is of itself a worthy monument to his memory. As a funeral director he had no superior. Upon occasions requiring kindness and patience he showed himself possessed of these qualities, and every act was in perfect harmony with the order and solemnity of the service. As a citizen he was public spirited and charitable. He was ready for any public enterprise, and would put his hand to any needed improvement. In his home, in business, on the street, wherever met he was cheerful and obliging. He greatly loved his home, was proud of his children, and aimed to do for them the very best he possibly could. He loved good books, and was a great lover of nature. Trees and flowers, hills and streams, in fact everything beautiful or sublime attracted his attention, and drew from him expressions of admiration. He was not a member of any church but believed in God, and did not leave his friends to mourn without hope, but assured them that he believed God would not forsake him. Possessed of a faculty for ready discrimination he knew the genuine, and distinguished it from sham in men and things. Deceit he despised, and with like readiness he recognized and commended the true. So his views of religion carried him beyond words and mere professions, to deeds and practical fruits. He was a valuable man to his home and to the community, and will be greatly missed in the larger, as well as in the smaller circle."

She was born in Troy, N. Y., and died during the Civil War. He married a second time.

When a young man Mr. Chafee went to Ohio, where he lived for many years in Cincinnati, during this time making two trips on foot back to his old home in New York state. About 1835 he moved to Brookville, Ind., where a small farm two miles north of the town was cleared and where his children grew up. He ran into debt and in 1849 went to the California gold fields, where he remained about two years, returning home with sufficient money to pay his indebtedness and have a balance left for the comfort of his family. Later he made a laborious trip to Pike's Peak. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted and was accepted, despite his advanced age. Owing to ill health, however, he served but a few months. After his second marriage he removed to Tama City, where he was living at the time of his death. He was a tanner and farmer. At one time he owned land in Marcellus, N. Y., as the records show that February 9, 1835, "Benjamin Chafee and Maria his wife of Cincinnati" quitclaimed land in Marcellus, and April 12, 1843, sold land there, being then of Brookville.

It has been said of him that "a warmer hearted, truer, better man never trod the earth." He was unswervingly honest and a little after reaching middle life he became distinctly religious, uniting with the Methodist Church, although his antecedents had been Baptists.

"Wm. Chaffee, father of E. F. Chaffee, came from Brookfield, Mass., in the autumn of 1817, and settled in Attica, then Genesee county, N. Y., where in a log house Edward Franklin Chaffee was born. He is the seventh of ten children. His education, with the exception of one term at a select school, was received in the common school and in the chimney corner by the light of a wood fire. In the autumn of 1840 he commenced teaching school at Bennington Centre, in a primitive schoolhouse, with side boards for writing desks and long slabs with bracing legs for seats. He received fourteen dollars per month with the privilege of boarding with the inhabitants and taught seventy-five pupils. He might be considered successful in this vocation, as he taught twenty-two years in Attica and vicinity, the last two terms in the Attica Union school. In 1844 he taught at North Java, where he cast for Henry Clay, his first Presidential vote. To make up for the small pay for teaching 123 pupils, as he went 'boarding round' he became acquainted with Miss Harriett E. Jones, born in Herefordshire, Eng., whose grand uncle, Sir Hungerford Hold, an officer in the British army, was killed at the battle of Bunker Hill, while another grand uncle, Wm. Floyd, was a signer of the Declaration of Independence. In the autumn of 1863 Mr. Chaffee was elected School Commissioner of the First District of Wyoming county, and held that office six years. He issued a call for a County Teachers' Association in 1861, which is now one of the most prosperous in the state. In 1867, through his labor, the school of Attica village was made a free school under an act of the Legislature. His life work has ever been to encourage the education of the masses and his cheerful disposition has rendered him apt in that relation. He has held several town offices, and being a friend of the poor has been entrusted for many years with funds to be expended for their comfort. His purpose is to do right regardless of cost. In the spring of 1830 he became a member of the First Baptist church and has contributed liberally to its support and also for worthy objects. He has for over twenty years been a Sunday school superintendent and has compiled the history of that church, which was organized Aug. 21st, 1806. He is an advocate of temperance and sobriety. He has made several trips into the Western States; the first was soon after the Black Hawk war, when there was neither wharf nor pier at Milwaukee, and Chicago was but a small village, the approach to which was by a pier built out into the lake. He has for several years contributed to the press, and now, surrounded with pleasant associations at the eve of life, besides superintending his valuable farm in the rich and beautiful valley of the Tonawanda, devotes a part of his time to writing stories, historical sketches, reminiscences, biographies, etc., for the Attica News."

He united with the Methodist Church, of which his wife is also a member, at the age of forty-eight, and was Class Leader and Trustee. He also held several town offices. He was a farmer and lumberman. In early life he was poor, but by industry and frugality he amassed a considerable fortune. He lived in that part of Sheshequin known as Hornbrook from 1840 until his death. The following is from a local paper:

"Charles Chaffee was born in Greene county, N. Y., November 28, 1813. He came to Hornbrook, Pa., in 1840, where he made his permanent home. He was united in marriage in 1842 to Adeline Horton who survives him. Of the six children given them, the daughter died in infancy, and one son at the age of about twelve years. Four sons remain, two in Bradford county and two in the West.

"He was a man of great strength of mind and body, and amassed a fortune by his industry and perseverance. He joined the M. E. society in 1861 and was its most generous supporter. He entered into church work with his characteristic energy. The society was small and weak at that time, and could scarcely have been kept up but for his liberality. A church was soon built and he then took upon himself the work of a sexton which he continued with untiring faithfulness for years, gratuitously. He was also the Superintendent of the Sunday school, sustaining it almost, if not entirely, at his own expense; providing Bibles, etc., for those who did not have them. His home was the itinerant's home, and many are they who have pleasant memories of the kindness and help received at his hands. He had been suffering for several months, but kept up with indomitable courage and will. His mind was clear to the last. He arranged everything to his satisfaction and said, 'All is well, I must go.' And so surrounded by loved and loving ones, he passed from among us."

He was connected with the company until Mr. Medicott's failure in 1876. Mr. Chaffee's knowledge of the business and judgment were such that he was selected as assignee. A satisfactory settlement was effected, and the business was resumed, with Mr. Chaffee as treasurer, he being still the incumbent of the position. He was also the president of the company for a number of years, and the management of its affairs rested in his hands. The twenty-five years which President Chaffee spent at the bench as a sorter of wool afforded him an experience of the greatest value as a manufacturer of woollen goods. He was one of the most successful buyers of wool in the state, and his advantage in that direction was due principally to the long period of application and industry by which his early years were signalized.

"Mr. Chaffee was the vice-president and one of the directors of the Windsor Locks bank, and a member of the board of directors of the Mercantile National Bank of Hartford. Was also president and a member of the board of directors of the Windsor Locks and Warehouse Point Bridge and Ferry Company. He held the office of first selectman at Windsor Locks through several terms, and was a member of the board of assessors. Mr. Chaffee was long a member of the Congregational church, in which he was honored with places of great trust and responsibility; a member of the church committee and society's committee for many years. When a young man in Monson he was associated with the old state militia service. His golden wedding was celebrated May 15, 1889. The two were old-time school mates, and the love of more than half a century ago was most radiantly exemplified in the union of heart and life that existed between them: Shadows crossed their way, three children having died along life's journey; but an adopted daughter took the place of the lost in their lives, making the home one of hope and light. The life of Mr. Chaffee was one of superb consecration to duty, and no greater treasure can be left with the community in which he lived so long than the example which he impressed upon all classes of men. It is a legacy of priceless value. As a christian in the community and the manager of great industrial and financial interests, his career has been in every way an honor to American manhood.

"His honorable and successful life is an example of what industry, fidelity to duty, temperance, economy, and probity will do, not only toward the achievement of material success, but toward the upbuilding of that character which is at the end the best monument to a man's memory, and the most precious legacy to his children."

In the Fall of 1889 Mr. Chaffee gave $15,000 for a memorial building for the Windsor Locks Grand Army Post.

At the time of his death Mr. Chaffee was still connected with the Medicott Company as President, and lived in Windsor Locks.

"Robert A. Chafee, Mayor of Aiken, and now filling his second term in that capacity, was born in Charleston, S. C., thirty-seven years ago, one of the seven sons of Otis J. Chafee, a great merchant of that city in the olden time. The subject of this sketch went to Augusta in 1874, where for five years he engaged in the cotton business. Then he settled in Madison, whence two years later, his health having been greatly impaired by a siege of typhoid fever, he came to Aiken for recovery in 1882. On his return to health a broad field, both in public and private affairs, appeared to present itself for his manifest energies, and it was not long ere he was elected to the City Council, where he served two terms marked by alertness, vigilance and originality. But not until Mr. Chafee was elected Mayor seemed he fully armed and warranted for results he must long have contemplated and coveted in behalf of the city's furtherance. In 1890, as Mayor, he immediately set out upon an official career which continues to be remarkable for varied and desirable results for the community. Truth to tell, some of his best achievements, however, notwithstanding the popularity of his projects, have been won unassisted if not at times despite a certain opposition or discouragement. Three thousand seven hundred feet of tile piping have been laid about Aiken under his supervision, thus supplementing the natural drainage and making the two combined the best in the country. Five miles of solid clay supersurface, level and hard, make the highways diverging from the city unsurpassable, while within its limits the streets, lanes, avenues, parks, sidewalks, etc., would be fit patterns for many pretentious corporations already boastful of their thoroughfares. To him, too, is due the admirable system of electric lighting the result of which is to enliven and beautify the city by night with an illumination superior to that of many places where the electric system prevails. The dynamo power for the Aiken circuit is obtained eight miles from the city. A new and complete water-works system now under contract for prompt construction, the supply to equal 1,500,000 gallons daily, to be served through seven miles of main pipe into a storage reservoir 160 feet above the city's summit—this may be said to appropriately close the list of Mayor Chafee's more extensive and costly public improvements; but it does not by any means exhaust his versatile activities in many other directions. For several years several old-style bridges spanned the deep railway cut that divides the city near its centre. These, being low and in nowise secure, menaced the lives of those crossing above and proved more than once fatal to the trainmen who passed below. Mayor Chafee personally urged attention to the matter on the Legislature, the outcome being that a strong, modern, elevated truss bridge spans one point and the old structures are all to go by next April. He recently had removed bodily the well known Oakley house, in which he, with Mrs. Chafee and their two interesting daughters, are soon to dwell. No plastering was cracked nor were the chimneys affected by the removal. Mr. Chafee married Miss Ida B. Williams of Aiken, thirteen years ago. The family at present reside on Boulevard Coles. In brief, Mr. Chafee is everywhere regarded as a plucky, public spirited official and a model Mayor whose honors, having been thoroughly well won, are as thoroughly well worn."

In the midst of this career of civic usefulness and success and in the prime of life, Mayor Chafee was cut off by the hand of a murderer. On December 12, 1892, while he and his Chief of Police were attempting to arrest Colonel Thomas G. Lamar, who was intoxicated, he was shot by the latter and died two days later. The funeral took place on December 15th at half past four o'clock. All the stores were closed and business of all kinds was suspended from twelve o'clock until after the services, the government in Washington ordering the Post Office to be closed also. The funeral was largely attended, many who wished to do so not being able to get into the church. The remains were interred in the Episcopal Cemetery.

A special meeting of the Council and a mass meeting of citizens was held in the City Hall to take suitable action on the death of Mayor Chafee and the following resolutions were passed.

"Whereas it has pleased God, in his all wise providence to remove from our midst the honored Mayor of the city of Aiken, R. A. Chafee;

"Now therefore be it resolved, by the city council of Aiken in meeting assembled, and the citizens of Aiken in mass meeting assembled with this council; that in the sad and sudden death of Mayor R. A. Chafee, this entire community has received a severe loss and terrible shock. Young, manly, vigorous and progressive; cheerful and energetic, he made a good mayor and was a public spirited citizen. And we gladly bear testimony to the faithful discharge of his official duties, and the more than faithful attention to the best interests of the town. That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the council, and be engrossed at the expense of the council, sealed with the seal of the corporation, and signed by the clerk and sent to Mrs. Chafee. That a blank page on the minutes of the council with the proper inscription be inscribed to the memory of Mayor Chafee.

"That the fire bell of the town be tolled at the time of the funeral."

Y., January 3, 1905. He married in Springfield, Mass., October 30, 1889, Ruth Standish, daughter of Samuel Bowles of that place (who was for many years the editor of the Springfield Republican). Mrs. Baldwin was graduated from Smith College in 1887, and afterwards pursued special studies there; the year before her marriage she was an instructor in the college and private secretary to its President, L. C. Seelye. She survives her husband and lives with her children in New York City. Mr. Baldwin was a member of the Unitarian Church. He attained a position of much prominence and importance in the business world, though he died while still a young man. Under the heading "A Great Leader of Men," the Boston Transcript printed a tribute to his memory, portions of which we quote:

"The death of William H. Baldwin, Jr., terminates one of the most remarkably successful careers ever achieved by a young man in a land noted for its self-made men. There is published in this city a 'Directory of Directors,' a sort of financial 'Who's Who,' a list of the men who fill directors' chairs in the railroads, the trust companies, the banks and the industrial trusts. This Directory is arranged alphabetically, giving the name of the man, and, below, a list of the corporations in which he is an officer. The book includes every man of sufficient importance to have a director's voice in any one of the great corporations whose interests centre in Wall Street. To give a list of the score of names that are followed by the greatest number of corporations would be to name the little group of men who actually control, who compose the active, working, moving force of high finance and industry in the United States. On this list is Mr. Baldwin's name.

"He began life without one cent of inherited wealth. He was not on those directorates because he had money, nor because he had relatives who had money. He was there, it is no exaggeration to say, because he was looked upon as possessing, more than any other man in the world of high finance, the sound judgment, the sterling integrity, the thorough common sense and the experience in affairs, the breadth of mind and length of vision which go to make up the ability to manage in the best manner the most important financial and industrial corporations in America.

"Mr. Baldwin was either a president or a director in over 41 corporations.

"In 1886 he was graduating at Harvard College. Less than eighteen years ago—how incredibly brief it seems for such a record of achievement—he was beginning his career without one iota of influence, just as the humblest and most obscure member of last year's class may be beginning it today, as a clerk in the freight department of the Union Pacific Railroad at Omaha.

"For just one and only one bit of good fortune might Mr. Baldwin have thanked any man outside himself. He had the great good luck to be put in exactly the right place at the start. He was not compelled, as most youths are, to trust to his own judgment of his natural bent. And for this bit of good fortune, for the heaven-directed office of bringing the man and the opportunity together, Mr. Baldwin had to thank that man who is perhaps best fitted in America to gauge a youth's qualities and see where he belongs—President Eliot of Harvard. At that time, Mr. Charles Francis Adams had the same intimate relation that he still holds to Harvard. He was also president of the Union Pacific Railroad. 'I was then,' Mr. Adams has been quoted as saying, 'president of the Union Pacific. President Eliot of Harvard first called my attention to young Baldwin, then recently graduated. He said that he considered him a good man for the railroad business. We were always looking for first-class young men, so I found a place for him with the Union Pacific.'

"Doubtless that executive capacity which President Eliot noticed had been exhibited in young Baldwin's office as president of the Harvard Dining Association, the student body which manages the feeding of 1100 men at Memorial Hall—no small responsibility for a youth of college age. Baldwin was also leader of the Glee Club during his college course. At the end of it he entered the Law School, but after being there only a few months the chance to do railroad work came to him and he accepted it.

"He spent but a short time in demonstrating his energy and his capacity for responsibility. While he was still at an age when most young men are in very inferior and subordinate positions, he was sent to Butte, Mont., as general manager of the Montana Union Railroad; he was then called back to Omaha as assistant to the general manager of the entire Union Pacific system. In the spring of 1891, when the Union Pacific left the hands of its former owners to pass into the control of the Goulds, Mr. Baldwin left it. Already an active figure in railroad circles, he was called to the office of general manager of the Flint & Père Marquette. In this position his work attracted the attention of the Morgan interests, and when that house undertook the reorganization of the Southern Railroad system, Mr. Baldwin, then but thirty years old, was called upon to do the active work of rejuvenating the road physically, and coördinating its loose-hanging parts. The conduct of the road before this event had been notorious. It was said at the time that the property 'had for years been scrimped and mismanaged to pay unearned dividends. Mr. Baldwin had to coalesce the various elements in what had been a loosely held system, formulate and carry into effect uniformity in every department of the service and practically rebuild a large part of the system. What he had to contend with and overcome may be appreciated when it is stated that there did not exist a repair shop on the whole line between Washington and Atlanta, and to turn the tire of a driving-wheel the engine had to travel six hundred miles. The transformation accomplished on the Southern Railroad during the first two years of its history was unparalleled in railroad management.' Two years later Mr. Baldwin was again sought for the task of bringing order out of the wreck of a mismanaged railroad. It is well known that the Long Island Railroad system had been 'milked' by the previous management, that its physical condition was wretched and that its service was an irritation to every resident along the line. Mr. Baldwin spent the first weeks of his presidency in going slowly over every yard of the line with a huge notebook in hand, marking down the repairs and changes to be made. What he effected in the way of increased satisfaction alike to the patrons of the road and to the shareholders would be an interesting story if it were not too long to tell here. Subsequently he promoted the union of the Long Island and the Pennsylvania; and the stupendous engineering feat of connecting the two systems by tunnels under the North and East rivers and under Manhattan Island is generally credited to him, as his original conception. When the time came for the actual beginning of this work, he was chosen for the general oversight of it. Indeed, the direction of this enormous work had been his chief care in recent years.

"This is all a record of material achievement. It leaves out of account Mr. Baldwin's work as a reformer and philanthropist. The striking thing about Mr. Baldwin's record is that he was an original thinker, that his discernment and insight taught him the needs of certain portions of America, that his far vision suggested to him a cure, and that he had, with militant energy, gone about originating and bringing into being the means of cure. Some months ago a complimentary dinner to Mr. Baldwin was given by the executive officers of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, and the outside of the menu card was inscribed 'To Our Best Friend.' This was a significant tribute. It indicates what is the truth, that those most intimate with the work of Tuskegee recognized Mr. Baldwin as, in a sense, the discoverer of Booker Washington and as the most efficient impulse behind the movement which Mr. Washington represents.

"He once expressed it himself in a speech to a company of Southerners: 'My views regarding the education of the Negro are exactly those that are held in the South. For the Negro, I think that the best education is that which is given by Booker Washington at Tuskegee. I think the Negroes should be taught to work—to work at the trades and in the fields. A common-school education along with their trades is not only unharmed, but likely to be a great benefit to their employers and their neighbors. As for Greek, Latin and the higher steps in education, they are worthless so far as the Negro is concerned.'

"Having given the tremendous impulse of his personality to the work at Tuskegee, Mr. Baldwin turned his attention to the education of the Southern whites. He was the chairman of the General Educational Board, an organization of men who have the insight to know, and the disposition and means to give to the educational needs of the South.

"Mr. Baldwin was best known to the public as chairman of the Reform Committee of Fifteen, which, in connection with Mr. Jerome, awakened the city [New York] and brought about the election of Mayor Low in 1901.

"This record, remarkable as it is, leaves out of the count the distinction which Mr. Baldwin held among railroad men, among large employers of capital and among labor leaders—a distinction generally unknown to the public. Mr. Baldwin was held to be the most clear-headed, the most just, the most practical and the most effective settler of labor disputes in this country. It is one of the secrets of the more intimate circles of labor leaders and large employers that during every great strike of recent years Mr. Baldwin's advice had been sought to settle the vexed problems involved, and in some of the greatest of these strikes, although his name was never publicly mentioned, he was the principal agent in terminating the trouble. It would cause misconception to call him a 'strike breaker.' It was one of the elements of his success that he kept in mind the point of view of the laborer as well as of the employer, and without any weak yielding, using unflinching firmness whenever it is necessary, he ended the trouble by amicable adjustment rather than by any exertion of force which leaves bitterness on both sides.

"Mr. Baldwin reached this unique ability through an abundance of experience. He fought the rioters on the Union Pacific in 1889 and slept on frontier station floors with a rifle by his side. Again, while general manager and vice president of the Southern Railway, he averted what threatened to be one of the greatest strikes in railroad history. One of the means used to express the fairness of his position to the strikers was the compilation of a pamphlet which dealt with the whole question and was mailed to every employee of the road."

"The death of William H. Baldwin, Jr., of New York is a national loss. Few men dying at the comparatively early age of forty-one take so much out of the higher activities and richer life of their time as has passed with him. The brief period of eighteen years was the span of his active career, as we speak of the time in men's lives that follows their educational preparation, but they were years of splendid achievement in which qualities of early promise developed and expanded into most gratifying fulfilment, both in character and in service. In another part of this paper the evidences of this fact are given at considerable length, but the full record is something that none but himself completely knew, something that the most appreciative tributes can but inadequately express. His executive ability was of the highest order and in the line of work which he selected he was continually being called to higher and still higher service and responsibility. But the most notable trait of his character was that he did not prize these talents simply as a means of acquiring wealth or securing personal advancement, but held them as a trust to be employed for the benefit of his generation. His aim was always constructive, but never to build himself or his enterprises up by pulling others down. He became interested not alone in the material possibilities of the communities and sections with which his manifold labors identified him, but with the human beings with whom these labors brought him in contact, their bodies and souls, their mental and material welfare. His public spirit, his broad and comprehensive philanthropy were inherited qualities made strong and vital by excellent training and constant exercise. Though in his productive manhood his lot was cast elsewhere, it is a satisfaction to remember that he was a son of Boston and possessed and reflected some of the noblest and most admirable of New England qualities. With rare business ability was joined integrity that was above suspicion, while through it all ran a beautiful spirit of altruism that expressed itself in good works for his fellowmen."

The following account of the funeral is from a Boston paper:

"A funeral service was held in the cemetery chapel at Forest Hills, Jamaica Plain, Mass., in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, president of the American Unitarian association, assisted by Rev. Charles D. Billings of Lowell, a brother-in-law of Mr. Baldwin. Dr. Eliot pronounced a eulogy, saying in part:

"No single voice can explain the depth of feeling that has drawn this company together. We are here to testify to the influence which this brave, cheerful, tender-hearted, loving and high-minded man has had upon our lives. If it were possible for each one of us to utter in some single sentence the reason of our love for him there would be added to our presence the fitting memorial word. From the world of business, where his ability and integrity won quick respect and absolute confidence; from the public service, wherein his capacity for self-effacing leadership was so remarkable; from the personal relationship of life, where his genius for friendship and buoyancy of spirits brought good cheer, there would come up in all the simplicity of a heartfelt grief, his worthiest eulogy. How his very physical presence inspired our confidence, how his abundant nature enriched us! We caught the contagion of his optimism, we grew more generous in contact with his radiating good will. All our little meannesses and prejudices vanished when they touched his magnificent manliness.

"Evil spirits could not bear the light of his sunny soul. He inherited a keen sense of moral obligation. This was a quality that gave a cleanness to his speech, firmness to his decisions. There were never more than two ways of doing things—one the right, the other the wrong. He knew nothing of circuitous methods. He did not deal in smooth compromises. He never knew what it was to be timid or complacent. He never let the right wait on the expedient. He never trimmed, he never posed. He went straight to his point. He could not but be aware of the admiration he created, but he never lost his sense of right proportions. He had physical courage and the greater virtue of moral courage. He held himself in natural friendly intercourse with all sorts and conditions of men. He had the large manly common sense which we Americans demand of those we hold representative. He had a commanding personality, and we caught from him much that has been beneficial to us all. His life has been a lesson to us, and we should seek to become more worthy of his friendship and not forget his great example.'

"In the course of morning prayers at Harvard university Wednesday, Rev. Francis G. Peabody contributed a few words of testimony to the life of the late Mr. Baldwin. He took for a text Isaiah xxxii: 2, 'A man shall be as an hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land.' He said in part: 'He died of a lingering and obscure disease, at the age of 41; too soon, it seems to a host of friends, but not too soon to demonstrate what one plain, democratic, absolutely upright and thoroughly trained man can do and be in a nation like ours. The spirit of idealism bred here was set to work in the world, and the world—which often seems to give its prizes to trickery and greed—gave its obedience and loyalty to this young Harvard man whom it could absolutely trust.'

"President Jesup formally announced the death of William H. Baldwin, Jr., at the monthly meeting of the New York Chamber of Commerce yesterday, and recalled the fact that Mr. Baldwin had served the city and the chamber as the chairman of the Committee of Fifteen. Jacob H. Schiff asked permission to pay a tribute of respect to the memory of Mr. Baldwin and the work he had done on the Committee of Fifteen. He said that when the matter of chairman for that committee came up there was some doubt as to whether Mr. Baldwin would accept the office, since it might interfere with his duties as president of the Long Island Railroad. Mr. Schiff said that Mr. Baldwin declared that he would accept the position, even if it became necessary for him to resign the presidency of the railroad. Mr. Baldwin said at the time, according to Mr. Schiff: 'I shall always be able to earn a living for myself and family, but I shall never have another opportunity, perhaps, to serve my city in this way.' 'But for him,' said Mr. Schiff, 'I do not believe our city would be as good as I believe it is to-day.'"

Adna R. Chaffee was born on his father's farm in Ohio and as a lad in his 'teens worked on it, being an expert plougher for a boy of his age, and doing every task that was given him with a thoroughness and energy which has characterized his entire career. When the Civil War broke out he enlisted in Warren, O., July 22, 1861, as a Private in the regular army, Company K, 6th Cavalry, which regiment had just been organized, and which, as the advance guard, was to lead the army of the Potomac under McClellan from Yorktown up the Peninsula to the battlefields around Richmond. In October of that year was made Sergeant and later First Sergeant. During this time he was engaged in the Battle of Williamsburg, action of Statesville, Battles of Mechanicsville, Hanover Court-House and Malvern Hill, actions of Sugar Loaf Mountain, Philamont, Uniontown, Upperville, Barbers Cross-Roads, Battle of Fredericksburg and General Stoneman's raid of April, 1863. He was discharged as First Sergeant, May 12, 1863, to enable him to accept an appointment as Second Lieutenant. He was assigned to Troop I, 6th Cavalry, but was frequently detached for duty with other troops of the regiment, as the interests of the service required. He was engaged in the actions of Beverly Ford, Fairfield, Pa., July 3, 1863, in which he was severely wounded, Battle of Brandy Station, Va., October 12, 1863, in which he was again wounded, action of Todd's Tavern, in General Sheridan's raid and in the actions of Yellow Tavern, Salem Church, Battles of Trevillian Station, Deep Bottom, Winchester, Fisher's Hill, and Cedar Creek. He was brevetted First Lieutenant "for gallant and meritorious services in the Gettysburg campaign." He was regimental adjutant from November, 1864 to 1866, and was promoted to the rank of First Lieutenant, March 13, 1865. He engaged in the Battle of Dinwiddie Court-House, for gallant and meritorious services in which he was brevetted Captain, Five Forks, Sailors Creek, and the surrender of General Lee. From 1866 to October 12, 1867, he was Quartermaster, when he was promoted to the rank of Captain, and assigned to Troop I, 6th Cavalry. For more than twenty years as Captain he served at posts in Texas, Kansas, Mississippi, again in Kansas, Indian Territory, Arizona and New Mexico. His campaigns against the Indians were numerous and markedly successful, gaining for him on March 7, 1868, the brevet rank of Major "for gallant and efficient services in the engagement with the Comanche Indians at Paint Creek, Tex.," and that of Lieutenant-Colonel on February 27, 1890, "for gallant service in leading a cavalry charge over rough and precipitous bluffs held by the Indians on the Red River, Texas, August 30, 1874, and gallant service in action against the Indians at Big Dry Wash, Arizona, July 17, 1882." July 8, 1888, he was promoted to the rank of Major and assigned to the 9th Cavalry, joining his regiment which was stationed at Fort Duchesne, in September of that year. He held command of Fort Duchesne until about October 1, 1890, when he entered upon duty as Inspector General for a period of four years, at the Headquarters of General Alexander McD. McCook, commanding the Department of Arizona, Los Angeles, Cal. The headquarters were transferred to Denver, Colo., in July, 1893, and on being relieved from duty as Inspector General, in October, 1894, he rejoined his regiment, stationed at Fort Robinson, Neb., and served thereat until August, 1896, when he reported as instructor of Cavalry at the Infantry and Cavalry School at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. He was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, 3rd Cavalry, June 1, 1897. He was relieved as Instructor at the Infantry and Cavalry School, Fort Riley, Kan., in August, 1897. On the outbreak of the war with Spain, operations were suspended at all the service schools, the army being quickly assembled at points in the southern states for embarkation to Cuba. Lieutenant-Colonel Chaffee joined his regiment at Chocomauga Park, Ga., April 2, 1898, and on May 4th he was appointed Brigadier-General of Volunteers. He was ordered to report for duty to Major-General Shafter, commanding the 5th Army Corps, at Tampa, Fla., and after some temporary assignments he was given command of the 3d Brigade, 2d Division, composed of the 7th, 12th and 17th regiments of Infantry. The troops composing this Brigade were first of the Fifth Corps to go aboard ship at Port Tampa, and loaded three ships, Cherokee, Iroquois and D. H. Miller. The Second Division, General Lawton commanding, landed at Banquiri, on the south coast of Cuba, about twenty-five miles east of Santiago, June 21, 1898, and led in the march to that city. General Chaffee received the highest praise for the reconnoissance he made previous to the Battle of El Caney. Of all the experienced officers in authority during this time, he was the only one who saw and acted upon the necessity of reconnoitering. Captain Arthur H. Lee, British Military Attaché, who was sent over by his Government to view the Cuban campaign, spoke of this as follows:

"The strong post had been carefully reconnoitered by Brigadier-General Chaffee in person on June 28th and 29th, and he had submitted a plan of attack which was carried out almost to the letter.

"I feel it only just at this point to mention that however novel the absence of reconnoissance in other directions, nothing could have been more enterprising or systematic than General Chaffee's explorations of his own field of operations. I had the pleasure of accompanying him on more than one occasion, and derived much profit from a study of his methods.

"Leaving his staff behind, he would push far to the front, and finally, dismounting, slip through the brush with the rapidity and noiselessness of an Indian. . . . On one occasion we approached so close to the Spanish pickets that we could hear the men talking over their suppers, and until I began to speculate on the probable efficacy of the British passport that was my sole defensive weapon. In this silent Indian fashion General Chaffee explored the entire district, and was the only man in the Army to whom the network of bridle-paths around El Caney was in any sense familiar."

Senator Lodge in his book on the Cuban campaign says on this point:

"There does not appear to have been any reconnoitering done at all except by General Chaffee, who, with the skill and coolness of an experienced Indian fighter, explored the ground in front of his command thoroughly, even to the Spanish lines at El Caney."

It is said that the only map of the locality in the possession of the general commanding the American forces was one drawn by General Chaffee from his personal observations.

General Chaffee's brigade attacked the strong Spanish position of El Caney at half past seven o'clock on the morning of July 1st. The enemy, about eight hundred to a thousand strong, were posted in six blockhouses, and in the buildings of the town, which were constructed of brick and stone, the walls prepared for fire by infantry. General Lawton's Brigade also assisted in the attack, but the brunt of the fighting fell on that of General Chaffee. After eight hours of fighting the Spanish troops were thoroughly defeated and the town taken. The killed and wounded of General Chaffee's Brigade, the Third, exceeded ten per cent of its strength. The Spanish forces at and in the vicinity of Santiago surrendered July 17th. Many incidents are related of General Chaffee during this battle. One, by Colonel Lee, is as follows:

"Wishing to see how they (the 7th Infantry) were faring I crawled through the hedge into the field beyond, and incidentally into such a hot corner that I readily complied with Gen. Chaffee's abrupt injunction, 'Get down on your stomach, sir.' Indeed I was distinctly grateful for his advice, but could not fail to notice that he was regardless of it himself. Wherever the fire was thickest he strolled about unconcernedly, a half-smoked cigar between his teeth, and an expression of exceeding grimness on his face. The situation was a trying one for the nerves of the oldest soldier, and some of the younger hands fell back from the firing-line and crept toward the road. In a moment the General pounced upon them, inquiring their destination in low, unhoned accents, and then taking them persuasively by the elbow, led them back to the extreme front, and having deposited them in the firing line stood over them while he distributed a few last words of pungent and sulphurous advice. Throughout the day he set the most inspiring example to his men, and that he escaped unhurt was a miracle. One bullet clipped a button off his coat, another passed under his shoulder strap, but neither touched him and there must be some truth in the old adage that fortune favors the brave."

Another is as follows:

"General Chaffee saw one of his soldiers skulking behind a bush that could have afforded no shelter from even a pebble.

"'See here, my man,' said he going up to the soldier and exposing himself at full height to the hail of bullets, 'what do you mean by this?'

"'I'm—I'm afraid,' chattered the man with the gun.

"'Afraid!' stormed Chaffee, 'Why—' Here he stopped. The man was only a boy.

"'I'd like to get hold of the man who enlisted you! You're too young. You've no business here.' Then, after a moment, 'Come out with me and I'll stand by you for a while.'

"Together the general and the private went out further on the firing line.

"'Now lie down here,' said Chaffee, indicating a spot, 'and aim carefully and fire,' himself standing to the rear, straight as a rifle barrel, a shining mark for death. The boy recovered his composure and together they stayed until the boy got his grip. That's the kind of a man Chaffee is and his men know it."

It was in this battle that General Chaffee earned his picturesque sobriquet "The Man in Shirt Sleeves," one of the surviving Spanish officers after El Caney having said:

"I have never seen anything to equal the courage and dash of those Americans, who, stripped to the waist and led by the man in shirt sleeves were offering their naked breasts to our murderous fire, literally throwing themselves on our trenches on the very muzzle of our guns."

After the battle General Lawton said of him:

"I consider General Chaffee one of the best practical soldiers and I shall recommend him for special distinction for successfully charging the stone fort, the capture of which practically ended the battle."

This General Lawton did, and on July 8th General Chaffee was promoted to the rank of Major-General of Volunteers.

Wounded men in the military hospital at Montauk Point, Long Island, spoke glowingly of him, saying, "When he was wounded at Santiago he never left the field, but kept right on afoot, in great suffering, but more intent on the fighting than he was on the wound. He was always at the front, and his presence was an incentive to the men of his brigade." This wound was from a rifle bullet and was in his foot.

After the Santiago campaign General Chaffee was assigned to command the First Division of the Fourth Army Corps, with headquarters at Huntsville, Ala., but upon the assignment of Major-General Brooke to command the Division of Cuba he requested General Chaffee's assignment as Chief of Staff for his command, and he arrived in Havana, Cuba, December 25, 1898. On duty as Chief of Staff to the commanding General of the Division of Cuba until May, 1900, he returned to the United States to await further orders of the War Department. Due to a material reduction of volunteer troops in 1899 he was mustered out as Major-General September 13th, and appointed Brigadier-General of Volunteers the same day. June 20th he was summoned by telegraph to report to Honorable Elihu Root, Secretary of War, at Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y. At the time disquieting reports were being received almost daily from Peking, China, to the effect that the lives of foreign representatives in Peking and elsewhere in the Chinese Empire were endangered by the hostility of "Boxers" and Chinese troops, and it seemed necessary to take immediate steps for their protection. The Secretary of War informed General Chaffee of his wish that he proceed to Peking; that he take passage on the transport Grant, scheduled to sail from San Francisco July 1st and report arrival at Nagasaki, Japan, for further orders. Leaving Washington the afternoon of June 24th with his aide-de-camp, he arrived in Oakland, Cal., at five o'clock on the afternoon of July 1st. A tugboat held in waiting conveyed him to the Grant, which sailed immediately. About fifteen hundred men were aboard the transport; the 6th Cavalry, with which General Chaffee served from 1861 to 1888, a battalion of marines and a detachment of recruits. On entering the port of Nagasaki, July 21st, two transports loaded with troops en route from Manila to China were met steaming slowly out of the harbor. The men cheered their comrades on the Grant, and gave news of the battle of Tien-Tsin, China, July 13th. Reporting to the War Department his arrival at Nagasaki, General Chaffee received instructions to proceed with dispatch to Toku Bay, disembark the troops aboard the Grant, assume command of all United States troops in China, and co-operate with commanders of troops of other nations for relief of the besieged Legations in Peking. He arrived in Tien-Tsin July 31st and immediately conferred with Lieutenant-General Yamagochi, commanding a division of twelve thousand Japanese troops, with Lieutenant-General Gazlee commanding three thousand British troops, with Lieutenant-General Linevitch commanding four thousand Russian troops, with General Frey, commanding French troops, and with Field-Marshal Von Waldersee, commanding the German forces. The French and German forces combined numbered less than one thousand. It was agreed that the advances of the co-operating forces should begin August 4th. The Chinese were defeated at Pitsang August 5th, at Yangtsun August 6th, at Yung Chow August 12th, and Peking was entered and the Legations relieved August 14th. The United States troops engaged in the operations were the 9th and 14th Infantry, 6th Cavalry, Reilly's Battery of Light Artillery, and two battalions of marines, twenty-five hundred men in all. Although the allied troops met severe trials and losses, General Chaffee and his command maintained the reputation of American arms. During their occupancy of Peking the allied troops, with the sole exception of the American forces, looted the city and showed great cruelty to the conquered Chinese. A New York paper in commenting on this fact editorially, speaks of General Chaffee as "the General who kept his troops so well in hand in China, in spite of the disgraceful examples of cruelty and savagery all around them," and continues:

"In the whole history of the United States army there is no more glorious chapter than the performance of its expeditionary force which took part in the rescue of the legations. Every Chinese statesman knows that its military efficiency was not more remarkable than its complete abstinence from the outrages by which other of the allied forces were disgracing their respective countries in particular, and the names of Christianity and civilization in general. The Chinese Government has acknowledged our moderation. It was General Chaffee himself, as the commander of one of the corps which effected the relief of the legations, who expostulated with the German commander so warmly upon the excesses of looting to which some of the German troops had delivered themselves, that Count Von Waldersee returned the remonstrance 'on account of its tone.'"

In praise of General Chaffee's work in China the New York Press of February 10, 1901, said:

"At El Caney Chaffee had the eyes of America upon him. In China the eyes of Europe were turned toward this American to see what he would do. The farm boy of forty years ago was brought into contact with some of the finest soldiers with the allied Powers. There he proved that worth and fame

" . . . from no condition rise;

" 'Act well your part, there all the honor lies.'"

"Whether in diplomatic conference or on the field of battle Chaffee showed the stuff Americans are made of. He fell not before those men among whom a diplomatic blunder is a crime, and on the field he took his staff where foreign officers and newspaper correspondents alike feared to follow. Chaffee is cast for the command of the Philippines, and if he lives long enough he will have the honor, barren though it may be, of 'commanding' the United States army. But the beauty of it all is that it isn't 'Chaffee luck,' but plain American ability that put him where he is."

February 9, 1901, General Chaffee was raised to the rank of Major-General of the regular army, and the promotion was celebrated by his friends in Peking, as the following dispatch relates:

"Peking, Feb. 14. The past week in Peking has practically been devoted socially to Gen. Chaffee, in honor of his promotion to the rank of Major-General in the regular Army. The officers of the American camp at the Temple of Agriculture gave a reception in his honor at the club, at which nearly all the American officers and civilians in Peking were present to congratulate him. United States Minister and Mrs. Conger gave a dinner on February 9 in Gen. Chaffee's honor, after which there was a smoker at the American Club. Owing to the dinner, it was late before Gen. Chaffee put in his appearance—shortly after 11 o'clock. As soon as it was known that he was coming through the gates the preparations were made to receive him in style and an international guard of honor was formed, the commanding officer of which was the British General, Richardson, the band playing 'Hail to the Chief' and afterward 'He's a Jolly Good Fellow.' Gen. Richardson led the cheering which followed the music and which was long and pronounced. Fully four-fifths of the British officers from the Temple of Heaven were present, with quite a number of the German officers, including members of the Field Marshal's staff, and a scattering of French and Japanese. The French Minister and Mme. Pichon gave a luncheon party in Gen. Chaffee's honor on Feb. 10, and several other dinners and receptions have been arranged. The enlisted men of the command are unfeignedly delighted over the promotion, for to them Gen. Chaffee is the exemplification of all that a good soldier should be. Another reason is that the General was once an enlisted man himself. It is doubtful if there is any man in Peking to-day who is so much liked and respected by the people of all nations as is Gen. Chaffee."

General Chaffee remained in Peking until May, 1901, when he was appointed Military Governor of the unpacified portion of the Philippines, relieving Major-General McArthur, July 4, 1901. Thus he came for the first time into intimate relations with Governor Taft, the civil head of affairs in the archipelago, the two men exercising a joint rule over the islands. The relations between them were exceedingly harmonious and have always remained so. General Chaffee's work in the Philippines had for its most important feature the suppression of the insurrection in the island of Samar, where he succeeded in capturing the famous guerilla Chieftain Lukban, thus putting an end to the war in that part of the archipelago. He also captured Malvar, another bandit of much celebrity, in Luzon, and by that means pacified an entire province. In fact it may be said that these two exploits put an end to the rebellion in the Philippines. He held command in Manila until September 30, 1902, being then transferred to command the Department of the East, with headquarters at Governor's Island, New York Harbor. In October, 1903, he was detailed as member of the General Staff of the army and entered upon duty at the War Department as Assistant to the Chief-of-Staff, Lieutenant-General Young. Upon the latter's retirement from active service, January 9, 1904, General Chaffee succeeded him as Lieutenant-General and Chief-of-Staff, the highest position in the American army. The day after this promotion, the New York Herald contained the following:

"Adna R. Chaffee, who yesterday succeeded General Young as head of the United States Army, is just a plain fighting man. No courtier soldier he, but a grim warrior who has seen many a stricken field and the bulk of whose life has been spent in hard service on the frontier chasing bad Indians and leading the advance guard in the march of civilization across this continent.

"There was no influence at Washington to help him scale the ladder of promotion. Such scant rewards as he enjoyed up to six years ago were hard earned and well won. At the time of the outbreak of the war with Spain he was only a lieutenant colonel, and the highest flight of his ambition was a colonelcy in the cavalry. If in the winter of 1897-98 anybody had told him that he would become a lieutenant general and occupy the place then held by General Nelson A. Miles, he would have laughed at the absurdity of the suggestion.

"Chaffee's career might be said to represent the apotheosis of the enlisted man. In 1861, at the beginning of the civil war, he was a private in Company K of the 6th Cavalry, and it was not until nearly two years had passed that he obtained his first commission, as second lieutenant in the same regiment. At the end of that memorable conflict he was only a first lieutenant and he did not become a major until July, 1888. It was the Spanish war that gave him his great opportunity, enabling him to rise in less than six years to the very tip top of the military tree. . . . Chaffee is a highly educated man, but most of his schooling he obtained for himself after he had grown to manhood. Born in Ohio he had only a common school training, which was discontinued when he was eighteen years of age, but after the close of the civil war he studied hard, even taking a course in law. In the army he has always been respected for his brains as well as for his prowess as a fighter. He furnished the military 'problems' for some of the recent manoeuvres, and it is an interesting fact that the map used by General Shafter in Cuba to guide his operations there—the only map that could be got—was drawn by Chaffee from a reconnoissance made by himself through the enemy's country, much of it by travelling on his hands and knees. . . . There was an occasion, twenty-one years ago, when he was one of a command under General Crook, out in Arizona, when he was reported killed, together with all the rest of the party.

"Having survived so much hardship and so many perils, General Chaffee finds himself to-day at the summit of military ambition. He lives in Washington with his charming wife in a luxurious apartment on Connecticut Avenue. He has a son at West Point, the elder of his two daughters is married to an army officer, Captain George F. Hamilton, and his little grandson, who is his special pride, is Adna, 3d.

"One of the most popular men in the army, Adna R. Chaffee is still the unpretending soldier. A hard worker, he loves his home and a good cigar. Those are his pleasures in life."

"General Chaffee is of the school of Grant and Lawton—quiet, unobtrusive, modest, but full of fight. He has never advertised himself or solicited others to do it for him. Although appointed from the ranks to a commission, no West Pointer could be more punctilious in all that pertains to a soldier and officer or more devoted to the traditions of the regular army than is General Chaffee.

"General Chaffee is loved by his troops and respected by every officer with whom he is associated or who has ever heard of him. . . . In all his long service not a breath of criticism has ever touched him, but the official records are replete with mention of his gallant work and bear testimony to his scrupulous honesty and fine executive ability.

"If his advancement, brevets and promotions had depended upon his urging his own merits, General Chaffee would still be a lieutenant in the Sixth Cavalry. That sense of honor so strong in the old line officer that preferment must come without seeking is possessed to its fullest extent by General Chaffee. He is as innocent as a child of anything approaching log-rolling or "political pull." He despises anything of the sort and would not lift his little finger to secure the influence of a man in power. These qualifications, united with his record as a fighter, organizer and executive pointed to him as the fittest officer in the service for the China command.

"General Chaffee's record is part of the history and romance of the great Indian wars west of the Mississippi. He began his service there very shortly after the Civil War in frontier posts and trailing the Indians over the great West and Southwest until the war with Spain opened and he went to make a new record in Cuba. General Chaffee does not like to be hampered in his operations and in his Indian fights he showed rare self-reliance and a disposition to cut loose from higher authorities when those authorities were not as well posted on the situation as he. Here is an anecdote which illustrates this characteristic:

"When captain in the Sixth Cavalry he was ordered to look after some unruly Indians in Arizona. Just before starting one evening he dropped into the signal office and said to the operator in charge: 'Are there any orders for me from Washington?'"

"'No, sir,' said the operator.

"'Well,' responded Captain Chaffee, 'I am going out to look for some Indians. I wouldn't be surprised if your telegraph lines were cut. You will probably hear of some dead Indians, but will hardly get anything on the wires from Washington.'

"Captain Chaffee and his band started out, and sure enough, the telegraph lines were cut, and sure enough there were several dead Indians next morning. There was no means by which Washington could telegraph the captain not to 'shoot first.'

"According to General Lawton, the credit of the battle of El Caney and most of the maneuvers of the troops before Santiago belongs to General Chaffee. He was the most active of any of the officers, his wiry frame giving him strength and endurance. Beside, he had the faculty of at once catching the salient features of the surrounding country and his reconnoissances were accurate and of the greatest value.

"General Chaffee is intensely loyal to his friends and to his superior officers. While attending a banquet in St. Louis a short time after the Cuban campaign something was said derogatory of General Shafter. General Chaffee at once arose and resented the reflection. He said that General Shafter had been his commander in Cuba and had there carried out the most wonderful and effective campaign. He launched into a panegyric of his superior officer that aroused the wildest enthusiasm and had everybody at the banquet cheering for General Shafter." [Philadelphia Press.]

During the summer of 1905, General Chaffee was for a time Acting Secretary of War, in the absence of Secretary Taft, and Acting Secretary Oliver. Later in the summer, accompanied by his wife and daughter, he went to France, where at the invitation of President Loubet of that country he witnessed the army manoeuvres.

"LOUBET MEETS CHAFFEE

"PRESIDENT OF FRANCE WELCOMES AMERICAN ON FIELD OF SHAM BATTLE

"CHATEAU BRIENNE, Department of the Aube, France, Sept. 11.—President Loubet arrived on the field of the army manoeuvres to-day, accompanied by War Minister Berteaux and General Brugere. The President went from point to point in the vast theatre of operations. At Ville Hardouin he met Lieutenant General Adna R. Chaffee, Brigadier General J. Franklin Bell, Brigadier General William Crozier and their staffs. The Americans were presented to M. Loubet, and the latter, addressing General Chaffee, said France was glad to receive the American military mission and thus acknowledge America's reception of the French military mission, which attended the Rochambeau exercises. General Chaffee in reply paid a tribute to the splendid organization and equipment of the French army. The manoeuvres ended with a brilliant banquet, at which President Loubet presided. M. Casimir-Perier, former President of the Republic, sat at the President's right and Lieutenant General Chaffee at his left.

"President Loubet, in proposing a toast to the heads of the states represented at the banquet, assured the foreign officers that their presence was heartily welcomed by the army and people of France.

"Minister Berteaux, in behalf of the French army, thanked the representatives of the foreign Powers for their attendance at the manoeuvres, making special reference to the presence of the American mission.

"Lieutenant General Chaffee, in behalf of the President of the United States and the American Army, gave expression to their hearty recognition of the splendid reception which had been accorded the American mission by President Loubet and the French army." [New York Press.]

February 1, 1906, he retired from the service of the country he had served so long and faithfully. Since then he has made his home in Los Angeles, Cal.

"A SOLDIER

"In the forty-fifth year of his service as an American soldier, Adna Romanza Chaffee, who has filled and honored every grade in the regular army, from private soldier to lieutenant-general, except that of brigadier-general, retires to-day from the chief command of the military forces of the United States, and from the service.

"There have been few officers of high rank with whom the country has parted with more regret than it will part with Gen. Chaffee. He is one of the most soldierly soldiers who ever drew a saber in the country's service. An ideal cavalryman, an ideal regular, his record for brilliant bravery is rivaled only by his record for hard, patient, unselfish work.

"He is, we believe, the only chief commander of the United States army who rose from the ranks of the regular army. An Ohio country boy of nineteen, he enlisted in the Sixth Cavalry in 1861. He had been in the service less than two years when the material of a fine officer was recognized in him, and he was made a lieutenant. Twice during the civil war he was brevetted for gallantry in action, and twice afterward in Indian wars.

"But for twenty-one years this brilliant soldier occupied the grade of captain of cavalry. The best of his life, from his twenty-fifth to his forty-sixth year, was spent in patient service in mere company command. These long years were the regular thing then. They won the captains the honorable title of 'the old man,' by which the soldiers knew them.

"Days of more rapid advancement came for Capt. Chaffee, however. The Spanish and Philippine wars brought him out as a commander, and the Peking campaign proved that a very good diplomatist, as well as general, may be developed from a 'high private in the rear rank.'

"Through all this honorable career, Gen. Chaffee has been just a plain American, democratic, quite without fuss or glitter, and a student as well as a fighter. The example of his record is worth a dozen military academies.

"For West Point exists not to make something else, or something more ornamental, than he, but to make men like him. As for Chaffee, he never needed West Point, yet never scorned or slighted it." [New York Evening Mail.]

He married in Frosh Village, Canada, March 22, 1854, the daughter of Doctor S. S. Foster of Knowlton, P. Q., Canada. Mr. Chaffee was the executor of his father's estate. The following biography is from the Montreal Railway Journal of February 10, 1883:

"In recommencing our series of portraits of 'Celebrities,' it is scarcely possible that we could have presented the face of a more representative man than the subject of our sketch. Mr. Chaffee is so widely known that his picture scarcely needs a word of introduction, and certainly no lengthened notice; he is a good type of the best side of the activity of the American character, and beneath a certain quickness of reply which almost amounts to brusqueness, those who have the best opportunities of judging well know that an immense amount of extreme courtesy and kindness of heart is to be found. As to Mr. Chaffee's business energy, if we might hazard an attempt at a joke, we would say he is the A. B. C. of every enterprise to which he puts his hand. Mr. Chaffee was born at Berkshire, Vt., on April 4th, 1830, and entered on his life career after finishing his education. He studied law under the guidance of Judge Aldis, but later on, entering upon a commercial training, we hear of him as filling an important position in the Customs Department of Burlington under Judge Smalley. Mr. Chaffee removed to Canada in 1861, and from that time to the present has been identified with many important business enterprises, until to-day no more representative man can be found amongst us. On his first arrival in Canada, he entered upon an insurance business for some years. At length the Railway interest growing in importance, Mr. Chaffee turned his active mind in that direction, becoming associated with the late Hon. A. B. Foster as Secretary-Treasurer of the old Canada Central and South Eastern, until a few years back, when the Hon. Bradley Barlow joining the enterprise, Mr. Chaffee came even more prominently before the community. One feature in our Canadian railway men of to-day cannot escape notice, viz., their almost ubiquity, and to this peculiar feature the subject of our sketch is no exception. In addition to the position of Secretary-Treasurer to the South Eastern Railway Company, Mr. Chaffee is connected with several other enterprises either as President, Vice-President, or simply on the Board of Directors. We might enumerate the Atlantic and North-west, Quebec and Ontario, Montreal, Portland and Boston, Lake Champlain and St. Lawrence Junction Railways, the Longueuil Navigation Company, and some other projects. The ice bridge rail across the St. Lawrence, which has now been in operation three winters, is in a great measure due to his energy. Notwithstanding all these many calls upon his time, Mr. Chaffee is one of those men who apparently rises from his desk daily with a sigh, that there is no more work to do.

August 31, 1836, a patent was granted to him for his process of applying rubber to cloth and other articles without the use of a solvent. Formerly it required to dissolve a pound of crude rubber, a gallon or more of spirits of turpentine or other suitable solvent, costing more than $.50 a gallon. By the use of Mr. Chaffee's machinery all solvents were rendered unnecessary, the rubber being reduced to a paste. This process rendered the goods more durable and reduced their market price, labor, time and material, being saved and the cost of the manufacture being reduced one-half.

and Abigail (Daniels) Reed. (See Appendix H.) She was born in Tolland, Conn., May 8, 1813, died in New York City, August 29, 1894, and was buried beside her husband in the family lot in Somers burying-ground.

Mr. Chaffee moved with his father from Springfield to Somersville in 1819. He had a common school education. At one time during his boyhood he took toll in Hartford, Conn., at the Hartford Bridge. He was also a clerk in Loren Sexton's store in that city, in that of Timothy Pitkin in Ellington, Conn., and of his uncle, Chester Spencer, in Somersville. In 1828 he was a member of a military company in Hartford. In 1835, he, with his brother James and Chester Spencer, formed a partnership under the name of "Spencer and Chaffees," conducting a general store for the sale of dry goods, groceries, etc., and owning and operating a grist and saw mill, all being in Somersville (formerly called Billing's Mills). They also built there on the Scantic River a factory for the manufacture of satinets, woolen and cotton goods. This building was completed in 1837, and in that year a stock company, known as the "Somersville Company," and capitalized at $30,000, was formed to carry on the business. At one time Mr. Chaffee sold in Vermont palm-leaf bonnets made in Somers Street by Jonathan and Ebenezer Clark. About 1840 he went to Pennsylvania where for three years he travelled with a wagon, successfully selling dry goods and notions. At the end of this time he went to Huron County, O., with his wife, to visit her parents. He took with him a number of palm-leaf bonnets, which he sold, buying with the proceeds goose feathers. Upon his return east he sold these at a profit sufficient to defray all the expenses of the trip. About 1843 he became a wholesale jobber of dry goods and notions in Philadelphia, the firm, Chaffees, Stout and Company, being located on Market Street. A stroke of paralysis in 1870 caused his retirement from business activities. Soon after this he went for treatment to a sanitarium in Bay City, Mich., accompanied by his wife. Later he returned to Somersville and lived on the old Chaffee homestead until his death. His widow thereafter made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Mary E. (Chaffee) Mixter, in Philadelphia and with her son, William H. Chaffee, in New York City, at which latter place she died. The following obituary of her was published September 6, 1894:

"The body of Mrs. Belinda (Reed), widow of William Chaffee, was brought from the residence of her son, William H. Chaffee, New York, to Somersville, where funeral services and interment took place on Sunday afternoon. She united with the Broad-st. Baptist church in Philadelphia June 14, 1857, in which church she bore an active part for many years. During the war of the rebellion she interested herself (often times to the sacrifice of many pleasures) in the soldiers' hospital of Philadelphia. It was no uncommon sight to find sitting at her noon-day table from five to six convalescent union soldiers, to whom a generous invitation had been given to partake of a home-made meal, of which some had been so long deprived. So much did these brave men appreciate her kind acts that upon their return home many sent pictures of themselves and families, together with letters of gratitude, the correspondence being continued for a long time afterwards by their wives and children. It is not necessary to add that these tokens of loyal friendship were greatly cherished. Mrs. Chaffee no doubt inherited to some extent the love of country and patriotism so prominent in her character from her grandfather, Samuel Reed, a Revolutionary soldier of Tolland, and for whom she always bore a tender affection. From her father, Alexander Reed, heredity showed itself in that quick perception so noticeable in both. Her mother, Abigail (Daniels) Reed, filled with a soul of love and sacrifice, imparted much of the same to her daughter. Her husband, William Chaffee, was born upon Armory Hill, in Springfield, Mass., Oct. 2d, 1809, and removed when a boy with his father, Elam, to what is now known as Somersville, Conn., where he became acquainted with and married the deceased. They removed to Philadelphia about 1842."

"Mrs. Harriet Sophia Chaffee, widow of James Chaffee, and daughter of Alpheus Billings, Esq., in the evening of life, was called to her eternal abiding place. She died at the home of her youngest son, Prof. A. B. Chaffee, Franklin, Indiana, in the seventy-sixth year of her age. In the full fruition of a well spent life she has gone to her reward. With pleasant earthly surroundings, still she longed for the far more pleasant heavenly associations. Her life has been one of usefulness. In the home circle the hallowed influence of a christian wife and mother was always felt. As an active member of the church she was a power for good. For many years a teacher in the Sunday school in the various places of her residence—Philadelphia, Saratoga Springs and elsewhere—she, by her thorough knowledge of the scripture, pointed those under her charge unerringly to the road which leadeth heavenward. With a pure, childlike faith she read God's holy word and upon it were based all her hopes of immortality. When called, as she had often been, to pass through deep waters of affliction, she rested upon her Saviour who would not leave or forsake her. She realized that underneath were the everlasting arms to sustain and comfort. Her sorrows were always sanctified to a higher spiritual advancement. Her God, while He was a God of justice, was a God of love and compassion, and she rejoiced in the redemptive power of a Saviour which made it possible for her to attain a blissful future. She had been for years a careful and prayerful student of the inspired word, and her faith was not founded upon a superficial knowledge of its teachings. She needed no writer of fiction to formulate a system of theology for her adoption, offering in place of 'thus saith the Lord' some delightful pabulum of the word shorn of its force and power and tendered as a palliative for a condemning conscience. She realized that for humanity in its sins heroic measures were a necessity or else a Saviour to suffer and die would not have been provided. She would often exclaim, 'Alas! that there should be even one for whom He had died in vain.' She was ever ready to give a reason, an intelligent, Bible-founded reason for her faith. She reared a high standard of life for her sons, three in number. How near they have approximated the line so marked for them must be for other lips to tell and other pens to write. Suffice it to say that the memory of that sainted mother is precious, and her children rise up and call her blessed. On Friday, 22d ult., after a brief religious service, the lifeless form was borne by her sons and a nephew to her last resting place by the side of her husband, who had gone home nearly a decade before. She was a native of Somers, Conn., and now lies buried there.

"Cindonia King, widow of the late Spencer Chaffee, of Somers, Conn., died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clayton Grant, of Wapping, Friday morning, Jan. 18, 1907, aged 86.

"Such is the formal statement of the outgoing of a single life. We commonly call it the end. But if we take the larger and happier view of life, believing its vicissitudes merely incidental to the development of the divine in us, then certainly the going of those we call 'full of years' is really a springing into new life,—a glad valedictory.

"Say not good-night, but in some brighter clime, bid me good-morning."

"Cindonia King, the eleventh of the twelve children of Micah King and Ruth Spencer, was born in Longmeadow, Mass., July 2nd, 1820. She was married to Spencer Chaffee, Aug. 1st, 1844. They made their home in Somers, Conn., where Mr. Chaffee conducted a farm. Later he was engaged, with his brother, in selling goods by team through the Southern states. He was a man of more than usual ability, a fine type of the men who, a half century ago, gave New England its reputation for ability and integrity in the business world. He was, however, early a victim of consumption and died at 41 years of age, just as the material fruits of his labors seemed about to be realized, leaving the young wife with one little girl to face life's battle alone.

"Mrs. Chaffee spent a year or two in Springfield, then returned to Somers and upon the marriage of her daughter, Harriet Eliza, to Clayton Grant, of South Windsor, went to live with them. She has been, for many years, a member of the Congregational church at Somers. Her last illness was only a fading away of the physical. The end came in perfect peace. Her life was and her death is, a benediction.

"Mrs. Cindonia Chaffee, one of Wapping's oldest and most highly respected residents, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clayton Grant, Friday. The deceased was 86 years old, and had lived in this town many years. She was born in Somers in 1820 and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. King. She was the last of a family of twelve. When a young woman she was married to Spencer Chaffee. Mr. Chaffee died several years ago. Mrs. Chaffee leaves one child, Mrs. Hattie Grant, of this place and one grandchild, Mrs. Gertrude P. Boynton of Manchester. Mrs. Chaffee was well known and was affectionately called 'Grandma Chaffee' by all who knew her. Funeral was held Sunday at 1:30 at the home of the daughter of the deceased in Wapping. The services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Hurlbut. Burial was in Somers on Monday. The pall bearers were Chester Grant, Clayton Grant, Henry Grant and Frank Grant."

"He was attacked on the Wednesday preceding his death by a stomach trouble which his advanced age rendered him unable to throw off. Up to his last illness, Mr. Clark had followed the course of his business closely, and even after he turned seventy seemed to lose little or none of his extraordinary skill of eye and hand or patience.

"Alvan Clark was born on a farm at Ashfield, Mass. He received an ordinary education, but at an early age showed a great taste for drawing and engraving. He removed to Lowell in 1826 and obtained a situation as a calico engraver in a mill. Nine years afterward he became a portrait painter, and settled in Boston. About 1843 his son Alvan G. Clark became interested in the study of optics, and the father also began to study mechanics and astronomy. They experimented together a good deal and finally succeeded in making a reflecting telescope. Mr. Clark and his son spent nearly ten years in the study of optics and the art of telescope making, and in the making of small optical instruments, before their claims in this general department of astronomical science were recognized. The Rev. W. R. Dawes, of England, celebrated for his measurement of double stars, hearing that Mr. Clark was constructing instruments of superior purity and power ordered a glass for his own use, which was duly sent him in the fall of 1853. This was the starting point in Mr. Clark's career as a maker of telescopes, for the performance of this glass so greatly excited the admiration of English astronomers, that Mr. Clark found himself suddenly famous and rapidly received orders for telescopes both at home and from abroad. Through his efforts he has given to the world the largest and most powerful astronomical instruments ever made, the results being the discovery of celestial bodies heretofore unknown. From New York to St. Petersburg, and in every civilized country of the world, the name of Alvan Clark is a familiar one among scientists.

"The famous instrument in the Washington Observatory was made by him and required four years of labor. That presented to the Washington and Lee College, of Virginia, by Mr. McCormick of Chicago, costing $40,000, came also from the careful hands of Clark & Sons. The great telescope in California bequeathed by Mr. Lick, was made in the workshop of the Clarks, and also the famous telescope made a few years ago for the Pulkowa Observatory in Russia. He is also the inventor of a double eye-piece, an ingenious and valuable method of measuring small celestial arcs.

"On the night of January 31, 1862, he and his son, Alvan G., while making some observations with a newly finished telescope, discovered the companion of Sirius, for which the French Academy of Sciences bestowed on him the Lalande Medal." [New York Tribune.]

"Mr. Alvan Clark's personal qualities so strongly influenced his achievements that they form an interesting subject of study. Most remarkable was his aversion to advertising himself or his telescopes in any way whatever. He never sought an order. He could never be induced to place specimens of his handiwork on exhibition; even the Centennial at Philadelphia had nothing to show from his hands. Astronomers the world over applied in vain for a price-list of the productions of Alvan Clark & Sons. The firm would not print anything of the kind. Nowhere was anything arranged for display. Visitors to his workshop, whatever their rank, position or objects, were received with the same unstudied courtesy, and found everybody, from the head of the firm down, in his working garb. No pretensions to a secret art were ever made. When, in travelling abroad, members of the firm found their foreign colleagues afraid to show how they worked, the only impression conveyed was that human nature had its weaknesses. Never before was an art or manufacture built up on so admirable a moral basis." [New York Nation.]

Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Enfield, Conn., October 13, 1846, and married in St. Peter, Minn., July 20, 1867, Doctor Henry W. Stauffer of Mankato, Minn., born near Wooster, Wayne County, O., November 6, 1842, died in Santa Barbara, Cal., January 9, 1894. He had a dark complexion, dark brown eyes, and was five feet, five and one-half inches in height. He joined the Presbyterian Church, of which his wife is also a member, at the age of twenty-four, and sung in the choir. At the outbreak of the Civil War, although only fourteen years of age, and at boarding school, he enlisted in the Union army in a company composed of his school fellows, and commanded by one of his professors, but on learning of his enlistment his parents had his name stricken from the roll, to his great disappointment. The following year a married brother enlisted, and in response to the combined entreaties of his wife and younger brother, the latter was allowed to go in the elder's place. He was enrolled as Sergeant in Company H, 120th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, August 19, 1862, in East Union, O., and was mustered in for three years, October 14, 1862, in Mansfield, O. He fought in the Red River Campaign and was taken prisoner on Red River. He was confined in Camp Ford, Texas, for thirteen months; six months of this time he and his fellow prisoners were without any kind of shelter from sun or storm, but finally they were allowed to go from the stockade and bring in logs, from which they constructed little huts. A stream of good water flowed through the stockade, thus making the situation a little less unbearable than it would otherwise have been. Many died, but Doctor Stauffer came through the long, weary trial, and was discharged at the close of the war, in the spring of 1865. He went to Fairbault, Minn., in 1867, to practice dentistry, and there met, in musical circles, Harriet C. Chaffee. They lived in Mankato until the winter of 1880-81, when they moved to California, locating in Santa Barbara, where Doctor Stauffer died of Bright's disease. He was warm-hearted, had a genial disposition, and had hosts of friends in all classes of society.

Harriet Cornelia Chaffee moved from Enfield to Red Wing, Minn., when she was ten years old, and soon after the death of her father. In speaking of the trip she says:

"When my mother with her three younger children moved from Connecticut to Minnesota, we went from La Crosse, Wis., to Red Wing, Minn., by the steamer 'City Belle.' Our new home was near the river, and we used to watch to see that boat once more, but we never saw it. Later we learned that the Government was using it as a transport; still later, I found that the 'City Belle' was sunk at Red River, from which my husband, with many others, had to swim to rebel shores."

Mrs. Stauffer lives with her daughter in Los Angeles, Cal.

Y., where they lived with Joseph Manning Chaphe, until Caroline (Childs) Chaphe remarried.

Children:

5533 i Irving Joseph<sup>o</sup> Chaphe, born near Morrisville in July, 1853; died in Golden, Colo., December 19, 1879; went with his parents to Missouri in 1856, later returning to live with his grandfather Chaphe; on his mother's second marriage he made his home with her, afterwards living with his aunt, Mrs. Short; here he went to school for two years, being fond of reading and study and being said by his teacher to have had "the greatest mind and keenest ideas" of any scholar she had ever taught; at the age of fourteen his stepfather forced him to return home, where he lead an unhappy life, working hard, and receiving little reward; he left home and went out into the world to make his way, becoming a coal miner in Illinois at the age of nineteen; here he stayed for two years, then became a laborer in Missouri for a like period, in May, 1876, going to Denver, Colo., and in the following month to Georgetown, Colo., where in partnership with another man, he staked a claim and drove a tunnel four feet by six and eighty feet in length; not finding paying ore, the claim was abandoned and Mr. Chaphe mined for others; later he returned as far as Golden, where he died of pneumonia: a local paper said of him: "He was a well known and highly respected miner, who had resided here for sometime, making friends of all with whom he became acquainted. In the death of Mr. Chaphe we suffer the loss of one of our best citizens."

5534 ii Ellen Caroline Chaphe, born in Eaton; died in De Ruyter, N. Y., in April, 1855.

Mr. Chaphe's recollections of a long life are best told in his own words:

"I was born on a hill in a large red farm house surrounded with shade and fruit trees, where the sun shone brighter and the birds sang sweeter than in any other place. My mother had a mild nature—I never saw her angry. She was kind-hearted, assisting those less fortunate, never wishing others to know of it. She was sick with consumption for two years, patient, resigned, never complaining, and died when I was ten years old. She was of Holland descent; her parents were burnt out in New Jersey during the Revolutionary War. I remember hearing them tell of seeing their furniture broken up and used as fuel for cooking the British officers' food.

"I was a weak child, could not stand alone until many months older than other children, was slow of speech, could not talk plain and did not attend school until seven years of age. I was considered dull, was fat and when I attempted to run would fall. I seldom took an active part in the sports and plays of other boys. At about the age of fifteen I grew tall and slim. Although brought up on a farm I was not a farmer, my father and older brothers doing the farm work while I worked in the house. I attended district school and did housework until I was fifteen, then went to school and did farm work until I was eighteen. The two following winters I attended school at Morrisville with my younger brother Henry. I inherited a taste for reading, a weakness for poetry, but no knowledge of music.

A. J. Chapke

I was thankful I came on earth after Shakespeare and Byron. At the age of eighteen I went into a machine shop and served a hard apprenticeship. During this time I read and studied mechanical works, but had little time or attention for amusements. I did stable work, cleaned castings, cut screws by hand, etc., with no chance to learn or practice good machinist's work. Finally in 1855 I went away among strangers,—a tramp. I begged for employment before it was obtained, and when secured, exerted myself to the utmost. One day's wages did not pay for two days' board. I never had to ask for employment or influence after that. My first work was for C. S. Hall, in Rochester, N. Y., building rollers for gold foil instead of 'gold beating.' Later I did heavy mill work to connect the water wheels of a flouring mill with a steam engine; before this work was quite completed I was chosen by Messrs. Green and Hunter, who had arrived from Hartford, Conn., to assist them in erecting a 24x60 inch upright condensing engine (the first in Rochester) to be used during low water of the Genessee river, in the 'Model Mills' owned by Joseph Hall, father of C. S. Hall. My relations with Green and Hunter were pleasant, my services satisfactory, and when the engine was completed and running, I did the firing for it. The following summer, 1856, I was assistant to the engineer, J. S. Hunter, and generally had charge at night. The friendships formed at this time have continued for fifty years. When not required on the engine, Hunter and I worked in the machine shop of Joseph Hall. This year I joined the Rochester Light Guards, D. M. Dewey, Commander. In the summer of 1857, Messrs. Thompson, Hart and others arrived from Hartford to erect a 42x90 inch beam engine for S. P. Ely's flouring mill, near Hall's, and during the autumn I had charge of running this engine, the largest built by Woodruff & Beach at that time. During the following winter I visited relatives in Central New York and later New York City and Philadelphia. In the spring of 1858 I began work for Woodruff & Beach of Hartford, Conn. Here I learned my trade. I was given a good chance in the shop, which I improved by learning much and taking a great interest in my work; for five months I lost no time, improving every moment. I did much work on the pumping engine and also on a 14 inch W. & B. built for the Fair of the American Institute, working on it many nights, without charge for time. This engine was well built and highly finished; it was burnt during the Fair in the fire of the Crystal Palace, New York City, October 5th, 1858. I assisted in the erection of the pumping engine at Cypress Hills, L. I., during the winter of 1858-59, a hard winter's work, performed with credit, and followed by a voluntary raise of wages on returning to the shop. In 1859 Woodruff & Beach built the engines for the sloop of war Mohican; I worked on them in the shop and in the summer was sent to the Kittery (Portsmouth) Navy Yard to assist in placing them in the vessel, being given important work which I executed satisfactorily. I visited Portsmouth and the surrounding country. I went on the Mohican on her trial trip, arriving in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, after being eleven days at sea. The vessel sailed to join the African Squadron, January 19th, 1860, and I returned to Hartford, having been on the Mohican five months. In the spring of 1860 I had charge of building and erecting an engine in Brooklyn, N. Y., and on returning to Hartford began housekeeping, having purchased a house and fruit garden. That summer I did much important work for my employers. I had charge of building an 18 inch engine and erecting it in a factory in Providence, R. I. On my return to Hartford in the fall a son was born. The winter of 1860-61 I helped to erect the second pumping engine at Cypress Hills, Brooklyn, doing other large and important work. In the spring of 1862 I had charge of erecting a new set of pumps and making important improvements in the plant at Prospect Park, Brooklyn Water Works. When completed the engine was run on a trial for five days and nights without a stop, obtaining the highest 'duty' ever made by a Woodruff & Beach pumping engine. My next work was building two nine inch portable segmental engines, the invention of that genius of the steam engine, William Wright; when they were completed and tested Mr. Wright pronounced them perfect, the only one of all his inventions that proved so on the first trial. In the autumn of 1862 I built a nine inch segmental stationary engine for shop use, doing the work nearly alone. I nearly loved the little machine. It ran several years requiring no repairs. That year I did some of the best work on the Kearsarge engines. Following this I had charge of erecting a pair of twenty-two inch engines for the factory in Hartford of Colt's Revolving Fire Arms. They drove the entire factory, one of the largest works of the country. In the summer of 1863 I was given the charge of building of a pair of segmental engines for the gun boat Pequoit. In the autumn I put the engines in the boat at the Charlestown Navy Yard, Boston. I received many compliments from the officers and men in the Navy Yard for my manner of handling the work, and the rapidity with which the engines were put together, though my force of men was small. By earnest appeals from Messrs. Lane and Hart, I was prevailed upon to remove to the Brooklyn Water Works, as first assistant engineer, running the pumping engines. My employers sought to have me remain with them but personal friendship prevailed; I left the shop after five and a half years of hard work and varied experience. A few months after I entered the shop the foreman remarked that 'Chaphe is the only man who ever came and gained a leading position without backing; he came here a stranger and to-day there is not a man in the shop that Mr. Woodruff (president of the company) has more confidence in than Chaphe.' I was chosen by Mr. Wright, superintendent of the works, to build his inventions, having the ability to make the first without a model. Years later, a mechanic from a distant city, through acquaintance and friendship for me, called on Mr. Wright at Newburg, N. Y., and was told by him that 'of all the boys who grew up under me, Chaphe was the only one who remembered me after getting out in the world,' to which the visitor replied 'Never heathen worshipped his idol more than Chaphe did Wright.' I was always loyal to Woodruff & Beach and ever exerted myself in their interest, being trusted by them in important affairs where honesty and mechanical knowledge were required. I required of myself and others good work in and out of the shop, and realized the importance of satisfying customers. I began working for the City of Brooklyn, November 1st, 1863, and continued until March 1st, 1870. Life seemed very quiet compared with my previous experiences. In my new work I was not idle but it was monotonous compared with the old. I read and studied, reviewing the mechanical studies of former years and going deeper into them. I industriously cultivated a fruit and vegetable garden at my home in East New York [part of Brooklyn] a mile from the Ridgewood Engine House, Brooklyn Water Works. Then at the earnest solicitation of my friend T. J. Whitman, brother of Walt Whitman, I accepted the arduous duty of taking charge of the erection of four large pumping engines built by the Knap Fort Pitt Foundry Co., Pittsburg, Pa., for the new Water Works, St. Louis, Mo. I began this work March 1st, 1870, calling at Pittsburg to look the shop over, then proceeding to St. Louis. I found the situation very unfavorable, no buildings, a lack of proper tools for doing the work, the engines and pump not built in a steam engine shop, and last but not least an entire lack of help used to that class of work. A less energetic man would have been discouraged, but I only realized that here I must have even more than my old energy and will power and I nerved myself to the task. I worked, worked hard, mentally and physically. A year of great care and labor passed, the work of three men done by one. March 2nd, 1871, the following telegram was sent from St. Louis to J. M. Knap in Pittsburg by J. G. Knap:

" 'Steam was let into No. 1 H. S. this morn 10.30 for the first time. At 4.30 she was pumping with full load like clock work, making 10 revolutions. Always bet on Chaphe when you wish to win. All four engines are now running. What day can I set for the opening?'

"In April, 1871, the engines being finished we began to supply the city with settled water, a welcomed change from the former mud from the Mississippi River. I was appointed Chief Mechanical Engineer of the St. Louis Water Works, J. F. Steele being my 1st assistant. I continued in charge of the Water Works for sixteen years, until May 31st, 1887, when I voluntarily resigned; my mechanical work was finished and I had been steadily employed for thirty-two years, virtually having had but four situations in that time. On the occasion of my resignation the Water Commissioner sent a communication to the Mayor concluding as follows:

" 'As regards the value to the City of the services of Mr. Chaphe in the position

I am yours truly,
W. A. Chapin

of Chief Mechanical Engineer of the pumping department, I desire to put myself on record as stating in the most unqualified terms that his 16 years administration of the pumping department has been thoroughly honest, that he possesses exceptional skill as a mechanic and as an engineer, and that the success of the works up to the present time is largely due to his energy and ability.

[Signed]

"THOS. J. WHITMAN.

" 'Water Commissioner.'

"I had been associated with Mr. Whitman for nearly thirty years and we were closer than brothers. During several years of my active mechanical life I was a member of the Engineers' Club of St. Louis and also of the American Society of Civil Engineers. I became interested in this genealogy in 1883, and have maintained an interest in it since, laboring and writing much, that the family history might be more complete. I attended the Chicago World's Fair in 1893, and took a great interest in the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in 1904, being in attendance thirty days. In September and October, 1905, I went six thousand miles by rail to Yellowstone Park, Spokane, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, where I visited the Exposition, thence by steamer to San Francisco, returning by way of Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver. I especially enjoyed Southern California and took many notes. I am extremely interested in the Panama Canal and have been furnished from Washington with many reports and maps relating to it. Were I a younger man, I should probably see it."

William H. Chaffee has a florid complexion, blue gray eyes, dark hair now slightly tinged with gray, weighs 190 pounds, and is five feet, four inches in height. He is exceedingly methodical and systematic in his work, and is of a jovial disposition. He received an academic education in the Hopewell (Pa.) Classical and Mercantile School in 1855 and 1856, the following year removing with the principal, James T. Doran, to Chestnut Level (Pa.) Academy and with him in 1858 to Pleasant Grove (Pa.) Academy. In 1860 he attended the Race Street Quaker School, Philadelphia, the Principal of which was A. B. Ivins. In 1861 he attended the Milton (Pa.) Academy, graduating from the academic course in June, 1862. In 1863 and 1864 he travelled through southern Pennsylvania with a horse and wagon, selling hosiery, notions and small wares to the country stores. In the fall of the latter year he entered into partnership with his cousin, Theodore S. Chaffee (5379), the firm selling hosiery, gloves and fancy goods, and being located on Market Street, Philadelphia. In 1870 William H. Chaffee removed to New York City, where for three years he represented Philadelphia textile manufacturers, and sold their products. From 1873 to 1894 he was a salesman for Kibbe, Chaffee, Shreve & Company, of New York City, commission dealers in underwear and hosiery, the Chaffee member of the firm being Edward J. Chaffee (5378). In 1894 William H. Chaffee became one of the firm of Kibbe, Chaffee, Morehouse & Company, commission merchants in underwear and hosiery, in 1895, the firm being changed to Chaffee, Morehouse & Company, and January 1, 1907, to Chaffee, Morehouse & Carmichel, which still continues, in 1908 being located in Worth Street, New York City.

April 7, 1861, Mr. Chaffee was baptized in the Broad Street Baptist Church, Philadelphia, and November 24, 1879, was dismissed by letter from there to the Mt. Morris Baptist Church, New York City. December 3, 1895, he was elected a Trustee of this church, which position he held until November, 1903. His residence is in New York City.

Since 1883, Mr. Chaffee has been preparing this genealogy. He has spent a great amount of time, considerable money and has visited the state and town records throughout the United States, searching for information regarding the descendants of Thomas Chaffe. The many copies of original records contained in this volume attest his industry and thoroughness. The toil has been more than offset by the pleasure of the search, and he has given some of the best years of his life to this research.

The various printed question blanks sent out in 1883 and years following were the means of much interesting and valuable correspondence, which has been continued up to the present time.

The business house of Chaffee, Morehouse & Carmichel, located at 43-45 Worth Street, New York City, was nearly all destroyed by fire on the afternoon of February 4, 1908, the fire starting about quarter past four in the afternoon. A singular feature of the fire was that the original matter of the Chaffee lineages stored there, though in close proximity to the raging flames, were but slightly burned, and but little injured by water, to the great joy of the compiler. Even had this valuable matter been lost, the book could have been printed without the loss of a single item, as three copies of the completed manuscript were in the hands of the publishers.

The editor and his other co-workers think the family owe him a debt of gratitude for bringing to light the rare and interesting matter now presented. From various parts of England and Canada he has obtained abstract copies of early wills and family records. His great effort has been to make this a history that will be read with appreciation and interest by the descendants of Thomas Chaffe and all others who bear the surname.

Child:

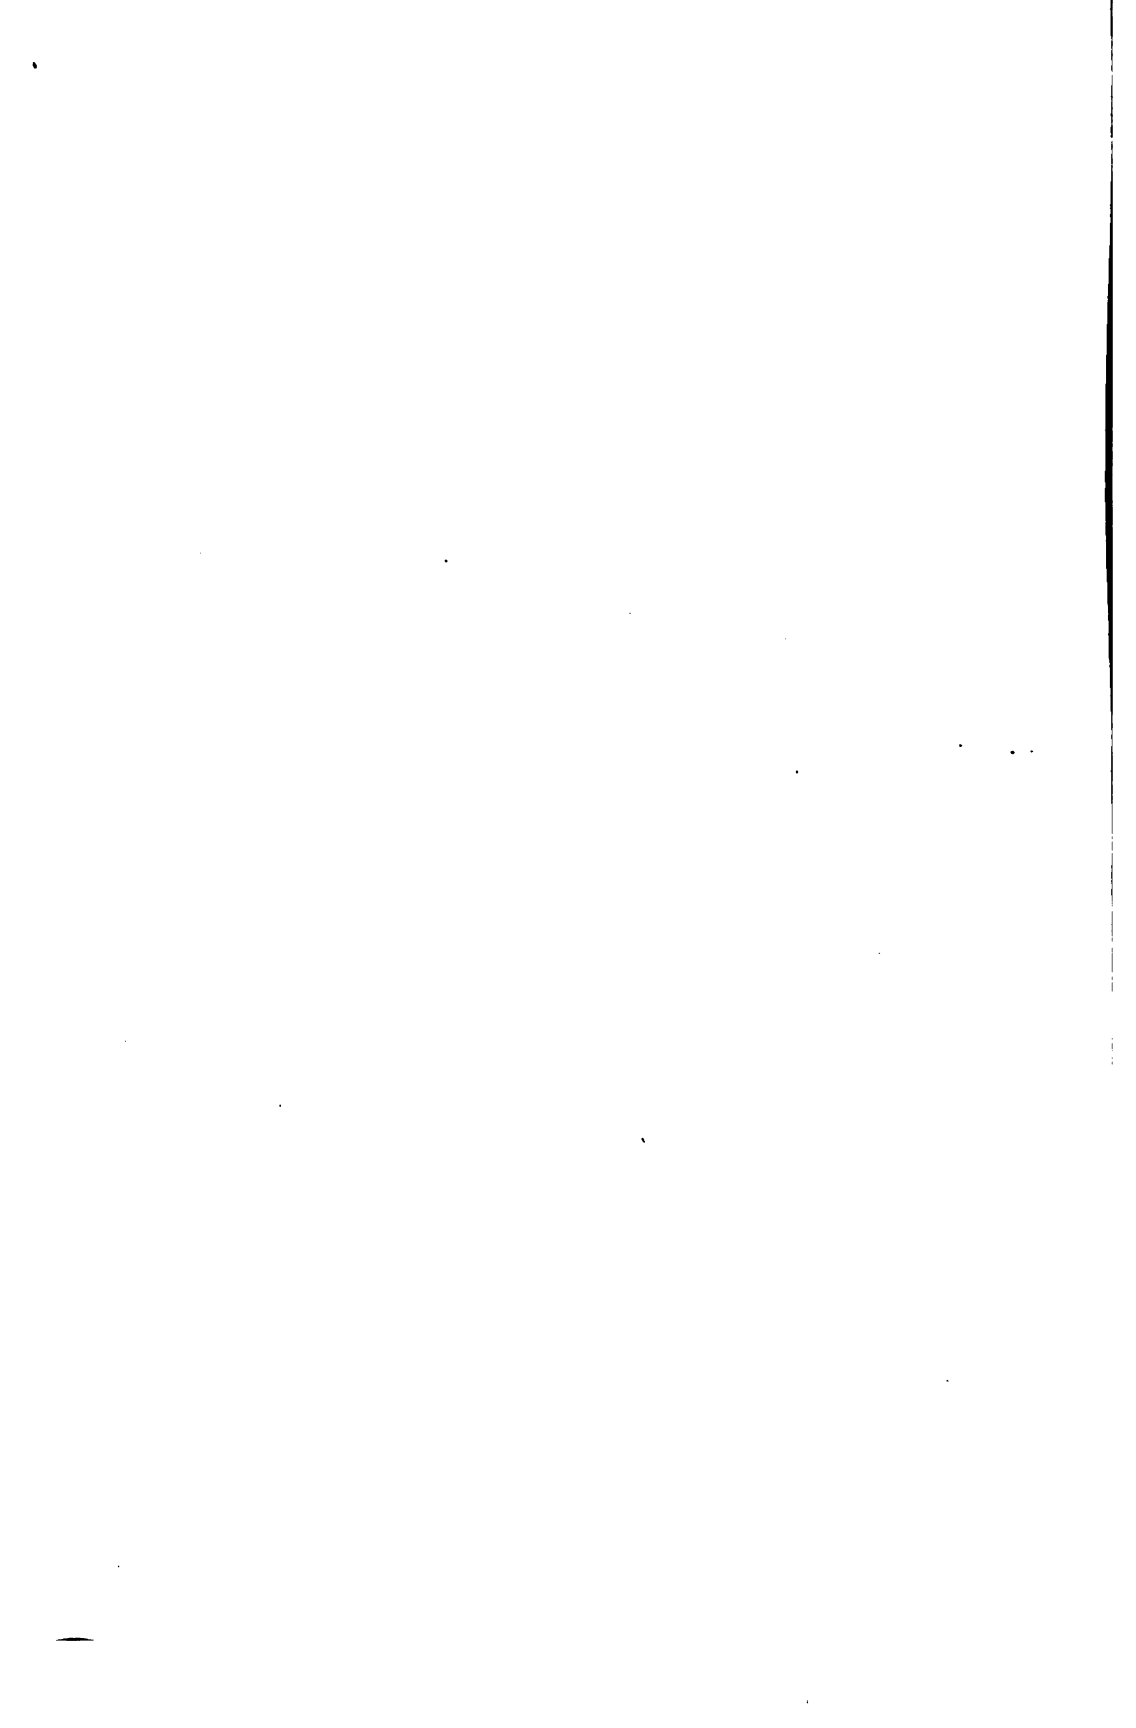

6101 i Bertha Eliza<sup>10</sup> Chaffee, born in New York City, November 12, 1875; died in Liberty, N. Y., January 30, 1904; she was baptized in the Mt. Morris Baptist Church, by Reverend William C. Bitting, January 30, 1887, and was an active and energetic worker in that church until her removal to Liberty in 1900; she was graduated from the New York City Public Schools with a high average; she was engaged to be married to Floyd Mayham Grant of New York City, formerly of Schoharie, N. Y.; he was graduated from Cornell University in 1895 as an electrical engineer, and later was employed by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, in New York City, being several times advanced; during this employment he was taken ill with consumption, and in 1898 died in Schoharie, where he was buried; in the late summer of 1900, Bertha E. Chaffee, too, fell ill of lung trouble, and September 11th of that year entered the Loomis Sanitarium, Liberty, for treatment; the trouble soon developed into consumption; in 1903 her parents made their home there, and there, in 1904, she passed away; she was a bright and active girl, jovial and loving in disposition, visiting and bringing cheer to the homes of many, thereby leaving in sweet remembrance a life that was dear to all who knew her; a memorial window has been placed to her memory in the Baptist Church in Liberty, of which she was a member at the time of her death; she was buried in the Chaffee family lot in Somers, Conn.

"Fourteen years ago there came to our village from New York a young girl who soon won her way into many hearts. Year after year Bertha Chaffee returned to be greeted by an ever increasing number of friends. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Chaffee were also greatly appreciated here. No one marvelled to see young Floyd Mayham Grant attracted by the sweet stranger. It seemed so natural that these two rare spirits should joy in each other's presence that when it became known the two were affianced envy and jealousy slunk away and smiles and blessings followed the youthful pair. Six years ago just when life's cup seemed brimming full of gladness and promise, young Grant suddenly passed into immortality. Bertha Chaffee bowed in submission to God's decree, but the body, weaker than the spirit, began to droop. Father and mother love clasped arms about their only child, and held Death at bay till January 30, 1904, when at Liberty, N. Y., Bertha Chaffee died. Mrs. John B. Grant attended the last sad rites at Liberty. "Bertha Eliza Chaffee, daughter of William H. and Eliza S. Chaffee, died at her home on Wedemeyer Terrace Saturday morning, aged 28 years. Bitting of New York, officiating, assisted by Rev. S. F. Frohock, pastor of the Baptist church. Remains interred in the Liberty cemetery and later will be removed to family plot at Somers, Conn." 5378 Edward James<sup>o</sup> Chaffee (James,<sup>8</sup> Elam,<sup>7</sup> Cyril,<sup>6</sup> Asa,<sup>5</sup> Joseph,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in Somersville, Somers Township, Conn., August 1, 1836, and married (1) there, March 28, 1860, Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Alexander King and Margaret (Snodgrass) Young of Philadelphia, where both were living at the time of their marriage. She died in New York City, April 20, 1886, and was buried in the Somers Cemetery. She was a member of the Plainfield (N. J.) Baptist Church and of the Mt. Morris Baptist Church, New York City. Mr. Chaffee married (2) in Schoharie, N. Y., July 25, 1888, Mrs. Mary Cynthia (Baker) Drake, daughter of Daniel and Hannah (Durand) Baker. She was born in Ransomville, N. Y.

Mr. Chaffee has a florid complexion, blue-gray eyes, is five feet, eight inches in height, and of a jovial disposition. He united with the Plainfield Baptist Church at the age of forty and later with the Mt. Morris Baptist Church, in both of which he has held the position of Trustee, and in the latter that of Treasurer also. For several years after his marriage he lived in Philadelphia, and then moved to New York City. About 1871 he moved to Plainfield, his business remaining in New York, which city he again made his residence in 1878, and up to the present time. There he has for many years been a prominent dry goods and commission merchant. He is interested in the study of his ancestral lines and is a member of the Empire State Society, Sons of the American Revolution, and of the New England Society.

"Edward J. Chaffee, of the dry goods commission firm of Kibbe, Chaffee & Company, was born in Somersville, Tolland County, Conn., in the year 1836, and at an early age removed with his parents to Philadelphia, in which city his father engaged for many years in the dry goods jobbing business. He graduated at a prominent mercantile and classical school, and as soon as he was prepared entered upon a mercantile career, in which he has continued actively to the present time.

"Early in the year 1864 Mr. Chaffee accepted a position as salesman in the well-known house of Billings, Roop & Company, Philadelphia and New York. He began in the Philadelphia house, but remained there only a few months, being transferred to the New York house. The firm of Billings, Roop & Company dissolved in January, 1865. The house of J. M. Billings & Company, of which Mr. Chaffee was the company, was established in New York, and that of Roop & Kibbe in Philadelphia. Succeeding J. M. Billings & Company came the firm of Billings, Chaffee & Company, and at the death of Mr. Billings the style of the firm was changed to Chaffee & Shreve. Subsequently, to enlarge the business, a connection was formed with Mr. H. R. Kibbe, who had been long and favorably known in this line, the style becoming Kibbe, Chaffee, Shreve & Company, New York, and Kibbe, Chaffee & Company, Philadelphia, which continued for over ten years. In January last the firm-name was again changed to Kibbe, Chaffee & Company.

"Mr. Chaffee is very popular with consignors and customers, and some valuable accounts have been with his house over a quarter of a century. This long and successful experience in the handling of knit goods causes his advice to be sought after by young manufacturers, who have found in him a good adviser and friend. American industries generally have found in him an able advocate of their interests, and both by voice and pen he has done much to sustain the cause of protection. Mr. Chaffee has been for some time a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Club and various organizations of a religious and social character. He has had many positions of trust, and is one of the executors and trustees of the large estate of his relative and late partner, Mr. Billings.

"Notwithstanding his business cares, Mr. Chaffee has always found time for literary pursuits. He possesses a large and well-selected library, the contents of which are not for ornament but for use. His reading has been unusually extensive, embracing all classes of literature. American artists also, among whom he numbers many as personal friends, have found in him a wise and liberal patron, and in his collection of paintings may be seen valuable examples of some of our most talented native artists. A carefully chosen lot of old Chinese porcelains of beautiful forms and color adorn the cabinets and shelves of his home, and some ancient classical objects give evidence again of his connoisseurship." "Mr. Chaffee is one of those useful 'all-around' men in denominational work who may always be relied upon to perform the service he may have in hand with business like promptness and accuracy, with skillful use of opportunity and material. As teacher and pastor he has been most successful. The church which he serves is doubtless the strongest, with possibly one exception, in Northern Indiana, and may well count itself rich in having such a pastor." She married in Brooklyn, N. Y., October 15, 1878, Frederick Deming Green of that place, where he was born July 3, 1850.

Mrs. Green was educated in the Hartford (Conn.) High School and later graduated from the Maplewood School of Music in East Haddam, Conn.

"After a residence of some years in Hackensack, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Green removed to Thompson, Conn., in 1885. In 1889 they united with the Congregational Church, bringing letters from the Dutch Reformed Church in Hackensack, which they both joined soon after their marriage. From the home, over which she presided with so much grace and efficiency Mrs. Green's death removes a beloved wife, a much needed mother, a model housekeeper, a gracious hostess, and a kind neighbor. The very house, which had been gradually transformed to express her ideas of convenience and comfort, is eloquent in its emptiness. A husband, daughter and nephew, regular members of this household, together with her mother, who spent much of her time here, and two brothers, will naturally feel most keenly this loss from their family circle. There are others, not all in the circle of kindred, to whom she had greatly endeared herself, by whom her death will be felt as an irreparable loss. The charm which fitted her to shine in wider circles, and gave such zest to her years of city life, was never lost. She owed even less to her brilliant repartee and nimble wit than to her ready sympathy and unerring tact. Appreciating the central place still held by the church in the thought and life of a typical New England community, Mrs. Green identified herself with the church more completely than at any earlier period of her life, and was an interested, active and efficient worker as long as strength permitted. She was to the last a constant attendant at all the Sabbath and mid-week meetings. Not least important were the services rendered her Sunday-school class of young ladies. These last years afforded opportunities for intellectual and spiritual growth which were seized with eagerness.

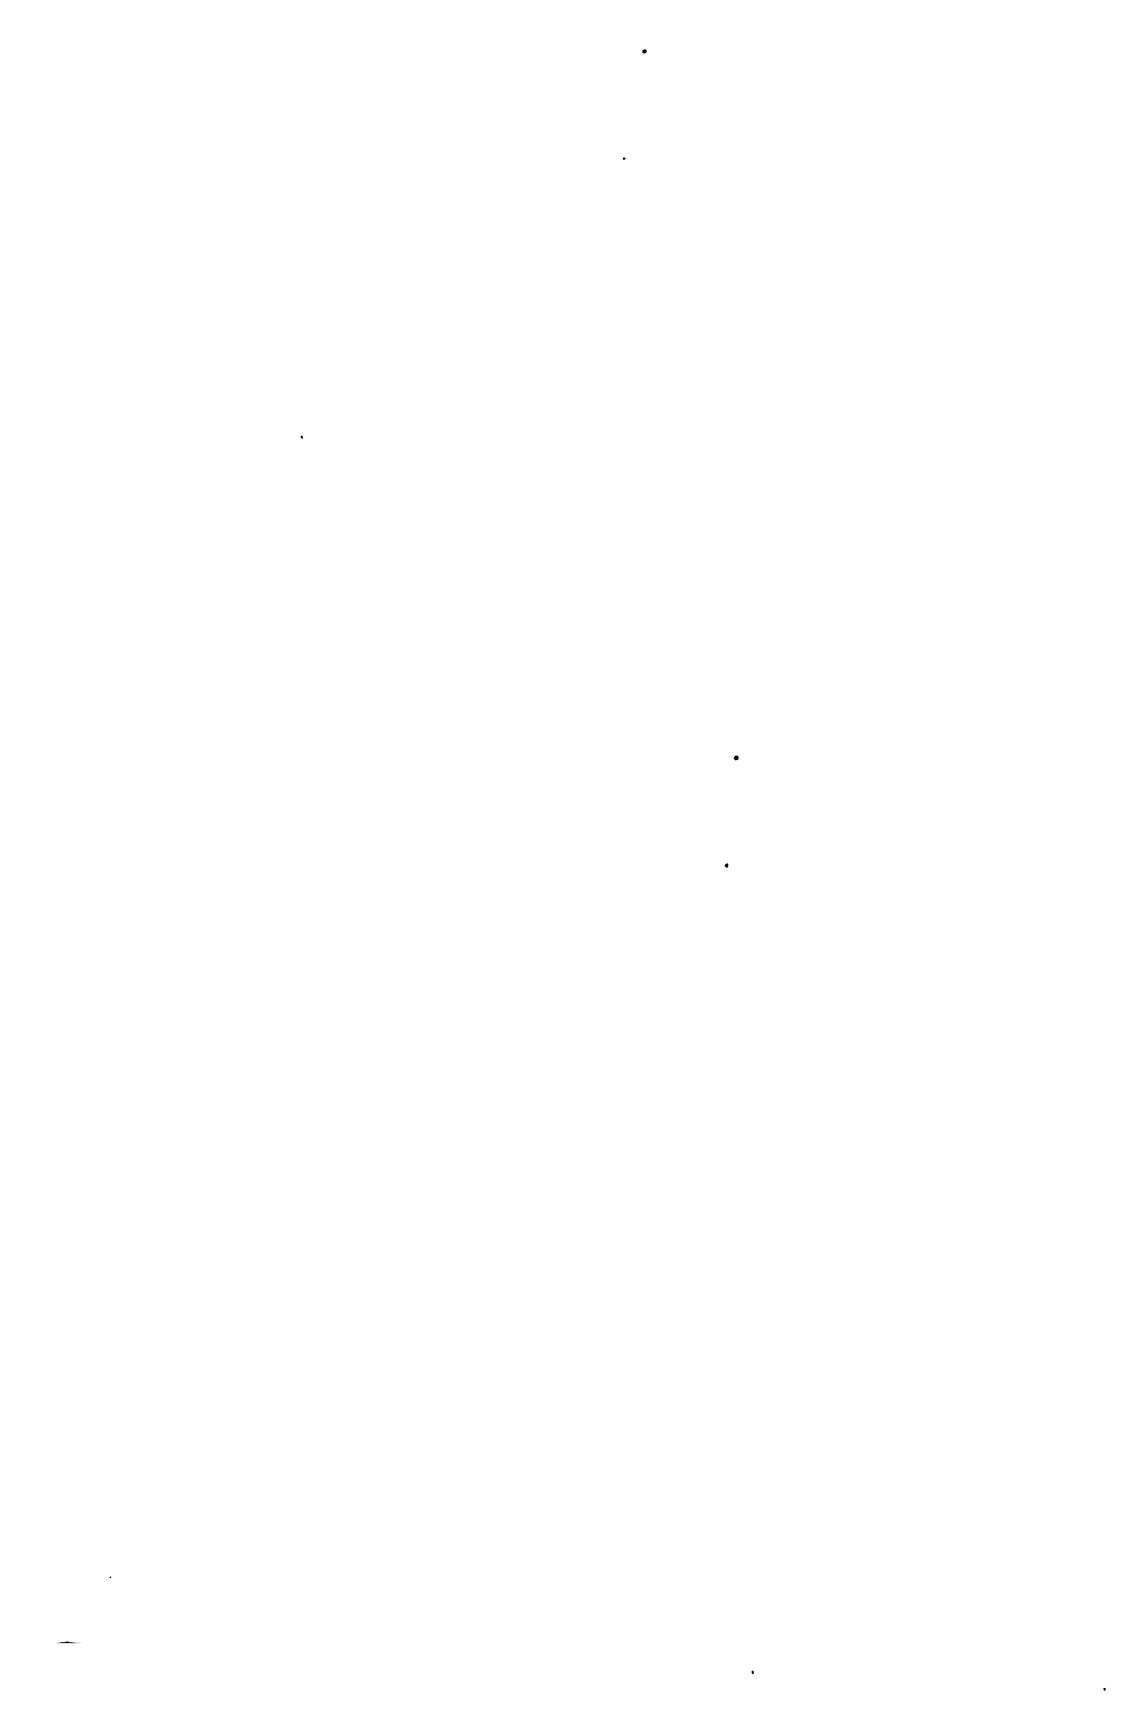

"Mrs. Green was a woman of unusual versatility and of great force of character. Her life had developed in unwonted measure resources that might otherwise have been latent." [Obituary notice.]

Mrs. Green's funeral was conducted at her home in Thompson on January 31, at two o'clock in the afternoon, by her pastor, Reverend G. H. Cummings, and her body was interred in the family lot in the West Thompson Cemetery.

In 1884 she was graduated from the High School there, reading one of the two class papers delivered at the graduating exercises. The following summer she visited Hartford, Conn., Philadelphia, Pa., New York City and other places, the trip being one of extreme interest to one accustomed to life in a western city. A desire to put into practice some original ideas concerning the art of teaching, caused her to take charge for a year of a country school in Bonhomme, Mo. Her school consisted of sixty scholars and was ten miles from the railroad; there being neither church nor Sunday school within miles of her, she obtained permission to conduct a Sunday school in the schoolhouse. This service became so popular that under the auspices of her successors it has continued up to the present time and bids fair to shortly develop into a church.

Mr. Chivvis was for eighteen years connected with a firm dealing in hardwood lumber, in the successive capacities of bookkeeper and secretary, and in 1901 established himself in business under the name of W. R. Chivvis Hardwood Lumber Company. #### THOMAS CHAFFE'S BIBLE

Thomas Chaffe mentions in his will under date of July 25, 1680 (which will is recorded at Plymouth, Mass.), the names of two children, Nathaniel and Joseph. Nathaniel is spoken of as the eldest son. Joseph was made the executor of his father's will, and on the 15th day of May, 1683, he settled his estate. In the inventory of the household things, a mention is made of a great Bible, and two other books, valued at 11s. 6d.

On the 22d day of September, 1694, Joseph Chaffe (the younger son of Thomas), in his will says, "I leave unto my son Joseph the Great Bible that was my father's."

This grandson Joseph married for his first wife, Abigail Hills. His second wife was Jemima Chadwick. He removed from Barrington, Mass., to Woodstock, Mass. (now Conn.), where he died in 1759.

Josiah Chaffee, the youngest son of Joseph and Jemima (Chadwick) Chaffe evidently came into possession of the Bible from his father, and from Peter Chaffee of Woodstock, one of the direct descendants of Josiah, this highly prized heirloom was received.

Upon one of the blank spaces is found written, "Thommas Chaffy his Booke 1649." Over the Christian name is written, "1664, July." To the writer the earlier date indicates when the Book was printed, the later date showing time of purchase or possession. A photograph of the entries in this Bible will be found on the opposite page.

The other family names with their various data have been found recorded upon the ancient books in the town clerk's offices at Swansea, Mass., Woodstock, Conn., and elsewhere, proving the inscriptions written in this Bible to be correct.

It was observed that the title pages of both The Old and New Testament were so badly worn, and in such a dilapidated condition, that it was impossible to decipher the date of publication, which date, however, was correctly proven by the successful search made at the Library of the American Bible Society in New York City, where a Bible of same edition, and in good state of preservation, was discovered. In March, 1886, there was forwarded as per purchase from a London book house, a Bible of like edition (but red lined). It was shipped on the Oregon, which steamer accidentally sank in New York Bay upon the day of its arrival.

The Book, badly water soaked, was recovered in July following, and the few loose sheets, including title pages, now fastened in the fore and after part of this Bible, were taken therefrom.

B

C

Humphrey Atherton, father of Watching Atherton, whose daughter Patience married David Chaffe (9), was one of the earliest and most prominent residents of Dorchester, Mass., and was an active persecutor of the Quakers. On the 16th of June, 1661, he attended a military parade on Boston Common. On his way home in the dusk his horse stumbled and fell, throwing him upon his head with such force that his brains were literally dashed out. The Quakers openly declared it to be the judgment of God for his persecution of their sect. He was buried in the old graveyard at the corner of Stoughton and Boston streets, Upham's Corner, Dorchester, Mass., where his gravestone bears the following quaint and curious inscription:

"Here lyes our captaine and major of Suffolk was withall,
A godly magistrate was he, and major generall,
Two troops of hors with him here came, such worth his love did crave,
Ten companyes of foot also mourning marcht to his grave.
Let all that read be sure to keep the faith as he hath done.
With Christ he lives—now crown'd, his name was Humphrey Atherton.
He dyed the 16 June, 1661."

His sword is also engraved upon the slab.

This remarkable genealogy covers a period of twelve hundred and four years, but it is easily carried back to the very dawn of civilization after the overthrow of the Ancient Roman Empire, and would give a clear genealogical record covering a period of more than thirteen hundred years.

OTHER CHAFFEES IN AMERICA

Matthew Chaffe, so far as the researches have disclosed, is the second person found upon record in America, bearing the surname of Chaffe, the first being Thomas Chaffe, the Emigrant.

Matthew Chaffe is first mentioned in the records of the First Church in Boston, as follows:

"Mathew Chaffe ship carpenter Admitted The 14th of ye 6th Moneth [August] 1636."

And five years later,

"Sarah Chafey wife of oe brother Mathew Chafey admitted The 14th Day of ye 1st Moneth [March] 1641."

Beyond this we know nothing of Mathew Chaffe's wife.

"Mathewe Chafe" was made a Freeman the "17th of the 3d mo [May] 1637."

Records of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay.]

There was

"Granted also to our brother Mathew Chafey a greatt Lott there at the Mount [Mount Wollaston] for four-heads [man, wife, and two servants] The 19th of 12th Moneth (called February) 1637." [Boston Town Records.]

In 1639 in Boston

"There was a good deal said about erecting a new Meeting-house. At length the Church chose a committee of five of their number and gave them power to fix upon a location as they saw fit. . . . While these gentlemen had the matter in charge, a paper was drawn up and signed by a considerable number of the influential inhabitants, strongly urging that the most preferable site for the new house was at the Green. This place is pretty clearly designated in this document, and it is very nearly that on a part of which the Old South Church now stands. Mathew Chaffe with twelve others, signed the petition to locate at the Green." [Drake's History of Boston.]

In 1642 "Mathew Chafey" was a member of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of Boston, says Whitman, the historian of that organization.

"This 27th of 1st mo., 1643. [March 27] . . . As also that there shall be a high way reserved through the milfeild, two rods in breadth from the west corner of Mathew Chafeth's garden, unto the little howse by the sayd swamps, and from thence to the windmill as directly as the land will beare." [Boston Town Records.]

Later in the same year:

"This 29th of 11th mo, 1643. . . . At a meeting this day. . . . There is liberty granted to Mathew Chafeth [and others] to make wharfes towards the sea before their proprieties in the Milne-feild." [Ibid.]

"Chaffie's lot extended back to what was the end of Hanover street in 1643, when it was ordered that the way be continued further, two rods broad, 'from the west corner of Mathew Chafeth's garden unto the little howse by the said swamp' which Christopher Stanley had just bought of the town, 'and from thence to the windmill as directly as the land will beare.'" [Boston Book of Possessions.]

"The possession of Matthew Chaffe within the limits of Boston.

"One house and lott bounded with John Gallop northeast: Sampson Shoare southwest: Thomas Mekins northwest: and the Cove southeast." [Ibid.]

The Salem, Mass., Court Records show that "Goodman Chaffy" made a deposition on "29th day 4th month 1641." He was also a witness "9th day 5th month 1644."

In 1645, a suit was brought by Captain Smith, a negro trader, against his first mate, Kaezar who, when his ship Rainbowe was in port at the Barbadoes, and the Captain absent, had set sail, and brought ship and cargo to Boston, on pretext that ship, cargo, and crew were in danger. In the course of the case, we find the following reference to Matthew Chaffe, his judgment as a ship carpenter being of value in the case:

"The shipp & pceed of ye cargo to be delivered as now shee is to Capt. Smyth, he paying such due charges as hath necessarily bene layd out about her since her coming hither, that shee is now ye better for, to be iudged [judged] by Goodman Chaffye & Goodm Garret, & that ye ship may be stayed till ye order is satisfied." [Records of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay.]

"This 19th of 8th mo., 1646. . . . A generall townes meeting warned from howse to howse. . . . It is ordered and agreed on that Bro. Tho. Marshall, bro. Chaffy, bro. Negoos, Wm. Francklin, lat Constables, are to be presented to the Generall Court for to answer the defect in not payinge that which is behind on the Garison's wages. . . . It is ordered that ther shal be a ratt of 60 l forth with made by the townesmen for the satisfienge of the Garison at the castle this year ensueing." [Boston Town Records.]

"This Indenture Wittnesseth that I mathew chafie of Boston Ship Carpenter doe for dew Consideration me moving therunto lett graunt bargaine & sell unto John Capen of Dorchester in New England a cerajne parcell of land Containjng twenty foote in breadth lying and Adjoyning unto the land of one Daniell Turrell on the South west side & my owne land on the north east side & the north west end abutting vpon my owne land—fower foote within the fence that now is there that is to say a litle below my well & the south east end of it to Runne downe to the sea as farr as other mens proprietjes doe. In wittnes whereof I the said Mathew Chafe doe sett my hand & seale the first day of the first month 1648.

[Suffolk County Deeds, Liber I, page 193.]

The Treasurer's Account Book of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay [now in the possession of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, Boston] shows that "Mathew Chaffe" gave toward the Narragansett Expedition £3, "1648. 7mo. 21st."

In 1649 he bought a farm which was mortgaged, as is seen by the following deed:

"Whereas John Clarke hath mortgaged his ferme in Newbury to John Ward vpon condition of paymt of xxxijli vis viij [£33 6s. 8d.] the 29 (7) 1650. & the like summe the 29 (7) 1651. & since hath sould the sd ferme to Matthew Chaffe: The sd John Clarke doth assigne unto matthew Chaffe his now dwelling house in Boston wth the ground thereto appertaineing vpon this condition that if the sd John Clark do make paymt of the afore said summes to John Ward according to Covenant, that then this Assignment shall be void, otherwise the sd Matthew to enter & possess the sd house & ground to him & his heires fore [ever] This was by a deed dated 1 (3) 1649. & acknowledged before mr Bellingham 27 (9) 1649.

"A meetinge this day Mathew Chaffey [with thirty-eight others] doth bind themselves and there successors to pay sixe pence an acre for their land at Long land by the yeare for ever: and that to be for the use of the scole, that so it maye be proprietye to them for ever, and they are to bringe in there pay to the townes treasurer the first of februarye for ever, or else there land is forfeit unto the townes disposinge." [Boston Town Records.]

"At a Generall Corte of Election at Boston, the 2d of the 3d mo, 1649. . . . Upon the petition of Charles Saundrs for some iudicious & able men to be appointed by this Corte to appraise the goods of the wreck, Mathewe Chafe & Arthr Gill, of Boston, are appointed that so a certificate may be made to give satisfaction to his owners, in England or elsewhere." [Records of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay.]

May 10th following his petition was granted as follows:

"In answer to the petition of Charles Saunders for men to be appointed to apprise the tacking and other goods in & belonging to his shipp, that was blowne vp, so a certificate may be made to give satisfaccon to his owners, in England or elsewhere, his request was graunted; and Mathew Chase [Mathew Chafe] & Arthur Gill are appointed for that service." [Ibid.]

"Matthew Chaffe doth graunt vnto Anthonie Stoddard all that his dwelling house together wth all his land Scituat in Boston, also all his fferme at Newb[u]ry with all the houses buildings fences timber trees woods &c: to haue & to hold to hi[m] & his heires & Assignes for ever, & this was by way of Mortgage, vpon condit[ion] that the sd Matthew paying one hundd & thirty pounds, to wit 30li [£30] in money merchantable corne bief or pork at prices current at or before the 24th novemb next ensuing, & 28li at or before the 24th Nov: 1651 in like pay, & 26li at or before the 24th of nov: 1652 in like pay, & 24li in like pay at or before the 24th nov. 1654. the sd grant to be void otherwise to remaine in force. dat 24th Nov. 1649. & acknowledged before mr Hibbins 26th [ ] 1649.

"MATTH CHAFFE & a seale."

[Suffolk County Deeds, Liber I, page 113.]

He also owned land in Hingham, Mass., but when is not known. The will of William Hersey of that town, dated March 9, 1657-58, gives to his son William "ye Lott I bought of Matthew Chafey at ye Cpts Tent" [now Hewitt's Cove].

The records of the First Church of Boston contain the last entry regarding Matthew and Sarah Chaffe, as they did the first:

"Oe Brother Mathew Chaffe upon his desire with his wife was dismissed ye 10th of 6 mo. 1655."

Whether Matthew and Sarah returned to England, or whether they settled in some other part of the country we do not know. We find no mention of any one else by the name of Chaffe in Boston at this early date, nor for twenty-five years after this last entry.

Whether or not Matthew and Thomas Chaffe, the Emigrant, were related we have no means of knowing. Both owned land in Hingham, but whether at the same time or not is unknown. The name Matthew does not appear in any of the earlier generations of Chaffe children, as would probably be the case were they related.

Thomas Chafey was born probably between 1756 and 1760, and died in Hornerstown, N. J., June 24 (20), 1828. He married there, the last of June, 1785, Sarah H., daughter of Joshua and Rachel Horner, her ancestors having founded Hornerstown. She was born April 7, 1766, and died April 26, 1842. Thomas Chafey enlisted in the Revolutionary army as a Private, from Monmouth County, N. He applied for a pension in 1818, being then, according to the record, about fifty-eight years old, and in 1820 about sixty-four. His widow applied for a pension in 1839. After the war he was a farmer in Hornerstown, where he died of dropsy. He is said to have been temperate and industrious. April 6, 1828, Fuller Horner was appointed administrator of his estate. ## THE NAME OF CHAFFEE IN ENGLAND

DERIVATION OF THE SURNAME

From the Etymological Dictionary of Family and Christian Names, by William Arthur, M. A., published New York, 1857. Chaffee (Fr.) Chafe, to heat, to grow warm or angry, (Fr.) Chauffer, to warm, to cannonade, attack briskly.

The following is given in a book called The Norman People, which was published by Henry S. King & Co., of London, England, in 1874:

From page 184, "Cafe, or Chaff, from chauve, bald (Lower). Henry, Nicholas, Robert, Ranulph le Chauve, or Calvus, 1180-95, in Normandy (Mag. Rot. Scac). These names frequently occur in England, 13th century and later."

Combe. O. Fr.—That unwatered portion of a valley which forms its continuation beyond and above the most elevated spring that issues into it.

A deep valley where the sides come together in a concave form.

History of Somerset, by Reverend John Collinson. Published in 1791 at Bath by R. Cruttwel, Vol. 3, page 115.

CHAFFCOMBE

This is a small parish, situated in a pleasant valley near the borders of Chard common. The lands being cold and wet, are unfavorable to agriculture. In a narrow sequestered lane leading from this place to the parish of Crocket-Malherbe, a botanist would find entertainment, there being a great variety of ferns,—aspleniums, and curious mosses. The purple digitalis flourishes here in high perfection. This parish contains about thirty houses, including a hamlet called Libnash, situated a mile southward from the church. The ancient name of this parish is Caffecome, which is compounded of the Saxon lay, sharp, and lomb, valley. In the Conqueror's time, it belonged to the Bishop of Coutances.

"The same Bishop holds Caffecome, and Ralph of him. Two thanes held it in the time of King Edward, and gelded for three hides and a half. The arable is three carucates. In demesne is one (carucate) and two villanes, and six cottagers, having one plough. There is a wood eight furlongs long, and as many broad. It is worth forty shillings."

"To this manor are added one hide, and three virgates of land. Two thanes held it in the time of King Edward for two manors. The arable is two carucates. These are held by three villanes. It is worth twenty shillings."

But in process of time this manor became a part of the honor of Gloucester, which extended itself throughout this county. Edward II, Hugh de Beauchamp, held one moiety, and Ralph de Stocklinch the other moiety of this village, each by the service of the third part of a knight's fee, of Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester. This Ralph de Stocklinch was seated at the neighbouring village of Stocklinch-Ottersey, which gave his family their name, and was held by them for many generations. In the account of that place in the first volume of this work, it was conjectured that it obtained its name from the family of Oterschawe, who were resident at a place now depopulated in the neighborhood of Isle-Abbots, in the adjacent hundred of Abdick. By other evidences it further appears that the said parish of Stocklinch was sometimes discriminated by the appellation of Stocklinch-Ostricer, and that the manor was held by the service of keeping an ostrum or hawk for the lord paramount thereof. 14 Ric. II. John Denbaud held at his death the manor of Stokelynych-Ostricer, with the advowson of the church, of the Earl of Huntington, as of his manor of Haselborough, by the service of keeping a hawk (ostrum) every year till it should be completely fit for service. And when the said hawk should be so fit, he was to convey it to his lord's manor-house, attended by his wife, together with three boys, three horses, and three greyhounds, and to stay there forty days at the lord's expense, and to have the lady's second best gown for his wife's work.

Villanes. The word villanes means common people.

THE SURNAME IN SCOTLAND, IRELAND, WALES AND FRANCE

The nearest approach to our surname in Scotland is that of Mac Haffie or Haffie. William Chaffy appears among the "49" officers in Ireland in 1649 in the time of Charles I.

Robert Chafe received a grant of land in Ireland in 1668, time of Charles II.

In 1836 the surname did not appear in any of the city directories of Ireland.

The surname has not been found at all in Wales.

The surname has not been found in the directories of the principal cities of France.

The surname of Chouffet, pronounced Shufá, occurs there.

COATS OF ARMS

The descendants of Thomas Chaffe of Hingham, Mass., find no coat of arms connected with his surname.

There are coats of arms of the surname used in England, but neither these nor the one used by Reverend W. K. W. Chafy have been proven to be connected in any way with the surname in the United States.

"NEXT OF KIN"

In the third edition of Chambers Index to Next of Kin, by Edward Preston, published in London, England, appears the name of Richard Trenchard Chaffey in the list of heirs-at-law for unclaimed money in England. The author, Edward Preston, writes that this name was omitted in the fourth edition as it had only a transitory value.

DEVONSHIRE WILLS

An interesting article by Reverend W. K. W. Chafy, D. D., of Rous Lench Court, Evesham, England, from Devonshire Wills, by Charles Worthy, Esq., published in London, 1896, by Bemrose & Sons, is, by the kind permission of the Publishers, presented to the readers of this genealogy, that they might get a clearer idea of the earlier surname as found in England.

THE CHAFYS OF EXETER, CHAFECOMBE, AND ST. GILES IN THE HEATH

The Chafys derive their name from their ancient heritage, "Chafecombe," now Chaffcombe, near Chard, which is the "ceaf cumbe" (in English, the light or breezy valley) of the Saxon period, and which was held by their ancestor, Hugo the Thegn, or Thane, in the days of Ethelred "the Unready," and by his son, Raynald Fitz-Hugh, in those of Edward "the Confessor."

But although the Chafys can thus trace back with unerring certainty to a period long anterior to the Conquest, and so justify the assertion inscribed on the ancient tomb of one of them in Devonshire, as to his own identity with the "perantiqua" race of the Chafes of Chafecombe (see post, p. 326), yet they are not, paternally at least, of Saxon origin, which at once accounts for their continued possession of Chafecombe under Norman rule, for though their representative then nominally became sub-tenant under the Bishop of Coutance, he practically remained the owner of the land of his ancestors under the newly-devised feudal system. This was "Ralph Fitz-Reginald," the grandson of Hugo or Hugh, whose own names and those of his immediate posterity and their adoption of the Norman "Fitz" as expressive of their parentage, sufficiently prove that the long prevalent idea as to the "Saxon origin of the Chafecombe family" is as erroneous as the position of its earliest ascertained members in Saxon England is unique and interesting.

"Hugo," who is said by many of his English detractors to have been of "mean origin, and the son of a French churl," was the confidential adviser of Emma of Normandy, second wife of King Ethelred, and came to England in her train in the year 1002. It is a well-known historical fact that the constant incursions of the Danes, which marked that period, were secretly encouraged by the Queen, who detested the English and despised her husband, whom she had married purely from political motives. That her Norman follower was faithful to her, to her second husband, King Knut the Dane, and to her children, is shown by his retention of his property at Chafecombe under Saxons, Danes and Normans, and although King Edward the Confessor had suffered for some quarter of a century by the interpolation of the Danish dynasty, he evidently recognized the fidelity Hugo had evinced towards his royal mother.

With the title of Ealdorman, or Earl, Hugo was sent into the West very soon after the arrival of Queen Emma. He had secret instructions, which he seems to have followed implicitly, and which resulted in the siege of Exeter by Sweyn, to whom the garrison, under the command of Earl Hugo, capitulated August 19, 1003. The fortifications were demolished, the people were put to the sword, and the memory of the "Norman governor," who left with the besiegers, was long held in execration. Exeter was betrayed, says Hovenden, who wrote if the reign of Henry II, through "perjurium, et proditionem, Normanici comitis, Quem Emma Domnanis præficerat."

The term "Ealdorman" was subsequently supplanted by "Thegn," and we next hear of Hugo as "Thegn of Chaffcumbe" during the reign of Ethelred, which continued until April, A. D. 1016. His son, Reginald "Fitz Hugo" is shown by the Domesday record to have been joint-owner of the "vill of Chaffcumbe on the day King Edward was alive and dead," that is to say, on January 5, 1065-66. He had also a separate manor in that parish, and other lands, quite independently of his joint holding. At the Norman conquest King William gave the whole of the Chafecombe property to his Chief Justiciary and powerful favourite, Jeffery, Bishop of Coutance, in Normandy, who, however, permitted "Ralph Fitz-Reginald" to succeed his father in the "whole township" as "sub-tenant." The latter's son, Robert Fitz-Ralph, succeeded to the lands held by his ancestor, Reginald Fitz-Hugh, and is described as "Lord of Chaffcumbe," and as holding lands of the King-in-Chief to the value of one knight's fee, in the reign of Henry I.

From the Black Book of the Exchequer, we learn that his son and successor, "Ranulph Fitz-Robert," owned the manor lands together with the town of Chafecombe and the perpetual advowson and right of presentation to the parish church in the following reign, and that the Lord of Chafecombe in the time of Henry II was Robert Fitz-Ranulph, who had a younger brother known as "Ranulph Fitz-Ranulph."

Robert, Lord of Chafecombe, had an only child, Agnes, who was "Lady of Chaffcumbe" in her own right. By her first husband, who bore the well-known Devonshire name of Avenel, she had two daughters, co-heirs, Emma and Margery. She married secondly one of the Justices in Eyre, John de Aure, and had by him a third daughter, Margaret, and a son, John de Aure, who died in his mother's lifetime and without issue.

The line of Emma of Chafecombe, the eldest co-heir, terminated with Idonea de Insula, her great-granddaughter, in the reign of Edward I. Margery had issue only by her second husband, Philip de Cantilupe, a family now maternally represented by Lord De La Warr, and well known in this county in connection with Broadhempston. Her son and heir, Balderic de Cantilupe, is mentioned in legal proceedings connected with the advowson of Chafecombe in 1275, being then in his minority. Margaret de Aure, the third co-heir, had two sons, John and Odo. They are also mentioned in law proceedings as late as the years 1294 and 1295.

Between these co-heirs and their representatives the lordship of Chafecombe seems to have become divided, although there was a certain amount of interpleading on the part of "Robert Fitz-Ranulph." The latter is the ancestor of the present race of Chafy and Chaffe; he was the son and heir of "Ranulph Fitz-Ranulph," already mentioned as younger brother of the Lord of Chafecombe and uncle of Agnes, the inheritrix of the property. His father had received, for his younger son's portion, "one carrucate of land in Chaffecumbe," as shown by existing documents. The son of Robert Fitz-Ranulph is especially noteworthy as being the first of the family who assumed a regular surname, which was, of course, derived from his property. As "Thomas Chafe" of Chafecombe, he was seized of land "of the inheritance of Robert, his father." He married Matilda, daughter of Andrew de Bosco (Anglice, Boys) of Knolle, Co. Somerset, and died in 1281. His widow recovered the custody of his son and heir, Thomas Chafe, against a certain cleric known as William de St. Esprit, in 1284.

This Thomas Chafe of Chafecombe married Christina, daughter and heir of Robert de Mandevill, youngest son of Geoffry de Magna Villa (Steward of Normandy in right of his mother, Margaret, daughter of Eudo Dapifer), by his wife, Rohesia, daughter of the Chief Justice of England Alberic de Vere. Geoffry de Magna Villa was the first Earl of Essex so created by King Stephen and confirmed by the Empress Maud. He was afterwards in rebellion against the King and plundered the abbeys of St. Albans and Ramsey; ultimately, during a raid on a Kentish castle, he was shot through the head with an arrow, having discarded his helmet in consequence of the heat of the sun. His granddaughter, Christina Chafe, seems to have been dowered with lands in Somerset, since known as Kingstons Mandevill, and which were sold by her husband in or about the year 1310. She had two sons, the youngest being called Andrew.

The eldest brother of the last named left three daughters co-heirs, who divided the lands their father had held in Chafecombe about the middle of the fourteenth century. Their uncle, Andrew Chafe, who was seized of lands in Chafecombe, seems to have died at Bridgewater subsequently to 1375, and his son, Thomas Chafe, is the last of the family who is described as of Chafecombe. He was living at Bridgewater in 1405, and his son, John Chafe, who succeeded him there, had also land in Devonshire, on which he is shown to have paid subsidy. He was alive at Bridgewater in 1413. His son, John "Chafie," who fought at the Battle of Agincourt, left the property at Bridgewater to his son, also called John, who seems to have resided at Ilminster, and was the father of Richard "Chafy" of Sherborne, Dorset, who was also seized of the Somersetshire property in 1522, in which year he died.

This Richard "Chafy" had three sons, viz., John "Chafy" of Sherborne and of Holwell, Co. Somerset—the direct ancestor of the Reverend Dr. Chafy, now of Rous Lench Court, Co. Worcester; Richard "Chaffie" of Holwell, whose male line is extinct; and William "Chaffie" of Wellington, who also inherited property at Sherborne, and was the ancestor of the Devonshire branch of this ancient family. He had two sons, Robert and Nicholas. The latter's two younger sons, Peter and William Chaffe, acquired lands at Buckfastleigh, in this county, and were seized of them in the year 1660, and their name and race still flourish in that and neighbouring parishes.

The uncle of the said Peter and William, Robert Chaffe, resided in the parish of St. Petrock, Exeter, of which city he was mayor in 1568, 1575 and 1576, and he was also governor of the "Guild of Merchant Adventurers"—an important federation which was incorporated by Queen Elizabeth. His will, in which he mentions his birthplace at Wellington, was proved 13th August, 1580. He had been buried in the nave of Exeter Cathedral on 26th July. By his wife, Elizabeth Biggleston, he had five sons and two daughters. Of these Robert and George were both of Exeter, and were living there in 1605 and 1611; Richard, another son, was seized of land also in Exeter at his death, 12th May, 1596; and Thomas, the second son, resided in the parish of St. Olave, in the same city. He married Dorothy, second daughter of John Shorte, of the parish of St. Petrock. His will was dated 24th May, 1604, and at his death he owned the parsonage of Constantine and the tithes of St. Winnow, both in Cornwall. His eldest son, William, died without issue in 1604. John, the second son, married Anna Mayho (and was father of Thomas "Chafe" of Sherborne; admitted of the Middle Temple, June 25th, 1631, to whom I shall have again to refer). Thomas, the third son, was of Doddscot, in the parish of St. Giles on the Heath. Besides these sons there were four daughters—Pascha, of whom presently; Elizabeth, who married John Mules; Dorothy, wife of Robert Biggleston; and Richarda (marriage license dated February 1st, 1611, "to be married at Penhoe,") whose husband, Humphrey Curzon, then of London, merchant, afterwards resided in South Street, Exeter, in a house recently removed, and which was situated on the right hand side of the entrance to College Hall, and in which was a shield of the arms of Curzon: Arg. on a bend between 3 wyverns' heads sa. 3 martlets? Imp. Chafe, az. 5 fusils in fesse arg.

Between Thomas Chafe and his third sister, Pascha, there appears to have been a very strong affection; and it was, perhaps, on this account that he took up his residence at Doddscote, a property with which he had no apparent family connection. Pascha Chafe was the wife of Tristram Risdon of Winscot, the celebrated local antiquary, who, at the time of his marriage, 1608, had left Oxford, and had been at work upon his Devonshire History for three years. He does not appear at this time to have been particularly steady, or at all events during the few subsequent years, and did not succeed in acquiring the esteem of his mother-in-law, old Mrs. Chafe.

That lady made her will 23rd March, 1611, and was buried with her husband in St. Olave Church, 3rd October, 1612.

She describes herself as Dorothie "Chafe," widdowe, and leaves £5 to the poor of Exeter, and 5s. to the prisoners in the goal of the Castle. She states that her late husband, Thomas Chafe, by his will gave all his silver plate amongst his children, to be allotted and divided between them at her discretion; and this plate, which must have been particularly handsome and valuable, she proceeds to apportion as follows:—

She gives to her daughter, Elizabeth Mules, a tankard of silver double gilt, with cover belonging to the same, and a double gilt silver goblet. To her daughter, Dorothy Bigleston, a tankard of silver with its cover "pcell gulted," a goblet of silver double gilt, and six silver spoons.

The next bequest to her daughter, Pascoe Risdon, must have afterwards formed a portion of the family plate at Winscot, and is therefore specially interesting. She gives her a white silver tankard with its cover, a "goblet of silver pcell gulted, a little trencher salt of silver double gulted, and half a dozen of silver spoons, with apostles' heads."

To her daughter, Richarda "Curzane," who, as I have previously mentioned, seems to have resided in South Street, Exeter, she gives her second-best silver salt, double gulted, with its cover, an ale cup of silver, double gult, a "little silver bowle," and half a dozen apostle spoons. To her son Thomas "Chafe," "a beere bowle of silver, a little ale cup of silver, and a little goblet of silver."

To her son John Chafe, she says, "I give during his natural life the use and occupation of my best salte of silver, double gulted, with the cover, a sack cup of silver, double gilt, and one white bowle of silver," with remainder to the son and heir of the said John, and in default to his eldest daughter.

Her son Thomas appears to have been the intimate friend of Tristram Risdon, and to have occasioned her no small amount of anxiety. He must have been much younger than Risdon, as the inscription on his tomb shows that he was born in 1585. He appears to have been educated for the law, and is described in the pedigree as a barrister; he took his degree at Exeter College, Oxford, but seems to have been both careless and extravagant, judging from the next paragraph in his mother's will.

After leaving him, in addition to the plate mentioned above, his father's gold signet ring and all his father's books, she adds: "Alsoe whereas the said Thomas my Sonne heretofore to my great greife and dislikinge, in Ryston's manner, hath most vainely wasted and consumed a farr greater porcion of my goods than my abilitie was or now is able to afforde him for his mayntenance, but now hath faithfully promised unto me reformacon and amendment of the same, therefore my will mynde and intent is, that if my said sonne doe nowe give over those his ill courses and practises wch he hath need with all other such lyke misdemeanors, and doth henceforth apply himself to learninge as he ought to doe, so as by reason thereof at the tyme of my death, by the opinion and judgment of my overseers hereafter named he shall be by them adjudged and thought worthie, upon his amendment, and not otherwise, then I bequeath him £100 to be paid three months after my death." To this will her elder son, John, is executor, and administration was granted P. C. C., 3rd October, 1612.

The overseers were Philip Biglestone, her uncle, and Robert Chafe, her brother-in-law.

Whether Thomas Chafe reformed sufficiently to entitle him to the £100 I cannot say. He lived for many years subsequently at peace with his relatives, as shown by his own curious will, which bears date September 24th, 1648, and was proved P. C. C., 18th February, 1648-9.

He desires to be buried in decent and silent manner "some few hours before the candle doth inherit the Suns office." He gives to the poor of St. Giles 20s., and to his wife a mourning gown, and "his bedsted with the greene curtains while she lives." To his niece, Mrs. Catherine Brookin, £20, and to her husband, Thomas Brookin, £5. He adds, "I would heartily acknowledge another niece, but her impious deserts deserve nothing for present but tears and prayers that she may prove second Mary."

He mentions his "dearly beloved" sisters, Mrs. Dorothy Biglestone and Mrs. Richard Curson. His nephews, Philip, John, and Thomas Biglestone, his cousin Peter, and his "gratious" cousin James Biglestone.

He also refers to his niece, Mrs. Dorothy Biglestone, and to his nephews, Thomas, John, and George Curson. He gives his niece, Mrs. Mary Serrell, £6 for a "memento," to his "virtuous" niece Mrs. Margaret Yeo 20s., and to her good husband 10s., and desires "their noble goodness to accept of my myte." There are bequests to his loving niece, Mrs. Joane Serrell, to his nephew, William Ryledon, and to his friends, Arthur Rolle and Thomas Baylis, "a little piece of plate with my arms thereon," for the purchase of which money is devised to his executor. He leaves his nephew's wife, Catherine, £1, 2s. for a ring with a death's head thereon, and he gives £40 to, and settles his plate upon, "my hopefull Godson and young nephew Thomas Chafe." He further requires his Exor. to inter his body "as neere as he can by my Sister Risedon, and I doe ordain appointe and require £30 rather more than lesse to be bestowed in a monument of my Effigies by my Executor, of whose love herein I am not diffident, who have reaped so many gratuities formerly from mee, and now in present burthening his conscience for effecting it as he shall answer Coram Deo. I desire him to inscript in my monument some memory of his good Aunt Rysedon, and of the family deceased there interred, also of my wife and her two children, no great onus to an ingenious, generous, and gratefull minde."

The executor and residuary legatee is his nephew, Thomas Chafe, Esq., councillor-at-law; and the will concludes with the following quaint words:

"This my last will and Testament written with mine own hande and soe well known that I do not greatly repute the subscription of Witnesses to strengthen it. And this my last will and Testament to corroborate and to make it legall I doe impresse my seale and subscribe my name the day and yeare above written.

"Vale T. CHAFE, Scripsi."

"Item vale T. C. Laws deo pax Hominibus.

T. Chafe de Doddscott."

In accordance with his uncle's injunctions, Thomas Chafe erected in the chancel of St. Giles, and within the altar-rails, a high tomb to the memory of deceased, with his effigy thereon. The figure, with moustache and peaked beard, is lying upon the right side, the face supported by the hand, the elbow resting upon a cushion. The costume consists of a coif or skull-cap which entirely conceals the hair, a short cloak with tight sleeves, and which being open in front shows that the body is protected by a cuirass, frequently worn in those troublous times, fastened down the front with studs; breeches and long stockings gartered below the knee with roses or knots, and on the feet are low shoes similarly decorated. There were also two female figures, who probably represented the two children referred to in the will. Over the figure are three coats of arms. In the centre the ancient, but questionable, arms of Chafe, already blazoned, with mantling and crest: A demi lion ramp. or, holding between its paws a fusil, az.

On the dexter side; Chafe impaling Burgoyne: Az. a talbot pass. arg. in chief a mullet.

And on the sinister side Risdon: Arg. 3 bird bolts sa., impaling Chafe.

During the "restoration" of St. Giles' Church, to which I have already alluded, this monument was taken down and removed from its original position to another part of the building. The two female figures then disappeared; and I understand that "they fell to pieces, and could not be put together again."

The inscription upon the front of the monument is as follows:

The spaces left blank for Margery Chafe's death have never been filled in. She was buried with her husband 30th March, 1655.

Thomas Chafe must have passed his sixty-second birthday, since he died in the year of his "grand climacteric" (which was 7x9), and therefore in his sixty-third year. The inscription actually gives the age as 47, which is obviously owing to a mistake of the stone-cutter, who failed to enlarge the letters "u" in "medicus" and "x" in "uxorem," had this been done, the age would have appeared correctly—62. I have made the necessary alterations above, in view of the fact that the inscription has become very faint, and unless the words are recut, they will speedily become almost entirely obliterated. Chafe's sister, Pascha, had predeceased him, although she survived her husband, Tristram Risdon, for about six years. Her will was proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 10th September, 1647. It is dated April 21st, 1646, and in it she is described as "Pascoe" Risdon, of "Winscott," in the parish of St. Giles, and county of Devon, widow. She gives her son, William Risdon, "her heir and sole Executor," "the Manor of Winscott and the Barton farm & demesne thereof and all her other lands in Devon for ever." This bequest upsets the assertion of the authors of the additions to Risdon (p. 422, edit. 1811), who state that Giles Risdon (her eldest son, who had then been dead about two years) "inherited the estate after his father, and was succeeded by his brother William."

She gives her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Margery Risdon, two stocks of bees and her still. To "my daughter, Mrs. Joane Hearle, all my best woollen and linnen apparel and my wedding-ring." To my grandchild, Margaret Rattenbury, £5 at sixteen years of age. Her daughter, Margaret, had died 26th of August, 1636, and her memorial inscription is given by Prince in the Worthies of Devon. She likewise leaves to her grandchild, Joane Hearle, "a bearing blanket and all my child bed linnen." There are also bequests to several of her god-children, and to John Maddcote, "godson of my husband, Mr. Tristram Risdon, deceased." The overseers are her nephew, Thomas Chafe, already mentioned, and her son-in-law, Mr. James Hearle.

William Risdon, of Winscot, the second son of the antiquary, proved his mother's will, and succeeded to the property at her death. He died in 1701, and was buried in St. Giles' Church with his family. He had one daughter, Mary, who by her first husband, John Prust, had one child, a daughter, who died in infancy. She was subsequently married three times—viz. to Amos Rolle, to John Holland, and to John Stafford—but had no issue by either of them, therefore Winscot ultimately descended to Joane, daughter of James Hearle and Joane his wife, the daughter of Tristram Risdon. This Joane, who by her grandmother's will is to receive "two bearing blankets," and other equally useful articles, became the wife of Edward Lovatt, of Corfe, in the parish of Taws Tock, who was the sixth son of Sir Robert Lovatt, of Liscombe, in Buckinghamshire. Her husband gave a large silver flagon to the church of Taws Tock. They had three children—Robert, who died without issue; Joan, who married Hatch; and Penelope, who was the wife of Sir Henry Northcote, M. D., the fourth baronet, and the present Lord Iddesleigh is now the representative of Tristram Risdon. Winscot, which descended in the Northcote family, has of late years become the property of the Hon. Mark Rolle.

Thomas Chafe, the executor of his uncle's will, was, as I have stated already, the son of John Chafe, and of his wife, Anne Mayho. He survived until 1662, married Katherine, daughter of Sir Thomas Malet, and left a son and six daughters. The son, also called Thomas, acquired property near Sherbourne, with his wife, Susanna Molyns, and went to reside at Folke. He was patron of the Rectory of Constantine, in Cornwall. The death of his only son, Molyns Chafe, S. P., in 1685, terminated the male line of this branch of the family.

Their ancestor, as I have already said, was William "Chaffe," of Wellington, who was the younger brother of John Chafy, of Sherbourne, who was buried at Stoke under Hamdon, 26th Sept., 1558. He was the father of Thomas "Chafye," of Sherbourne, whose grandson, "Robert Chaffie, of the same place, married Elizabeth, daughter and heir of William Hambridge, of East Coker, County Somerset, and niece and heir to Joseph Compton, of Yeovil. This William Hambridge was the second son of John Hambridge, of East Coker (who was twelfth in direct descent from Stephen de Hambrige, Lord of Hambrigge, in Somerset, in the reign of Henry II), by his first wife, Joan, daughter and co-heir of William Hemenford. (He married, secondly, Katherine, daughter of Sir John Sydenham.) Mrs. "Chaffie's" mother, Elizabeth Compton, ultimate heir to her brother Joseph, was sixteenth in descent from Walter of Compton, Co. Somerset, who held that property under the Bishop of Salisbury, at the time of the Domesday Survey, and whose younger great-grandson, Martin de Compton, gave name to an estate in Marldon, Co. Devon, and there founded Compton Castle, which, with the heiress of Compton, passed to the Poles, and thence to Doddescombe, and ultimately became divided between Worthe and Gilbert. Through this marriage, the Chafys, who already quartered the arms of Boys and Mandeville, obtained the right to add those of Hambrigg, Micheldever, Compton, de Alva, Newton, and Helpeston. Walter Chafe, of Sherborne, baptized there 28th December, 1653, was the grandson of the Compton heiress. He acquired the additional armorials of Scott, of Child-Okford, by his marriage with Ann Scott, heir to her brothers George and John Scott, of Sherborne. His son, John "Chafy," Rector of Lillingham, and of Purse Caundle, Dorsetshire, married Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of Capt. John Corbyn, of Hazlebury Brian, and the direct descendant of Sir Philip Corbyn, Kt., of Corbyn, Co. Stafford, in the reign of Henry I, and thus acquired the quarterings of Corbyn, Brian (of Hazlebury Brian, Co. Dorset, temp. Hy. III), De Cancy, and Warren. The Heraldry of the House of Chafy became repeated by the marriage of the younger son of the last-named, the Rev. William Chafy, Vicar of Faversham and Sturry, and Minor Canon of Canterbury, with his first cousin's daughter Mary, daughter of John "Chafie," of Sherbourne; their eldest son, Dr. William Chafy (C. C. Coll., Cambridge, Master of "Sidney Sussex," and Vice-Chancellor of the University, Chaplain-in-Ordinary to her Majesty the Queen, and to her three royal predecessors), married, 4th Dec., 1813, Mary, daughter and co-heir of John Westwood, of Chatteris, in the Isle of Ely, and the descendant and representative of William de Westwode, who was seized of lands in Lek, County of Stafford, jure uxoris, 37th Hy. III. His wife, was the daughter and heir of Clement de Dysteley, by Matilda, daughter and heir of Robert Fitz-John, the owner of the said manor of Lek.

Doctor Chafy was buried in Sidney Sussex College Chapel in May, 1843. He died, universally respected and lamented, on the 16th of that month.

Doctor Chafy, of Rous-Lench Court, Worcestershire, is the eldest son by his first marriage with Annette, daughter of the Rt. Rev. Samuel Kyle, D. D., Lord Bishop of Cork, Cloyne, and Ross, of the only son of the Master of Sidney Sussex College, who died in 1873.

Doctor Chafy was baptized by the names of William Kyle Westwood, 17th July, 1841, and assumed the additional name of Chafy in pursuance of a too loosely worded claim in the will of his grandfather, from whom he inherited a small property at Haslebury Brian, some scattered fragments of Chafy property in Dorset and Somerset, and an estate at Sheriff's Lench, in Worcestershire.

He graduated at Christ Church, Oxford; was ordained deacon in 1869, and priest in 1870. He was subsequently for two years curate in sole charge of Lydford, in this County; for an account of the church of that parish, see my Devonshire Parishes, Vol. I, pp. 220-248. Dr. Chafy, who took his D. D. degree in 1891, married, 2d May, 1872, Mary Clara, the second daughter of the late Evelyn Philip Shirley, of Ettington, Co. Warwick, and Lough Trea, Co. Monaghan, the well-known author of the Noble and Gentle Families of England, of the History of the County of Monaghan, etc., and who was the great-grandson of the Hon. George Shirley, of Ettington, fifth son of the first Earl Ferrers, who terminated the abeyance of the ancient baronies of Ferrers of Chartley, Courchier, and Louvaine, his grandmother, Lady Dorothy Devereux, having been daughter and co-heir of Robert, last Earl of Essex, of the house of Devereux, from whom Mr. Shirley inherited his Irish property in Co. Monaghan. These baronies are now again in abeyance, between the representatives of the daughters of the eighth Lord Ferrers.

Doctor Chafy's son and heir, Hugh Edmund Chafy-Chafy, was born at Lidford Rectory, May 17, 1876. He has also a second son and four daughters.

The arms used for many centuries by this family, "azure, five fusils in fesse, argent, a canton of the last," and which surmount the tomb already referred to in the parish church of St. Giles in the Heath, have been superseded, since 1822, by Doctor Chafy's predecessors. In pursuance of an Earl Marshal's warrant in that year directed to the Kings of Arms, consequent upon the application of the Rev. W. Chafy, great-grandfather of the present owner of Rous-Lench, a coat, which satisfactorily marks the descent of the Chafys from Hugo, Thegn of Chafecombe, and his connection with the Saxon Earldom of Devon, the badge of which was a gryphon then, and down to the commencement of the third century after the Conquest, was granted to him and his heirs, and may be thus blazoned:—Per pale gules and azure, a gryphon segreant, argent; on a chief, engrailed erm., three lozenges in fess of the second Crest, on a mount vert, a peacock in its pride, between two palm-branches, all ppr.

ENGLISH AND CANADIAN LINEAGES

James Chaffey was born in Somersetshire, England, in 1747, and died in Indian Island, N. B., Canada, March 20, 1797. He married there, about 1774, Elizabeth, daughter of John Le Fontaine, or Fountain, as it became anglicized. She died September 10, 1829, aged seventy-five, and was buried in Indian Island.

James Chaffey's father was a resident of Somersetshire, England. He had twenty-one children, and besides James, one other son, a brewer by occupation, came to America, but not liking the country returned to England. James Chaffey learned the goldsmith's trade in London. The last Christmas before he sailed for America he dined at his father's table, surrounded by his twenty brothers and sisters. He embarked in a vessel bound for Boston, Mass., but after putting out to sea, the captain found that his sealed orders instructed him to go to the Coast of Guinea for a load of slaves. After getting their cargo of human beings, they once more headed for America, but a storm disabled their vessel, and leaving the slaves on the sinking ship, the passengers and crew were taken off by a passing vessel; James Chaffey said that the sinking ship, with its human cargo, was a heart-rending sight. The vessel landed her passengers in Philadelphia, Pa., and after a brief sojourn there, James Chaffey started for New England, and settled in Gouldsboro, Mass. (now Maine), where he engaged in trade. Soon after he went to Indian Island, where he entered into the fur trade with the Indians. He is said to have been the first white settler in that place, and his store and house were the first ones seen by the Passamaquoddy Indians in their own country. After living there for some years alone he was joined by a settler from Port Royal, John Le Fontaine, whose daughter he afterward married.

James Chaffey carried on an extensive and lucrative business in fish and fur; his fearlessness and integrity gained for him the respect of the Indians, and he gained great influence and power over them. It is told of him that during the Revolutionary War Colonel Allen sent a party of Indians to him to make him say he loved General Washington. Although he was ill in bed, and the Indians gathered around him with uplifted tomahawks and drawn knives, he refused to renounce his fidelity to his country, and the Indians left without doing him injury.

James Chaffey and his brother John did a large trading business with the West Indies, owning and controlling two vessels and two brigs. Owing to competition with American ports, the business of Indian Island with the West Indies grew less, and where it had formerly taken thirteen vessels to carry on this trade, at last there was only one, the brig Chaffey, to carry on what had once been a large and successful business. "Mr. John Chaffe, the senior member of the firm of John Chaffe & Sons, of New Orleans, died here in Minden, La., at the residence of his brother. He had been sick for some time of flux, and was thought to be better, but became worse and soon died.

"The deceased was born in Devonshire, England, and came to America just as he attained his majority. Obtaining employment on a farm on Staten Island, he studied at night and laid the foundation for the education which in after years served him so well. After spending some years on the farm Mr. Chaffe was employed to take charge of the business of a gentleman at Morristown, N. J. Continuing his studies, he soon mastered all that was essential to a thorough business education, and, declining offers in the North, he came to Louisiana in 1839 and established himself in business in Minden, in Webster parish. Here he made quite a fortune. When the war broke out he was appointed funding agent for the Confederate government, which position he filled to the satisfaction of that government. In 1865, when the war closed, Mr. Chaffe was called on to pay $20,000 to New York creditors. Although he had paid this amount to the Confederate government, Mr. Chaffe, with that strict sense of business integrity which had marked his entire life, paid the claim in full. After the war Mr. Chaffe came to New Orleans, where he established the cotton house of John Chaffe & Sons, which firm now occupies a high position in commercial circles.

"He was never an active politician, but in 1879 he was elected a member of the Constitutional Convention of the State.

"Upright, honest, kind and just, Mr. Chaffe enjoyed the esteem of all his business acquaintances and the love of his friends. At the time of his death Mr. Chaffe was a member of the National Cotton Planters' Association and Perfect Union Lodge, F. and A. M." [New Orleans Times-Democrat.]

"Sunday night towards midnight, at the residence of his brother, in Minden, La., Mr. John Chaffe, a well known merchant of this city, breathed his last.

"Mr. Chaffe had been sick just three weeks, and although his death was hourly expected for a number of days, he rallied to such a degree on Friday last that his family felt confident that he would recover. This hope, however, proved delusive.

"John Chaffe was a native of Devonshire, England, and was born on April 30, 1815, hence was 73 years old at the time of his death. He came to this country in 1836, landing in New York in June of that year. He went to work shortly after his arrival on a farm in New Jersey, but subsequently took charge of a business house in Morristown, where he remained several years.

"The gentleman whose business Mr. Chaffe managed in Morristown had large business interests in New Orleans, and from him the young man heard enough of the Crescent city to induce him to locate there. He consequently came to New Orleans and went to work in the grocery house of Van Rensselaer & Co. By energy and thrift he soon amassed sufficient means to start in business on his own account in the town of Minden, La. Here, in 1844, Mr. Chaffe married Miss Hamilton, daughter of Colonel William Hamilton of Macon, Ga. At Minden Mr. Chaffe's business prospered and at the breaking out of the war he was possessed of considerable property. Mr. Chaffe was too old to do active service in the field for the confederacy, but he served as a funding agent for the confederate government with fidelity and ability.

"After the war Mr. Chaffe located in New Orleans, and his house has been for years one of the leaders in the cotton trade of this city. Although a merchant,

Mr. Chaffe was also an extensive cotton planter, and besides owned several large sugar estates, hence was identified with all the leading industries of Louisiana.

"He was noted for his sterling integrity, and was universally popular in business circles.

"Mr. Chaffe was a member of the state constitutional convention of 1879, was a prominent member of the Cotton Exchange, and has been connected with a number of social organizations. He leaves six sons and three daughters to mourn his loss. His remains have been brought to this city, and his funeral will take place from Trinity church this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock."
